3 Pitchers Blasted As Yankees Repeat 8-1 Rout of Giants

Ruffing Scatters Foes' Only 7 Hits, Strikes Out 8, Squelches Last-Inning Rally, and Drives in 3 Runs With 2 Clouts.

SCENE NOW SHIFTS TO POLO GROUNDS

Schumacher to Hurl Against Monte Pearson Today; Odds 10 to 1, Favoring Americans.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The world champion Yankees today exploded the last thin vestiges of the myth that they can be beaten by good left-handed pitching.

Simultaneously and by the characteristic strategy of the booming baseball, they shellacked the Giants for the second straight day by the same score, 8 to 1, and moved majestically in the direction of their second straight World Series conquest at the expense of their neighboring rivals.

The Yankees gave towering Cliff Melton the same rough treatment this afternoon that they handed to the renowned Carl Hubbell the day before.

Unless Athletics Quickly.

They got their attack under way quicker and spread it out over three innings, instead of just one. They drove the rookie southpaw of the Giants from the box in the fifth inning, routed Harry Gumbert in the sixth, and coasted home comfortably behind the effective pitching of their burly right-hander, Charley (Red) Ruffing.

While the Yankees were blasting an even dozen hits off the combined pitching of Melton, Gumbert and Dick Coffman, Ruffing scattered the Giants' seven hits, struck out eight batsmen, and squelched a last-inning rally in which the Giants filled the bases, with two out.

Ruffing not only registered his first World Series triumph since 1932, meantime making amends for two false starts against the Giants a year ago, but his bat struck the most decisive blows for the world champions.

The big right-hander, most stubborn holdout in the major last spring after demanding an extra $1,000 for his hitting ability, drove home three of the Yankees' eight runs with a pair of rousing hits. His first blow climaxed the Yankee uprising against Melton in the fifth, drove in what proved to be the winning run, and knocked the gangling southpaw from the box.

Ruffing's second hit was a two-bagger against the left-field barrier that brought two mates across, in the sixth, and knocked Gumbert off the mound.

Take One-Run Lead.

The Giants, as in the first game, had taken a one-run lead, produced in the opening frame by Dick Bartell's fluky two-bagger and Mel Ott's line single to right, only to have their pitching de-

Una Merkel Rescues Man With Boat-Hook

LAKE ARROWHEAD, Cal., Oct. 7.—(UP)—Una Merkel, blonde film comedienne, late today saved the life of a property man who couldn't swim.

The actress was speeding over Lake Arrowhead when backwash from her motorboat tipped over the boat of Arthur Camp. Camp had gone under three times before Miss Merkel steered her boat to him and held him up with a boat-hook until help arrived.

Camp, who with Miss Merkel, is on location with the "True Confession" company here, was revived by Chief of Police Avans.

JURORS SUMMONED RECORDERS TO TELL OF RACKET TRIALS

Many Fined But Not Bound Over, Andrews Says, Hinting Certain Policemen May Have 'Pulled Their Punches.'

ATTORNEY TYLER ANSWERS QUESTION

Judge Thomas Clears Lawyer in Contempt Citation After He Reads Statement to Court.

Recorders A. W. Callaway and John L. Cone will be summoned before the grand jury today in a new movement to ascertain "whether police officers pulled their punches and withheld evidence" in trial of alleged lottery operators in their divisions.

E. E. Andrews, special prosecutor, last night contacted both the judges, and was given every "pledge of co-operation in putting additional heat on lottery big shots and in committing to the state courts those who should be bound over."

Although there was no mention of alleged pay-offs to influence police officers in their testimony, Andrews pointed out that scores of small fry offenders had been fined by the recorders and not committed to the criminal court of Fulton county, where such operators could be sent under the law.

The ramifications of the new trend may open heretofore unexplored fields in the investigation and give the grand jury additional leverage in its drive to stamp out the bug and ferret out grafting law enforcement officers.

"Both judges have assured me of their full co-operation," Andrews said last night. "They will appear before the grand jury Friday. We propose to ask the judges to help us apply additional heat."

RUM CHASE PERILS THEATER CROWDS

Fleeing Auto Crashes Into Three Other Cars, Police in Wild Pursuit.

Lives of hundreds of theatergoers, downtown pedestrians and motorists were endangered last night as a county police car chased a liquor car at high speed through the heart of the city.

On two wheels, the car circled the Flat Iron Building twice, dashed through theater traffic on Peachtree, weaved in and out of traffic, sideswiped three cars, narrowly missed pedestrians and frightened others before the liquor car crashed into a parked auto and the driver was captured.

Wind from the speeding cars blew the hat from one pedestrian as he jumped to safety by inches at Marietta and Broad.

The high powered county car was driven by Officer Burton Carroll accompanied by his partner, Woodrow Wilson.

Six Charges Made.

The driver of the liquor car, R. H. Quillian, of a Peachtree street address, was booked on six charges after his capture. A companion escaped on foot. Charges

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Judge Grover C. Hall, the Montgomery Advertiser's portly, cigar-smoking and cornbread-eating editor, has been on the warpath. His "jangled nerves" still are jangling.

A "modern" in the Advertiser copy desk ooked a cornbread recipe. That was all right, but the recipe wasn't—not to Grover Cleveland Hall. No sir!

The third item in the recipe specified: "Three teaspoons grated sugar."

Boy Bites Dog To Make Old Saw Ring True

Contrition filling his heart after he had bitten his pet dog "Snooks," Landrum "Bebe" Wooten, three years old, was caught by The Constitution staff cameraman patching up the wound. "I got mad at him and bit him," explained "Bebe," "but I am not mad now and we are the best of friends again." Seeing news potentialities in the occurrence, Mrs. Wooten called The Constitution's Photo Tip Editor and here's the proof that it's news even when a boy bites a dog.

Rome View That Issue Can Be Settled Through 27-Nation Committee Is Given a New Assurance.

ROME, Oct. 8.—(Friday)—(AP)—Italian refusal to take part in a three-power conference on the issue of intervention in Spain's civil war was reported virtually assured today.

Premier Benito Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, of Milan, said Italy would not attend such a conference—proposed by Great Britain and France—without Germany.

In what appeared to be an inspired article from its Rome correspondent, the newspaper reiterated the oft-stated Italian point of view that the issue can be handled best through the 27-nation non-intervention committee in London.

(Great Britain and France proposed a tri-power conference for the withdrawal of volunteers now fighting Spain. They have maintained the issue should be handled directly and not through the non-intervention committee.)

Il Popolo's article said Italy's answer to the Franco-British invitation to a three-power conference practically was ready for delivery today or tomorrow.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The delicate foreign situation, revolving about the undeclared Sino-Japanese war, will be discussed tomorrow at President Roosevelt's cabinet meeting.

Shortly before the chief executive boarded a special train for an overnight ride to Washington, presidential aides here said he would hold his regular Friday session with cabinet officers.

Indications were plain that world affairs would be considered and it appeared likely on account of the general world tenseness, the President would see Secretary of State Hull before the cabinet is convened, probably at 1 p. m. (Atlantic time).

The dawn bombardment, the severest the conflict has produced, shook the whole city. Concussions of the heavy ordnance shattered windows in scores of buildings along the international sector.

Moreover, well-informed persons pointed out, this government is pledged to do everything possible by peaceful means to cooperate in ending the Sino-Japanese conflict, but whether action in the nature of a boycott against the nation could be considered "peaceable" procedure definitely would be a question involved if

WAR MINISTER WARNS JAPANESE WON'T STOP SHORT OF GOAL

CHINESE LEADERS MUST BE PUNISHED GENERAL ASSERTS

Government to Ignore Other Powers; Seizure Plan Is Denied.

The opposition of the United States government to Japan's undeclared war in China will have no influence whatever on Japanese policy, General Sugiyama, imperial war minister, asserts in the following interview with H. R. Ekins, United Press correspondent, who has reached Tokyo after two months on the Shanghai front.

By H. R. EKINS.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
TOKYO, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Japan will carry her war in China to a knockout finish, General Sugiyama, imperial war minister, told me today.

She will ignore the indirect intervention of third powers such as the United States. She insists that she has not violated the nine-power pact, designed to guarantee China's territorial integrity, because she does not intend to interfere with the territorial integrity of that country.

She insists that she has not violated the Kellogg peace pact because she is not the aggressor in this war.

The final aim of Japanese military activity in China is to "restore genuine friendship" between the two countries, Sugiyama said.

Seizure Plans Denied.
Japan does not intend to seize either directly or indirectly a single inch of Chinese territory, he asserted.

Japan feels that the world sympathizes with China because of the traditional habit of mankind for sympathizing with the underdog, he said, adding that this sympathy has been nourished by general anti-Japanese propaganda and particularly by the effective propaganda of the Chinese Nationalists during the past decade. Sugiyama indicated throughout the interview that Japan is anxious to stop the war but will not do so until the Chinese organize a government pledged to friendship with Japan.

The minister received me in his official residence a few hours after news had reached Tokyo that the United States formally had indicated Japan as a violator of the nine powers treaty and the Kellogg pact and condemned her aggression in China. He talked for a solid hour on the army's attitude towards the conflict—an attitude that may be taken as that of the entire Japanese nation.

While expressing regret at Washington's action, Sugiyama emphatically denied that Japan had violated either treaty. "Then he said: 'We don't want intervention by third powers. We want a settlement directly between Japan and China. We shall pursue our punitive employment of arms until China becomes fully convinced of her own blunders. We and our people are fully prepared to do it.'"

Sugiyama's only concession to a complete conclusion of the punitive expedition was that "if China sincerely regrets her misguided past policies and would sue for peace with us, we would welcome it open-heartedly. I say this because the final aim of our employment of arms is in the restoration of genuine friendship between Japan and China. That is our ultimate objective."

I asked why Japan was so perturbed at America's action. "The nine-power pact guarantees China's territorial integrity," Sugiyama replied. "I cannot stress too emphatically that Japan has not and does not have any territorial ambitions on China. It is my solemn pledge as Japanese war minister that we have no territorial ambitions in China. Our object in using arms against China remains the same as at the beginning of hostilities. We mean to punish Nanking and the Chinese military leaders for flagrant violation of promises—outrageous behavior against us—and make them realize their own errors."

Goal Is Described.
"We are fighting solely for this end. Our enemy is not the good and innocent Chinese people. I want to put down clearly and distinctly the fact that as war minister I am most sorry for the international situation which has developed because of Chinese propaganda which has antagonized the Chinese people and foreigners toward us."

Commenting on the invocation of the Kellogg-Brand pact, the minister said: "The pact outlaws war as an instrument of settling international disputes. I want you and the world clearly to understand that the Japanese army made every effort to avoid the use of arms in China."

"Japan has absolutely no intention of violating the spirit of the open door in China. On the contrary, we should welcome the utilization of American and other foreign capital for a forward economic development of China."

I asked: "Does the Japanese army intend to retain the territory conquered in China during the past months?" "No," the minister replied. "Nothing is further from our intention. That covers that."

Conditions Explained.
"What will be the status of the areas now occupied, especially after the promised withdrawal of the Japanese troops?"

"At present we have no intention of enforcing a military administration in the occupied districts. Although this inconveniences us greatly, we are pursuing a policy of letting the Chinese govern themselves. When you understand that you understand the governing spirit of our policy."

"How soon may the resumption of normal business and commercial activity in the great trade centers of China be expected?" "Trade will return to normal when anti-foreign organizations under Nanking's leadership are dispersed. That is already so in North China."

ITALY INDICATES PARLEY REFUSAL

League Action Is Offered as Cause of Position; Paper Scores F. D. R.

ROME, Oct. 7.—(UP)—The Italian government intimated strongly tonight that it would refuse to attend the projected nine-power conference on the Chinese-Japanese war even though it is one of the original signatories of the treaty signed in Washington in 1922.

Italy's opposition to the proposal, it was stated officially, is based on the fact that initiative for the conference came from the League of Nations, which Premier Mussolini has consistently boycotted since the Italo-Ethiopian sanctions crisis two years ago.

"It is a strange procedure," a press ministry spokesman said. "Why should the League issue invitations to such a conference of signatories when the pact was signed at Washington and not at Geneva?"

Fascist leaders emphasized that Italy's attitude toward the suggested conference is the same as Germany's and that the two dictator powers are working as one in conformity with the principles of the Rome-Berlin axis.

This indicated that Germany, although not a nine-power signatory, must turn down the invitation which she is expected to receive. France and Great Britain are prepared to invite Germany and Russia to the conference because of their Far Eastern interests.

Virgilio Gayda, whose newspaper, L'Italia, often reflects Mussolini's views, tonight attacked President Roosevelt, Great Britain and the League for "confusing" the Far Eastern issue and closing their eyes to "the national needs of certain countries."

to whom he might choose to represent this country at the nine-power meeting, called by the League of Nations assembly at Geneva.

The President, with only one appointment during the day, watched the fast-moving world developments from the home of his mother here. It was disclosed that William Phillips, United States ambassador to Rome, called there briefly last night.

Conferences Planned.
Mr. Roosevelt's own appointment today was with Henry N. McCreckin, president of Vassar College, and concerned the President's participation Wednesday in the 25th anniversary celebration of near-by Poughkeepsie. The President will leave Washington Tuesday night to return here.

He will play the cornerstone of Poughkeepsie's new postoffice and make an address. During the President's five-day stay in the national capital he will confer with farm advisers, including Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, on whether a special session of congress should be called for mid-November.

He will hold his regular press conference tomorrow morning and attend the funeral of Mrs. Harry L. Hopkins, wife of the Works Progress Administrator, at Washington Saturday.

Dock Workers in Glasgow Refuse To Load, Unload Munitions for Japan; U. S. Ranks Low in Numbers in Military Forces.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Premier Camille Chautemps, lauding President Roosevelt's appeal for efforts to preserve world peace, promised today that France would support "any peace offensive or any initiative intended to tighten the solidarity of pacific nations."

Terminating the American President's address in Chicago a "decisive moral support" for efforts to keep the world from war, the French premier suggested "conciliatory" study of political questions pertaining the relations of nations—(the Spanish war, the Sino-Japanese conflict).

Addressing the American Club here, Chautemps said France was ready to seek a solution of such problems with "the most profound spirit of equity and conciliation."

"But," he warned, "France is none the less resolved to defend her vital interests, her security and her future, as well as fulfill her obligations to the international community."

Chautemps made no specific proposal but his remarks were interpreted by his audience as an "olive branch" offer to Germany and Italy, accompanied by a careful reminder that Britain and France feel they now have at least the whole-hearted moral backing of the United States—(in pressing Italy and Germany for settlement of the question of aid to Spanish war combatants and in seeking an end to the Far Eastern conflict).

MOSCOW IS PLEASED AT U. S. DENUNCIATION

MOSCOW, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull's condemnation of Japan's undeclared war against China caused a mild sensation in Soviet circles today. Officials made no effort to conceal their pleasure at the State Department's outspokenness.

The statement reached Moscow as officials were sitting down to a farewell luncheon with Alexander Troyanovsky for U. S. newspaper correspondents, before the ambassador leaves tomorrow en route to his Washington post.

Troyanovsky said he was sailing on the Queen Mary October 13. His son, already in the United States, is attending classes at Swarthmore College.

CHURCHILL PRAISES F. D. R. PEACE ADDRESS

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Winston Churchill told the Scarborough conference of the Conservative party today that President Roosevelt's speech was bound to bring an "enormous contribution to the consolidation of those forces in the world which stand for peace and freedom."

Churchill, who was first lord of the admiralty during the World War, urged support of the government and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in this "time of grave anxiety," when "terrible deeds of brutal violence are being perpetrated at different ends of the world."

He stressed the British desire for friendship with Italy but said Britain must consider "the condition of fortifications in the Mediterranean" and other things beside recognition of the Ethiopian conquest.

Churchill warned against exaggerated expectations from the American President's action but insisted that President Roosevelt expressed in "eloquent language exactly the same ideas as are in our minds."

He predicted that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain would welcome President Roosevelt's sentiments in a speech tomorrow.

Catholic Priest Kidnaped.
Domei reported that Japanese naval planes bombed the railroad station at Tsinanfu, south of Tsinanfu. China's sacred mountain, where Confucius was inspired to write his classics, is near Tsinanfu.

Chinese here feared that the United States and League of Nations condemnation of Japan may hasten the Japanese army's reported intention of declaring North China independent of Nanking.

The United States embassy was told by gendarmes at Mukden, Manchukuo, that 300 soldiers are pursuing five bandits who have kidnapped the Rev. Father Gerard A. Donovan, of Pittsburgh, Pa. He was seized from the compound of the Maryknoll Catholic mission at Fushun. Prospects of his recovery, police said, were good.

The previous record for a similar time-period was 60 pecks. Several thousand spectators saw the pickers scurry along freshly dug rows on a two-acre path at Frank Hussey's farm here.

will have to reckon with next session, be it a special session in November or the regular reconvening in January.

Suspicion has been voiced by hostile editors and others that it was to create this situation, by diverting public attention to the crises in China and in Europe, that the President timed his Chicago speech. Their contention is that his action, coming at the close of his western tour, was calculated to push public discussion of the Democratic party split over the court bill last session, the Black-Klan aspect of the squabble, and similar controversies unfavorable to administration plans for the coming congressional session, into the background.

Doubt Move Needed.
Yet even administration critics here doubt that the President needed such a move to support his leadership in the coming session so far as working through his contemplated legislative programs is concerned. They agree with administration, privately at least, that Mr. Roosevelt's western swing demonstrated his continuing popularity, despite the court fight, in the half score states where he appeared. They have small doubt that he can command ample majorities to obtain early passage, in some form, of the farm, wage-hour, anti-child labor, and government reorganization measures provided he does not renew the struggle to reorganize the supreme court.

Among Washington onlookers
Mr. Roosevelt's pointed silence on the court controversy throughout his tour appears much more significant than his refusal after his return to Hyde Park to put court reorganization legislation either on, or off, his program for next session. It would cause intense surprise in Washington, and confusion among some administration close-up advisors, if the President moved to put the court bill on the agenda of the special November session he is contemplating.

Fascist Europe as Visioned by Dictator of Italy

Europe will be Fascist "tomorrow," Mussolini predicted when he visited Germany to grease the Rome-Berlin axis. Here, approximately, is what it is today. Things not so easily shown on a map: That Mussolini and Hitler regard the Fascist-Nazi chain across Europe as a dam against the "red flood" of Communism; that the capitals of the great democracies, England and France, also are linked by an under-standing; that the Scandinavian countries have mutually agreed to stay out of European quarrels.

Roosevelt's domestic legislation program is concerned to reinforce his national leadership by bringing the Sino-Japanese problem out into the open, nevertheless both the fact that he has done so and the manner in which it was done will have a bearing on what happens in congress this winter as most Washington observers see the situation. If it does nothing else, it is argued, it will tend to muffle possible congressional efforts to take a hand in either the Sino-Japanese matter or the crisis in Europe revolving about the conflict in Spain.

The White House faced the certainty that it would be attacked from the two sides in congress on foreign policy.
Demands for strong action short of war threats to rebuke Japan for her new invasion of China, as well as for the methods used and the risks involved for Americans in the China, have been gathering. The Stimson letter to the New York Times illustrates that movement. The President's speech and prompt State Department indorsement of the League of Nations indictment of Japan, and the American readiness to join in a nine-power attempt to stop the conflict in China, have short-circuited that.

Peace Clamor Continues.
Clamor of the other side, the extreme isolationist group as represented by various peace societies, continues. That group demands invocation of the neutrality act and complete American withdrawal from China or other danger zones to avoid danger of war entanglement. It has five spokesmen in congress, some of them in the President's own party. Since negotiations are in progress for concerted nine-power efforts to stop the hostilities in China, however, administration leaders say they expect little difficulty in keeping even debate within bounds that will not prove embarrassing.

JAPAN SCORNS CALL TO END CONFLICT quoted foreign office officials as saying, whether moral pressure, concrete measures or material sanctions against Japan, the empire's fundamental policy will remain unchanged.

Japanese statesmen were described as "surprised and bewildered" at President Roosevelt's declarations in Chicago concerning "concerted action" against aggressor nations and the subsequent State Department condemnation of Japan.

"We had been certain prior to this that the United States understood the situation better than any other country in the world," a high ranking statesman said as Japanese officials were called into emergency session at the foreign office to discuss the news from Washington.

"We felt that the American public was completely enlightened and was traditionally neutral. We completely fail to understand the American action, which is bound to make a very bad impression on the Japanese public."

Japan's views were reassured by General Gen Sugiyama, minister of war, who asserted Japan wants no Chinese territory, but is solely concerned with punishing those Chinese leaders responsible for anti-Japanese sentiment.

"Apparently there is much misunderstanding in the world regarding Japan's aims," the grizzled general said. "To state them simply, we are determined to punish

CHINA IS BIGGEST U. S. ARMS BUYER

$13,605,190 Worth of Material Purchased in Two Years.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(P)— China bought more implements of war from the United States in the last two years than any other country.

Export licenses issued by the state department since October, 1935, show purchases by that country of $13,605,190, mostly for military aircraft.

Soviet Russia ranked a close second with $12,195,109, largely because of orders last month for more than $10,000,000 worth of naval guns and armor plate.

Japan is well down the list with purchases totaling $2,343,245.
During the two years, 8,612 export licenses were issued for war materials valued at $81,829,527.
Argentina, with orders totaling $7,462,128, was the largest South American customer for war instruments. Brazil bought $2,501,218 worth.

War-torn Spain led all European purchasers with $7,406,163.
Other leading buyers included:
Netherlands Indies, $4,734,469;
The Netherlands, $3,304,642; Mexico, $2,852,286; Great Britain and North Ireland, $2,246,471; Australia, $1,345,337; Germany, $1,- where: Violation of the state prohibition law, speeding, violation of the motor vehicle law and three cases of hit-and-run driving. He is held on $6,000 bond.

Irate citizens, witnesses of the chase, called police headquarters and newspaper offices to protest wild chasing of liquor cars in general.

Some said they would seek an injunction to prevent future chases if such an injunction possible.
Carroll and Wilson jumped the liquor car on Gordon road when they suspected it of being a stolen auto. Pursuing it into town, they chased it down Peachtree, around the Flat Iron Building, down Pryor to the courthouse.

Here the police car stalled, but the fleeing car continued its wild flight the driver not knowing the chase temporarily had been abandoned.

Chase Resumed.
Still fleeing a non-existent pursuer, the liquor car turned back down Broad, meeting the county officers after they had restarted their car. The chase was resumed.

Screaming siren and honking horn cleared traffic as the two cars raced down Broad to Marietta, sped through Five Points, turned left up Peachtree, finally ending up on Spring.

The high-powered county car rapidly overtook the light liquor car on the straightaway and the latter dashed in a filling station in a vain attempt to lose the officers.
Failing, the liquor car driver backed hurriedly out and crashed into a parked car belonging to Clifford Barnett, of 965 Todd street, at Baltimore Block.

One man jumped and ran as police pulled in front of the wrecked car, blocking it.

Three city radio cars responded an "officer needs help" call, but Wilson and Carroll had arrested the driver when they arrived.
"Six cases of whiskey and the car were confiscated."

vention in Spain should include public enrollment of foreign volunteers, press campaigns and monetary subscriptions on behalf of one or the other of the warring parties.

It declared neither France nor Great Britain accepted the Italian government's suggestion that such "interference" be added to the prohibitions in the original set-up of the non-intervention agreement.

"It is not Italy's fault if the prohibition of intervention was not extended from the beginning also to volunteers and if this lack made possible Russian military intervention and the enrollment of volunteers in the so-called International Brigade, which was followed by intervention of volunteers also with the Nationalists (Spanish Insurgents)."

(The international brigade has served with the Spanish government forces.)

Call on Clano.

Yesterday's call on the Franco-British note inviting Italy to a three-power conference was made on Count Galeazzo Clano, Italian foreign minister, by Lord Perth, British ambassador to Rome, and the French charge d'affaires, Jules Blondell.

Premier Mussolini and Count Clano have had the note under consideration since Mussolini's return from Germany. It was presented October 2.

In contrast to his rapid decisions on convocation of the Nyon conference and other recent international measures seeking to moderate growing tension in the Mediterranean, Mussolini has let days pass before making up his mind on the present note.

Italian officials said Italy's enemies abroad are spreading false information of troop embarkations for Spain, in the hope of provoking a World War to prevent a victory by Insurgent General Francisco Franco in Spain.

Reinforcements Denied.

Their statement was made in denying reports Italy is sending 125,000 more soldiers to the Insurgents.

Several divisions are being sent to Libya to garrison that colony in accordance with Mussolini's promise on his visit there, but there has been no undue troop movement in Italy and no men are being mobilized for Spanish service, the officials said.

TENSION IS HEIGHTENED AS STANDS STIFFEN

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Europe's tension heightened tonight with a progressive stiffening of Anglo-French and Italian stands on the vital issue of Italian volunteers in Spain.

The situation, which all sides admitted was dangerous, offset optimism over London and Paris attempts to keep the Far Eastern war cauldron from boiling over by sounding out Washington on a nine-power treaty meeting.

Britain and France, irritated by Rome's delay in replying to the invitation to three-power talks, made urgent representations to Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Clano that they cannot wait indefinitely for Italy's answer.

(Yesterday informed sources said France and Britain were giving Rome 24 hours to respond.
Officials said today the 24 hours mentioned was merely an approximate period of grace.)

Reinforcements Rumored.

Both Britain and France, reliable sources said, possess information that many Italian warplanes have found their way into Insurgent Spain recently, and that many volunteers are being concentrated for trans- :ation to bolster Insurgent ranks.

Some quarters described reports that the volunteers number from 60,000 to 70,000 as "conceivable," and said that in view of this Britain and France intend to do their utmost to pin Italy down on the situation.

At its annual conference the British Labor Party approved Great Britain's rearmament and decided to press the government to end its policy of nonintervention in Spain.

The pacifist wing of the party, advocating disarmament, was routed completely by a vote of 2,169-000 to 262,000.

Meanwhile, official quarters expressed optimism over the United States State Department's condemnation of Japan and what was described as a move to "see what further steps" should be taken to curb Japanese invasion of China.

France and Great Britain began a preliminary exchange of views with the United States on convocation of a nine-power conference.
Washington, where the nine-power treaty guaranteeing territorial integrity of China was negotiated in 1922, was suggested as a site for the meeting.

(In Washington, Secretary Hull indicated the government intends to participate in a nine-power conference.)

Roosevelt Praised.

Strong praise of President Roosevelt's address Tuesday urging a "quarantine" of aggressor nations came from speakers at the British Conservative party conference at Scarborough.

Winston Churchill declared the President expressed "in eloquent language exactly the same ideas as are in our own minds." It was expected that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain would praise President Roosevelt's statements in an address tomorrow.

Lord Plymouth, chairman of the London 27-nation nonintervention committee, told the Scarborough meeting that the European situation "is a serious one," with foreign fighters active on both sides of the Spanish civil war.

He added that although Britain "made every effort to gain an atmosphere of mutual confidence with Italy, 'I am afraid it does not exist.'"

Conservatives adopted resolutions expressing confidence in the government.

FRANCE JOINS BRITAIN IN ASKING REPLY

PARIS, Oct. 7.—(P)—The French foreign office, confident of the United States' "decisive moral support," joined Great Britain tonight in asking Premier Mussolini to come through immediately with his long-delayed reply to an invitation to talk on taking foreign soldiers out of Spain.

This action came while Premier Camille Chautemps, referring to President Roosevelt's appeal for universal peace, praised "the powerful and generous voice of the United States."

At the same time, it was disclosed authoritatively that former Premier Leon Blum will go to Washington to confer with Mr.
Roosevelt, probably on war debts and general Franco-American cooperation. The former premier, it was said, will make the trip as a private citizen.

Herriot Lauds F. D. R.
Edouard Herriot, president of the French chamber, speaking before a political gathering at Lyon, said Mr. Roosevelt's peace stand was one of three assuring factors of the moment. The other two, he described as Franco-British friendship and the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance pact.

U. S. AND POWERS ACT TO STOP WAR UNDER AGREEMENT

Hull Makes It Clear This Country Will Participate in Parleys.

and when a decision on such a move confronted the United States.

Davis Summoned.
Norman H. Davis, American "ambassador at large," arrived here late today in response to a hurry call summoning him to Washington from New York on an hour's notice for conferences with the President and Secretary Hull tomorrow.

Davis, one of the President's foremost advisors on European affairs, presumably was summoned to confer on arrangements for American participation in the nine-power conference. He refused to comment on the nature of his mission, however.

Davis was the chief United States delegate to the 1936 London naval conference and represented this government in many previous international parleys.

Hiroo Saito, the Japanese ambassador, called on Secretary Hull late in the day, but told reporters afterward that he had not protested against the American condemnation of his country.

He said he had visited the secretary on his own initiative to "clear up certain points" of information.

Asked if he believed the State Department's denunciation of Japanese actions is likely to strain relations between the two governments, Saito replied emphatically in the negative.

Likelihood of powers other than those which signed the nine-power treaty being invited to the proposed conference was a subject of considerable speculation in the capital.

In any case, officials here have emphasized privately that restoration of peace in the Orient is of such vital concern to all nations that the nine treaty signatories should not be expected to act alone.

Urge Broader Parley.
Senator Thomas, Democrat, Utah, a member of the senate foreign relations committee, touched on this point today when he recommended that Russia and other nations having interests in the Pacific be invited to join the conference.

Opposing a meeting limited to the treaty signatories, he expressed the view that a "workable plan" could be devised if Japan and China were brought together at such a conference, but added that Russia, which is not a signatory, "is the great unknown factor in the situation."

A question arose as to whether five nations which have adhered to the treaty since it was signed originally in Washington in 1922 also would be invited to partici-

Summoned by President

Norman Davis, United States "ambassador at large," President Roosevelt's ace trouble-shooter abroad, flew to Washington yesterday for emergency conferences with the chief executive and Secretary of State Hull.

They are Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Bolivia and Mexico.

The original signatories are the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, China, Japan and Portugal.

Secretary Hull said no consideration has been given as yet to the selection of a delegation to represent the United States.

He declined comment on the recommendation of Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of state, that the United States and Great Britain join in an economic boycott of the Japanese empire.

Silent on League.
The secretary of state also would not disclose the American attitude toward the League of Nations recommendation that its members refrain from any action which might hamper China in its struggle with Japan.

Supporters of China contend that America's neutrality act cannot be applied to the far eastern conflict if this country is to pursue a policy of not hampering the Chinese. China is a heavy purchaser of American war supplies, shipments of which either to China, or Japan, would be prohibited if the neutrality act were invoked.

President Roosevelt thus far has refrained from invoking the act, on the grounds that there has been no formal declaration of war.

The nine-power treaty provides no machinery for inflicting penalties on a signatory found guilty of violating it. It merely provides for consultation among parties when a situation arises in the Far East calculated to affect their interests.

3 FUGITIVES ELUDE HUNDRED HUNTERS

Illinois Convicts Kidnap Two Guards.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 7.—(AP)—One hundred state policemen and guards established a widespread patrol of roads today but failed to trap three convicts who fled from the Stateville penitentiary honor farm.

The fugitives—Gene Moorhead, 28; William Hanley, 37, and James Pogue, 36, all sentenced in Chicago for robbery—sped northwest in the direction of Plainfield in a commandeered car.

The trip knocked out Guard Black with a rock, seized Guard Brunten and forced him to accompany them in his car to a point two miles north of the prison.

Physicians reported Black's skull was fractured.

Meanwhile, a hunger strike within the high walls of the penitentiary ended. The ranks of the fasters, joined by 1,000 felons on Monday, dwindled rapidly until the fadest this morning.

BILBO ASSAILS FOE OF BLACK

Senator Charges Plot to Defeat Court Changes.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 7.—(UP)—Mississippi's fiery junior Senator Theodore G. Bilbo tonight called a Philadelphiaian's efforts to get Associate Justice Hugo L. Black's resignation another plot to defeat President Roosevelt's "commendable" supreme court reorganization.

Bilbo said he received a letter from Robert Gray Taylor, chairman of the Philadelphia court plan committee, urging Bilbo to insist that Black resign because of admitted former Ku Klux Klan connection.

"I voted for confirmation of Supreme Court Justice Black because I was confident I acted in the interest of the preservation of civil liberty and religious tolerance," Bilbo said, "and in the interest of the economic freedom of the people."

to the lottery racket by imposing fines in the recorder's courts and by binding every offender over to the state courts. If we can get that, we are making real progress and the bug men cannot stand the traffic."

"Collapse" Celebrated.
The new trend in the investigation came concurrently with reports that law enforcement officials, reputedly already named to the grand jury, were celebrating the collapse of the bribery angle of the probe.

There were persistent rumors, however, that the recorders may have "been misled in a great many cases by the testimony of officers" and the grand jury is determined to do its utmost to learn if there is any foundation to them.

Guy Tyler, attorney, yesterday "purged himself" from a threatened contempt adjudication when he appeared before Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton county superior court, and agreed to answer questions propounded to him by the grand jury.

Tyler Answers.
Judge Thomas relieved him and he later visited the grand jury room, answered the questions and absolved himself, Andrews said.

Tyler read a written statement to the court in which he said he was also speaking for William R. Bentley, another attorney, who also had been given 48 hours to answer the grand jury questions or stand the consequences.

'Stomach Lottery' Pays Winner $18

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The first "stomach sweepstakes" in the history of Lincoln paid the winner $18.90 today, but Taylor Craig, 21, the originator, was too weak to talk about it.

Craig swallowed a half-dollar last July 14. It didn't bother him so much, but his doctor advised him to undergo an operation for its removal.

Craig started a pool among his friends at a time a chance with the pot going to the one who guessed the closest to the coinage date on the half dollar.

Dr. Clarence Crook made an opening through the abdominal wall, and removed the silver piece—dated 1936. Harry Martin was the best guesser, and he won the $18.90 pot. And Craig got his half dollar back.

He exhibits the same attitude on his return, Andrews said last night, he, too, probably will be given a clean bill.

Tyler read the following statement:

"May it please the court: 'I have always acted on the square with the courts and my fellow man. The court has established the propriety of the question propounded by the grand jury, has ruled its answer legal, relevant, not violating in the least the relationship of attorney and client, and has ordered the same answered.'

"In view of this ruling, it would seem that there can be no reason for the public or anyone to condemn me for obeying the mandate of the court."

"Best of My Knowledge."
"I stand ready to answer the question propounded to the best of my knowledge."

"I respectfully await the pleasure of this court and the grand jury."

"This the 7th day of October, 1937."

When Tyler made his statement Judge Thomas said: "I have always considered you as 'one of my boys' and I had not expected anything else but the attitude you have taken. It was your privilege to question the propriety involved in this matter, but after the court had ruled, I knew your answer would be forthcoming."

Andrews and the grand jury yesterday kept the names of nearly 20 witnesses a secret as they continued to hammer away in their campaign to corral the big shots of the local bug racket with "unimpeachable indictments."

Witnesses Guarded.
One witness was especially guarded and was slipped into the court house, and through the corridors. His name was never made public.

When Andrews emerged from the grand jury room at the close of the day he asserted:

"We are still making real progress. The jury and I are learning more about this business every day. We are getting information now on which we can clinch convictions."

The grand jury exhibited keen interest in a report that at least one time, May 16, this year, large lottery operators refused to pay off on the proper number in the bond sales. The correct figure was 451, but payments were made for the most part on 459 instead.

Practically all the afternoon witnesses before the grand jury were those who had been convicted in the recorder's courts and not bound over to the criminal court, it was said. A number of prisoners also were heard.

Armed with the ever-mounting mass of testimony and the new turns, the grand jury probably will begin resubmitting key witnesses within the next few days and will confront those who had ure of this court and the grand jury.

"This the 7th day of October, 1937."

When Tyler made his statement Judge Thomas said: "I have always considered you as 'one of my boys' and I had not expected anything else but the attitude you have taken. It was your privilege to question the propriety involved in this matter, but after the court had ruled, I knew your answer would be forthcoming."

Andrews and the grand jury yesterday kept the names of nearly 20 witnesses a secret as they continued to hammer away in their campaign to corral the big shots of the local bug racket with "unimpeachable indictments."

Prospective Juror Never Heard of CIO

BARTOW, Fla., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Examination of prospective jurors for the Tampa flogging trial here today uncovered a man who said he never had heard of John L. Lewis or the CIO.

W. C. Horton, a gray-haired farmer, examined by Pat Whitaker, of defense counsel, thought, however, that he had heard of the Workers' Alliance, an organization of WPA workers of which one of the flogging victims is state chairman.

"I heard of it as a boy," the elderly farmer declared.

"This is a new fangled organization," Whitaker said, "you're thinking of the old Farmers' Alliance, aren't you?"

"I guess so."

"Oh, well, that isn't what I'm talking about," Whitaker said.

Warns of Tampering.
Andrews yesterday warned that any attempt to tamper with or influence grand jury witnesses will be dealt with summarily.

In commenting on Tyler, Andrews said:

"He has answered the questions and it has been helpful. Lawyers often disagree on a point of law."

Automobile Trailer Is Turned Into Court

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Superior Judge Charles Davidson convened court in an automobile trailer today because illness prevented Arthur B. Dell, defendant in a separate maintenance suit, from coming to the courthouse.

After hearing testimony in the trailer courtroom, the judge took the case under advisement.

POPE INDIGNANT AT DUCE THRUST

May Publicly Voice Opposition to Editorial.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Pope Pius was represented by prelates today as being indignant over a front page editorial in Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, linking "vacillating Catholicism" with Communism, Socialism and other things objectionable to Il Duce.

They believed the Pontiff would take advantage of a public audience in the next few days to express to the world his opposition to the views expressed in the article.

The Mussolini article, which fascists believe Il Duce himself wrote while at Rocca Della Caminate, his country home, said:

"Capitalism, parliamentarism, Democracy, Socialism, Communism and certain vacillating Catholicism with which sooner or later we shall deal in our style, are against us."

TWO BRITISH SHIPS SEIZED BY REBELS OFF SPANISH ZONE

Unidentified Airplane Attacks Italian Steamer Ettore.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Capture of two British merchant ships by Spanish insurgent armed trawlers and an airplane attack on an Italian steamer off the eastern coast of Spain were reported tonight.

The admiralty announced that the British steamers Yorkbrook and Dover Abbey were captured off the Spanish north coast and taken to the Rebel-held port of Rivedoa.

Both ships were said to have been seized outside Spanish territorial waters.

Lloyd's shipping agency reported that the Italian steamer Ettore was attacked by an unidentified seaplane, which fired several shots, while the ship was proceeding from Amsterdam to Genoa. The Ettore passed Gibraltar yesterday.

Since the beginning of artillery and aerial bombardments of Madrid last November 7, approximately 2,500 persons have been killed, 4,800 injured and about one-fourth of the city has been laid in ruins or rendered uninhabitable.

The day found little actual fighting going on in the Madrid area.

RED CROSS TO GIVE NUTRITION CLASSES

Instruction for Better Health To Be Taught.

How to maintain better health among families and lower food costs through balanced diets will be taught housewives in free classes conducted by Mrs. Fred Wenn, nutrition expert, for the Red Cross in co-operation with the Atlanta Board of Education, Mrs. Harold P. McDonald, chairman of the nutrition committee of the local Red Cross chapter, announced yesterday.

The first class will be held at Red Cross headquarters, 86 1-2 Luckie street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and will be continued at the same hour every Tuesday and Friday until the course is completed, Mrs. McDonald said.

She urged housewives who are suffering from pellagra in their families to attend the classes and learn how to overcome this disease through proper diet.

ELECTRIC INSPECTIONS OF SCHOOLS TO BEGIN

Inspection of all electrical installations in the 70 city schools will be started next week, Daniel Boone, inspector in the office of City Electrician Dewey L. Johnson, announced yesterday.

He notified T. W. Clift, school business manager, that every school will be investigated to determine the safety of the electrical fixtures.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker and City Building Inspector C. J. Bowen already have inspected the buildings from the standpoint of fire hazards and structural safety.

The electrical investigation is the result of Councilman George Lyle's resolution asking complete inspection.

Fixing of Hair Is First Lesson in 'Quest for Charm'

Fixing your hair a new way, keeping it well groomed and waved is one of the first steps to "charm." This magic power of witchery which fascinates and enchants is listed as the first lesson at the "Quest for Charm" school sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls of Atlanta for girls who have reached high school age. Many do not consider that the back of their hair shows as much as the front and two leaders of the Camp Fire organization give an illustration of that much-too-forgotten "backward glance." Left is Miss Mary Hurt and right Mrs. John Boman.

'Quest for Charm' School Offers Courses to Girls of School Age

Atlanta Camp Fire Groups Sponsors of Programs in Giving Pointers on Requisites of Attaining the "Magic Power" That Enchants.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Charm—if you have it, you've got something there.

If not, you had better enroll for the "Quest for Charm" school of the Atlanta Camp Fire Girls. It's the girls who have reached high school age who are beginning the course which will continue for several months.

Miss Mary Hurt, chairman of the program for the Camp Fire Girls, said yesterday:

"Since starting this charm school I think I voice the opinion of many of the Camp Fire Girls when I say that through the looking glass is one of the best and surest ways to charm. By this I mean that when you look into the mirror you see yourself and all your charms, if you have any and worst of all, you see your defects. A mirror, after all, is the only truth teller in general favor and is a journal in which time records his travels. It is a smooth acquaintance but far from a flatterer."

Take Stock of Self.

"If you have charm you have it, but if you don't go and sit in front of a mirror and take stock of yourself."

The program will be varied in its schedule and will give all pointers on numerous requisites of attaining charm. It will be a school where girls may learn to obtain that magic power, that strange witchery that fascinates and enchants.

Hair has long been woman's crowning glory. Taking cognizance of this, the Camp Fire Girls, in arranging their program for their "Quest for Charm" school have listed hair arrangement as the first lesson.

Hair, however, is only the "head" of the list for charm study. There is development of personality, complexion and make-up, dress design and wardrobe planning, personal etiquette, acquiring grace and various other points.

Course in Living.

At Girls' High school the home economics class has a division of personal regimen for the girls. It is a course of living planned for the girls who can only take a small course in home economics. There is food selection, clothes selection, health as an asset, money management, development of personality, manners, etc.

Miss Clara Lee Cone and Mrs.

S. L. Austin are teachers in the home economics class and said last night that the girls are "very intent" on their course.

"I find the girls taking much more interest in their personal appearance and their manners than in the past. We do encourage primping in classrooms; in fact, we don't allow it, but I have noticed that the girls fix themselves up between classes, keep their noses powdered, their hair combed, etc. They are 'taking a personal inventory of themselves.' I have told them that a mirror is one thing that will give the truth. They seemed to have taken it to heart for I feel that they have taken more pride in their appearance since this course began. Not that they did not in the past, but I am beginning to see a change and to notice an improvement in them."

Do Something About It.

"To see yourself as others see you is a good motto for the girls to take. And to my mind a mirror is the best bet. You see yourself. You examine yourself and then you do something about yourself. Sometimes those famous endearing young charms need a boost. The mirror will do it."

In addition to classes at Girls' High school, which are a part of their regular course, 116 girls have already registered for the Camp Fire Girls' "Quest for Charm."

Girls all over the city who have reached high school age are beginning to wonder about "these charming people." They want to be among them. They want to have that certain something that defies explanation. They want to be magnets for all with whom they come in contact.

And what's more the girls want to be compared with clocks. The latter to point out the hours, the former to make people forget them.

GEORGE COHAN READY FOR ROOSEVELT PLAY

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—George M. Cohan, song and dance man, who's going to portray President Roosevelt in a musical comedy opening here Monday, has never met the chief executive, "so I guess that ought to qualify me to play the part without any strings."

The show, "I'd Rather Be Right," is by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, authors of the 1937 Pulitzer prize winner, "You Can't Take It With You," and marks the first time in the history of the American theater, its producers say, an actor will portray a living President by name.

Pet Squirrel Prefers Spaghetti to Nuts (Aw)

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(AP) Mrs. Anna Gale's six-week-old pet squirrel—Billy—likes spaghetti.

In fact, Mrs. Gale said today, Billy would rather eat spaghetti than nuts.

"I was having spaghetti for dinner one day," Mrs. Gale explained, "when Billy persisted in begging for some. I gave the spaghetti to it. Since then Billy has preferred spaghetti to anything else. When I cook it, Billy knows what it is almost immediately and races wildly around the house."

She married Hopkins when he was director of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association in 1931. Their daughter, Diane, now is five years old. Hopkins also has one son, David, by a previous marriage.

NEW LEAD FOUND IN OFFICER'S DEATH

Slayers' Car Believed Discovered Afire.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 7.—(AP) Ohio highway police speeding to Minnesota tonight by airplane and auto, hoped to trace the slayers of their fellow officer, George Conn, from the charred metal of a smoldering murder car.

Colonel Lynn Black, patrol superintendent, said the auto was "positively" the one from which Conn was killed. It was found afire near Cambridge, Minn., and apparently had been abandoned only a few minutes before it was discovered.

Police at St. Paul, Minn., telephoned Black that they had "pretty fair leads," the nature of which they did not disclose.

LEGISLATORS FACE KNOTTY PROBLEMS IN NEXT CONGRESS

Leaders Already Have Done Lots of Special Session 'Spade Work.'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Congress already has done a lot of "spade work" on the program outlined by President Roosevelt for the special session he may call next week, but some of the knotty problems involved still confront the legislators.

Both senate and house devoted considerable time at the last session to all four measures heading the President's list—wages and hours, surplus crop control, government reorganization and regional planning.

Stubborn resistance by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats in the house rules committee blocked the wage-hour bill, however, and agriculture committees on both sides of the capital delayed action on the farm legislation pending further study during the present recess.

The wage-hour bill, providing for regulation of minimum wages and maximum hours of workers, still is locked in the rules committee. Chairman Mary T. Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, of the house labor committee, took initial steps at the session-end to wrest the measure from the rules group, but adjournment halted her effort.

Lodged in Committee. The senate passed a wage-hour bill before going home, but the house labor committee revised it drastically. It was the amended version which lodged in the rules committee.

Members of the agriculture committee of both house and senate reported at the last session that they found disagreement among farm organizations on fundamental questions, chiefly whether the crop control features should be mandatory or voluntary. Administration leaders have expressed optimism recently over prospects for removing these differences, but no definite agreements have been announced. In the meantime, the senate agricultural committee has been conducting regional hearings in farming areas.

Program Unfinished. The house passed part of the President's governmental reorganization program at the last session, including a bill to give the chief executive six administrative assistants and another to give him authority for two years to reorganize, consolidate, or abolish executive agencies, excepting the independent regulatory bodies.

Two other phases of this program—a bill to place the civil service under a single administrator instead of the present three-member commission and another to revamp the comptroller general's office—were recommended by a special house committee but were not acted upon finally.

An omnibus bill on government reorganization is on the senate calendar and, therefore, ready for consideration.

Public hearings on the regional planning bill were conducted by both senate and house committees. A senate agricultural subcommittee recommended its enactment but the full house group has not completed hearings. Officials said they would be resumed when congress reconvenes.

HOLD FUNERAL TODAY FOR MRS. PAULINE MAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Pauline May, formerly of Atlanta, who died Wednesday at her home in New York city, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg, with Dr. David Marx officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. May was the widow of Meyer May who died here in 1891. She had made her home in New York for many years.

Making the grade

GROWING children with an abundance of energy usually do make the grade . . . and with ease.

Every thoughtful mother recognizes this fact . . . mothers know too that children need help to build and maintain blood strength.

Particularly is this true with those who have suffered some illness or who look pale . . . tire easily . . . are underweight or have lost their zest for food.

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build-up children's health through the red-blood-cells, thus putting them in better condition to enjoy the food they eat and to regain lost weight . . . all which make for strength and vitality.

Help your child to "make the grade" by starting him or her on a course of S.S.S. Tonic now. There is no substitute for this time-tested remedy and no ethical druggist will suggest something "just as good."

Forget-Me-Not To Shower Down On City Today

Forget-me-nots are blooming this morning in the arms of nearly a thousand of Atlanta's young clubwomen who will distribute the flowers and receive contributions for the Forget-Me-Not Day fund of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Representing groups affiliated with the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, the young women begin work on the streets with their coin buckets, badges and flowers at 7 o'clock. Contributions go to the emergency care of disabled war veterans and their families during the coming year. The fund will be administered by D. V. officers co-operating with officials at United States Veterans' hospital.

Sponsored by Unit. Forget-Me-Not Day is sponsored by the two Atlanta units of the D. A. V., the Betty Harrison Jones and Morton T. Nicholas Chapters, commanded by James K. Finch and Cecil R. Hall, Mrs. Henry M. Nicholas, general chairman, and Mrs. A. Homer Carmichael, vice chairman, are in charge of the drive.

"Approving and indorsing the annual Forget-Me-Not drive to be held in the city of Atlanta on October 8," a resolution was drawn and unanimously adopted by the Board of Commissioners of Roads and Revenues of Fulton county at its session Wednesday, Frank R. Fling, secretary, has announced.

The adopted resolutions are in sympathy with the efforts of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War who are "striving to bring to the American people a better understanding of what is in the minds and hearts of these men who fought in the defense of our

'Vogues of 1938' Film Opens at Loew's Grand Technicolor is employed throughout Walter Wanger's "Vogues of 1938" to most emphatic advantage, for the film exploits a dazzling collection of smart new fashions, furs and fabrics and jewels worn by 14 world-famous fashion models, "the most photographed girls in the world." Warner Baxter, Joan Bennett, Helen Vinson, Michale Auer and Alan Mowbray head the cast, and dozens of Broadway entertainers are featured in lavish musical numbers.

"Vogues of 1938," which starts today at Loew's Grand theater, is the story of a world-famous style creator, played by Warner Baxter, and a young heiress (Joan Bennett), who refuses to marry the wealthy man her mother has chosen. "Vogues of 1938" will fascinate every woman, and it will prove equally entertaining for every man.

Wife, Doctor, Nurse Film Play at Fox

The talents of three stars, Loretta Young, Warner Baxter and Virginia Bruce, are brilliantly blended in "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," gay and penetrating Twentieth Century-Fox drama with a catch in its heart and a twinkle in its eye, which opens at the Fox theater today.

Two modern women who thought they could reason about love, and a man who wouldn't listen to reason, are the high lights of one of the year's most exceptional pictures, a gay, romantic story in the mood of today, which features an important supporting cast, including Jane Darwell, Sidney Blackmer, Maurice Cass, Minna Gombell and Margaret Irving.

'Lost Horizon' Enters Second Week at Rialto

"Lost Horizon," most magnificent production that has yet sprung from the genius of Frank Capra, enters the second week of its popular price run at the Rialto theater today.

With Ronald Colman in the star role and with a supporting cast that includes Jane Wyatt, Thomas Mitchell, Margot, H. B. Warner, Sam Jaffe, Edward Everett Horton, and others, the picturization of the famous book by James Hilton strikes a new note in artistic perfection never before seen on the screen. All the past week crowds have flocked to the Rialto.

Sothorn and Oakie Star in Capitol Film

Ann Sothorn is cast in "Super-Sleuth" as a studio press agent in love with a concealed screen actor of detective roles, Jack Oakie, co-star, playing the latter character. "Super-Sleuth," together with a brand-new stage revue, "Loretta Grey's Streamlined Revue," opens a week's engagement at the Capitol, Atlanta's only vaudeville theater, starting Sunday. In addition to Miss Sothorn and Jack Oakie, the cast includes Edgar Kennedy, Paul Guilfoyle, Bradley Page, Willie Best and many others.

Mad Ritz Brothers On Paramount Screen

Bigger and brazier, madder and merrier, wilder and wackier than in "Sing, Baby, Sing," "On the Avenue" and "You Can't Have Everything," those three comedy-mad Ritz Brothers are starred for the first time in "Life Begins in College," the musical hit featuring Joan Davis, Tony Martin, Gloria Stuart and a noteworthy cast, which opens today at the Paramount theater.

The cast also includes Fred Stone, Nat Pendleton, Ed Thorgersen, Dick Baldwin, Joan Marsh, Dixie Dunbar, Jed Prouty, Maurice Cass, Marjorie Weaver and J. C. Nugent. The screen play moves with zest and speed from one riotous situation to another, with the three Ritz circus unloading the niftiest comedy gags of their career.

SEWER PARLEY PLANNED TODAY

City, County and WPA Officials to Discuss Problems.

Conference of city, county and WPA officials on the Atlanta sewer program will be held this morning. Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, chairman of the sewer committee of city council, said yesterday.

Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, invited Reynolds, W. A. Hansell, assistant chief of construction of Atlanta, members of the sewer committee and county officials to discuss progress being made and problems facing the metropolitan sewer system.

Reynolds and Hansell have asserted the county is delaying completion of the program by failing to live up to its promises to provide materials, while George Longino, county commissioner, declared the county has fulfilled its promises and charged the city is not building sewers except where city residents will benefit.

MAYORS TO DRAFT NEW TAX PROGRAM

Arnold to Call Meeting of Officials to Map Legislative Changes.

Plans for a meeting between mayors of Georgia cities and state officials is to be arranged soon in preparation for the rewriting of Georgia's tax laws it was announced yesterday.

Arrangements for the conference are to be made by Zach Arnold, executive secretary of the Georgia Municipal Association. The meeting, Arnold said, was suggested by Mayor L. C. Wilson, of Columbus. Arnold will attempt to arrange the conference with Governor Rivers and members of a legislative tax commission.

One of the primary concerns of mayors over any new tax program Arnold explained, is a desire to retain an interest in taxes on intangible property and not have this source of revenue retained solely by the state. The coming session of the general assembly is expected to produce a new intangible tax act.

Municipalities, he pointed out, will not be affected by the home-stead tax exemption laws, this act applying only to state, school and county taxes.

CLOUDY AND COOLER FORECAST TODAY

Partly cloudy weather and cooler temperatures are in prospect for Atlanta and vicinity today, the weatherman predicted yesterday.

"Conditions will be somewhat unsettled and temperatures will range between 58 and 75 degrees," the weatherman said. The mercury yesterday ranged between 67 and 83 degrees.

Prevailing winds have changed from an easterly to a northwesterly direction, causing the decline in temperatures, the Weather Bureau announced.

Nantucket Island Mulls 'Monarchy' Headed by Duke

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 7.—(AP)—This island is considering a "limited monarchy" with the Duke of Windsor as its head. And whether the Duke accepts, the islanders today cabled the Duke and his Duchess an invitation to "visit our Utopia. No place on earth offers the peace and happiness of Nantucket Island."

A second cable was sent to Bassett Jones, at Paris, a New York engineer, writer and mathematician, asking him to act in the islands' behalf with the Duke.

Jones was advised the island would "consider a limited monarchy with Edward as its head." Jones, a summer resident of the island, is a close friend of John Falck, commodore of the Nantucket Yacht Club, with whom the Duke and Duchess spent a portion of their Austrian honeymoon.

Children in Holiday Mood Invade Southeastern Fair

Constitution Staff Photos.

"Gee, the man with a double chin, let's go in there." Atlanta youth flocked down the midway in jolly, holiday mood as the Southeastern fair opened its gates yesterday. Today is school day and children will be kings and queens of the fair.

But we want to join our fellow workers abroad to prevent war. That's the reason we joined the International Federation of Trades Unions."

Meantime, the wage and hour bill issue cropped out in two places.

The building and metal trades departments introduced a joint resolution assailing the Roosevelt administration for not consulting the AFL in preparing the Black-Connelly bill.

The wage and hour bill resolution said "all legislation...relative to labor, in the preparation of which the AFL or its representatives have not taken part, just comes under suspicion and should be given most thorough examination before receiving approval."

The bill as introduced, the resolution said, "would have created a governmental agency influencing and, at its discretion replacing, collective bargaining as now carried on by voluntary association of wage earners and their employers."

The convention adopted without dissent or discussion its executive council's report deploring any curtailment of federal relief to "bona-

Mammoth exhibits are far from uncommon at the Southeastern fair this year. Above is pictured an exhibit of Georgia products being admired by a young miss with a hungry look in her eyes. There are pumpkins, apples, grapes and other food products.

Vote Anti-Lynching. Also approved were sections of the council's report urging passage by congress of anti-lynching legislation; supporting legislation to extend farm ownership; and opposing employment of aliens on public buildings or works.

The convention endorsed President Roosevelt's governmental reorganization and economy programs. Delegates voted unanimously to condemn all proposals in congress for conscription of labor in wartime.

CIO UNIT VOTES JAPANESE BOYCOTT

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Thomas Ray, secretary of the New York maritime council, which represents eight marine and harbor unions, said tonight the CIO national conference, convening at Atlantic City Monday, will be asked to join in a demand for an embargo on war shipments to Japan.

Another CIO affiliate, the Transport Workers Union, adopted a resolution at its national convention today calling for a boycott of all Japanese goods.

DAHL IS DOOMED, SAVED BY FRANCO

prieve for Dahl and three Russian airmen, was expected to decide within two days whether he will free the prisoners outright or negotiate their exchange for fliers held by the government.

Dahl was tried Tuesday for "rebellion" against Franco's regime. During the trial his counsel insisted Dahl had joined Spanish government forces merely to act as a flying instructor, but was forced into combat at pistol point.

The insurgent chieftain had assured Mrs. Dahl through an aide, a cousin also named Francisco Franco, that a prisoner exchange would be made, if possible, to spare Dahl's life.

Mrs. Dahl had sent her photograph and a plea for her husband's life to Franco.

Dahl bailed out of a Spanish government plane disabled in combat over the Madrid front last July. Since then he has been held in Salamanca's modern jail.

"SO MADLY HAPPY," SOBS MRS. DAHL

CANNES, France, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Edith Rogers Dahl, informed tonight her husband's life had been spared by the Spanish insurgent generalissimo, Francisco Franco, broke down and wept.

"I'm so happy, so happy, so madly happy—that's all I can say," she sobbed.

She was holding a grey pet dog in her lap and hysterically smothered the animal with kisses.

The bride of the American aviator said she would go to Paris immediately and attempt to obtain a pass to go to her husband at Salamanca, Spain.

"I wonder whether he will be liberated immediately or held for exchange for some Nationalists held by the other side," he said.

Mrs. Dahl, who was sitting in the drawing room of her friend, the Countess de Pourtales, when the news reached her, repeated that her husband would "never fight again."

MOTHER OF AVIATOR SENDS FRANCO THANKS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Ida Dahl, 55, whose aviator son had been doomed to face a Spanish rebel firing squad, today sent her thanks to General Francisco Franco for saving his life.

Harold E. Dahl was reprieved by the Spanish Nationalist leader after a court martial had condemned him to death.

"I hope that means he can go to Edith, his wife, at Cannes, France," Mrs. Dahl said.

"I want to thank General Franco for the reprieve."

Mrs. Dahl said she was not surprised to learn of the reprieve.

"I didn't think they would let him die," she said.

to see the new shows and exhibits. They found this year Scarlett O'Hara has invaded the fair. Among the exhibits in the Agricultural building is a replica of "Tara" with the slaves' houses and the cotton growing in the field.

Girls Try Out Cars. Atlanta housewives found paper bags made from Georgia pine sift-proof and sanitary, while young girls took turns in trying out the tiny Italian cars which are built for two to ride 47 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Women who pick up the phone and say "I can't understand you," found yesterday that they could hardly understand themselves. In the Commerce building they found a voice mirror that tells you how you say what you say.

The thin man and the fat lady revealed little change from last year, and the legless wonder who eats and drinks under water attracted his share of attention. Above the noise of the crowd that swarmed down the midway came the loud voices of the barkers calling their shows.

Premiere Staged. The premiere was staged last night in the Educational building at 7 o'clock. Lambdin Kay acted as master of ceremonies. Principal speaker was Mayor Hartsfield.

Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, and Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, also spoke. Music was furnished by Perry Bechtel's orchestra.

British Displeasure With F. D. R. Hinted

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(UP)—The Daily Star's gossip column said tonight that the British foreign office was "not exactly pleased with the manner in which British public figures have welcomed President Roosevelt's speech."

"The welcome lends too much encouragement to liberal and labor views in regard to Japanese aggression, and behind the doors they are calling it 'the New Sermon on the Mount.' The Mount is Mount Blanc, diplomacy's cynical quip at the expense of the White House."

entries will not be accepted over the phone.

A parade of ponies will open the show, at 1:45 o'clock, followed by the time trials at one-eighth of a mile.

Other events on the program include judging best pony entered, first heat one-quarter mile, donkey riding, second heat, one-quarter mile, rodeo and trick riding, third heat, one-quarter mile, horsemanship for gaited ponies and final half-mile race.

B. M. Clay is chairman of the pony show committee and will be assisted by George I. Simons, manager of city parks; Dr. J. L. Hopping, chief judge; E. C. Shatterly, chairman of the entry committee; O. L. (Pat) Brown and Paul DeFoor, chief starters and program managers.

claimed, running to her child and picking him up. "Why, darling?" "I got mad at him, so I just bit him," "Bebe" pouted.

"Bebe" took his lecture, called his pal, "Snooks," and the two resumed their interrupted play. Thus, Mrs. Wooten left them, but not for long. She feared a recurrence of the biting episode, thought they might quarrel again.

Not Mad at His Dog. Slipping quietly into the backyard some time later, Mrs. Wooten heard Edward Tappin, next door neighbor, offer to let "Bebe" bite my dog as he did "Snooks."

But the offer was declined. "Bebe" looked up disgustedly at Edward.

TRIO IS ARRESTED IN THEFT OF AUTOS

Two youths and a girl were arrested on suspicion of auto theft last night when Atlanta detectives caught them pushing a stolen car with another stolen machine. One of the stolen cars belonged to Swift Tyler, Atlanta lawyer, of 1161 Ponce de Leon road. The other was stolen September 30 in LaGrange. The arrests were made by Detectives Leo Nahlik and M. M. DETECTIVES PROBE HI-JACKING RAIDS ON BOOTLEGGERS

Protective Racket Seen as Activities of Gangs Increase Here.

Lucrative hi-jacking raids on Atlanta bootleggers within the past week were probed yesterday by detectives seeking data sufficient to present the grand jury.

Rapid growth of hi-jacking in the city has caused alarm in police ranks for fear it might develop into a protective racket in which legitimate businessmen would be forced to pay "tribute."

Within the past week, hi-jackers have taken approximately $10,000 worth of goods from local bootleggers. One bootlegger has lost six cars and an equal number of whisky loads.

Protective Gang Methods. Detectives say the gang is operating similar to the manner protective gangs in Chicago and other large cities began.

Detective A. B. McNaughton, one of the men assigned to the investigation, said several bootleggers, victims of the hi-jackers, are willing to testify and a conference would be held with Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews today.

Superintendent of Detectives J. A. McKibben assigned Detectives McNaughton, I. P. Jones, G. D. Austin and B. E. Blair to the investigation. Federal alcohol tax unit agents joined local officers in the investigation.

Held to Jury. Hugh Downs, 30, described by police as "king of local hi-jackers," was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday on charges of assault with intent to murder and carrying a pistol without license, and robbery. Bond was set at $1,700.

Detectives were told yesterday two hi-jackers paid a visit to a local bootlegger and at pistol point attempted to force him in a car. The bootlegger refused, saying "I'll take mine now" and walked out to a neighboring cafe. The hi-jackers left.

Charts Tell Story of Rise in Gasoline Taxes in U. S.

Charts illustrating the growth of motorist taxes over the past two decades line the walls of the conference room of the Piedmont hotel this week during the four-day interstate conference on automotive taxation attended by chairmen, vice chairmen and secretaries of nine southeastern states. Neil W. Printup (right), secretary of the Georgia Petroleum Industries Committee, is pointing out the growth of gasoline taxes in the United States since the first motor fuel tax was enacted in 1919. R. E. Hodson (left), also of Atlanta and chairman of the Georgia committee, is following Printup's explanation.

Highway Beautification Act Urged For Georgia by Roadside Council

State Sign Law Needed, Letter From National Organization in New York Charges; Editorial in Constitution Cited as Starting Move.

Need for a sign law in Georgia requiring a state permit for any roadside sign, a permit fee and a setback provision, if state highways are to be beautified, was cited yesterday by the National Roadside Council, of New York.

The national society for protection and development of roadside beauty made its charges in a letter to the Brooks Chamber of Commerce, which recently launched a plan for highway beautification.

Making the suggestion for a sign law, the New York council said the Georgia county's plan was first revealed to them in an editorial carried in The Constitution September 12.

In regard to Brooks county's plan to remove all advertising signs for the right-of-way, the letter said that such a move would have little effect on the appearance of Georgia's highways as the

Fire Prevention The Year 'Round Urged by Parker

The public was urged last night to be fire conscious all the year round by Fire Chief O. J. Parker, who spoke at a meeting of the Gate City post of the American Legion at the city auditorium.

"The fire department is busy 52 weeks a year in fire prevention work and to cut fire losses the people of this city must join in this year-round campaign," the chief asserted.

The chief is directing the activity of more than a score of firemen who this week are inspecting residences and business houses in an effort to arouse public interest in National Fire Prevention Week, which observes the anniversary of the great Chicago fire on October 9.

Parker outlined how to eliminate hazards to the war veterans last night and this morning will speak at the Bolton school, a county institution. He addressed the students of Girls' High school in Decatur yesterday morning.

"Carelessness is the principal cause of all fires," Parker asserted. Many fires could be avoided by care in discarding lighted matches, cigars and cigarettes, while others could be prevented by merely cleaning up dangerous spots of combustible materials, he said.

CLUE DISCOVERED IN TORTURE DEATH

Invitation To Tryst Spurs Officers On Hunt.

LAKELAND, Fla., Oct. 7.—(UP)—An unsigned special delivery letter addressed in a feminine handwriting, inviting Douglas Beane to a tryst on Lover's Lane, was the main clue in the tonight by investigators of the 49-year-old railroad employee's mutilation death.

"Meet me at a spot near Lake Deeson where we held the picnic," the letter, delivered to Beane Tuesday night, said, according to officers. The letter was found in Beane's locker in the Atlantic Coast Line shops.

Beane's body, mutilated with knife slashes and shotgun slugs, was found yesterday in a clump of weeds on the lake shore.

2 SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN ROBBERY SERIES

A series of 40 burglaries, totaling $7,000, in West End were believed solved yesterday when Detectives arrested two negroes.

The suspects were listed at headquarters as Loyd Rucker, 17, of High street, and Andrew McGee, 18, of a Quarry street address.

Detectives took the two on a tour yesterday and the suspects allegedly pointed out places they had burglarized. Much of the loot has been recovered.

POLL TAX SYSTEM UNDER FIRE AGAIN

Political Circles Hear Move Under Way to Abolish Law.

Reports that a concerted effort would be made at the Thanksgiving legislative session to abolish the poll tax in Georgia circulated in political circles yesterday.

Official comment was lacking, as might be expected at this time when Governor Rivers is in the midst of his conferences with legislators.

But in unofficial circles there was talk that the plan would be advocated at the special session as a means of encouraging greater participation in elections.

Another reason expected to be advanced by sponsors of the plan is that the tax, although only $1, keeps many Georgians away from the polls, particularly those in poor financial circumstances.

Since the Governor's call for the special session is to be based chiefly on tax revision, it is assumed the poll tax matter would be included automatically in the business which the session might consider.

At extraordinary sessions, only matters included in the Governor's call may receive consideration.

The poll tax brought in $289,485 last year, an election year. In off-years, it usually falls far below that figure. The state constitution mentions the sales tax but the tax law itself is in the statute books, put there by the legislature. Legal authorities say off-hand that the constitutional provision merely is permissive; that it gives the legislature the right to levy a poll tax if it desires, but does not mean that the legislature must levy such a tax or that it cannot remove such a tax.

U. S. EXPERT PRAISES HOME LOAN WORK

Horace Russell in Los Angeles Talks Lauds Government for Giving Aid.

Praising the federal government for its protection and aid in home ownership during the past few years, yet urging further simplification and uniformity of foreclosure statutes among the states, Horace Russell, formerly of Atlanta, now general counsel of the Federal Home Loan Bank and its agencies, spoke before two groups in Los Angeles yesterday.

Speaking before the Los Angeles Democratic Club, Russell told of the importance of the Federal Home Loan Bank system in stabilizing and modernizing home financing in this country. The protection offered by Federal Home Loan Bank is illustrated by its saving the real estate market during the height of the depression, taking up more than a million mortgages at a total value of over three billions.

"It is important," he said, "that the federal loan institutions be administered in a manner so that this large measure of protection and relief may be provided without a financial burden upon the American taxpayer."

In a plea for uniform foreclosure statutes, he proposed an act that would bring the foreclosure time to four months in contrast with more than a year in a number of states and over 19 months in Illinois.

PROBATIONS LEVEL AS ARRESTS GAIN

54,380 Taken Into Law's Toils Here in 1936.

Despite an approximate increase of 75 per cent in arrests, probations have remained about the same with a percentage of .013 of the total arrests in 1936 to .0081 of the arrests for last year, a glance at the records of C. T. Ragsdale, 15 years adult probation officer of the city, revealed yesterday.

While 32,585 persons were arrested in 1935, 54,380 were taken into custody in 1936, Ragsdale said. Failure of probations to increase was attributed to the fact that fewer drunks now get probation. The city probation officer pointed out as an "unusual" fact that in 1932 and in 1936 he received the same number of persons on probation—441 each year.

RIVERS TO PLACE PLAN OF BISHOP UP TO LAWMAKERS

Governor Says Ousting of State Officials Requires Change in Constitution.

Governor Rivers said yesterday "a revolutionary change in our criminal procedure" would be required to comply with a suggestion of Bishop W. N. Ainsworth that the chief executive be empowered to oust local officials who tolerate "flagrant insurrection" against the state prohibition laws.

The Governor said he would refer the bishop's proposal, without recommendation, to legislators conferring with him about the special fall session of the general assembly.

To effect the change, he said, would require a constitutional amendment since the constitution requires that a defendant be tried in his own county by a jury of his peers.

In Open Letter.

Bishop Ainsworth's suggestion appeared in a Macon newspaper in the form of an open letter. Citing a report that $3,000 worth of liquor was returned after being seized from an Augusta dealer because he had a municipal alcoholic beverage license, the head of the North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, asked:

"Is the Governor of Georgia without authority to intervene in such a flagrant insurrection as this by officers of the law?"

If he is, the bishop said, he should "quickly" be given authority "to take cognizance of such contempt and dislodge such public servants."

Past Efforts Failed.

Commenting at a press conference on the letter, Governor Rivers said efforts in the past to empower governors to remove local officials have failed and added "the trend in Georgia has been rather to curtail than enlarge the powers of the Governor in this respect."

Asserting local officials are entirely responsible for prohibition enforcement, he said a constitutional change would require a two-thirds vote of the people "and if adopted would entail necessity of extensive appropriations."

"It would be presumptions on my part to attempt to expand the powers of my office while I am holding it," he said in announcing he would refer the matter to the legislators.

Lost Gold Mine
Is Rediscovered
In Old Kaintuck

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—(P)—Rediscovery of a fabled "lost gold mine" in southeastern Kentucky was claimed tonight by I. H. Kopf, former Alaskan soundough.

Kopf announced filing of a lease for mineral rights on 6,348 acres near Campton, Ky.

Nine independent assays in New York and Cincinnati, Kopf said, placed an aggregate value for both gold and silver ore within the area at between $150 and $170 a ton. Tests for gold indicated the presence of about 4.3 ounces per ton, he said.

He identified the mine as "Swift's mine," the legend of which appears in volumes of Kentucky lore.

One historian, Lewis Collins, records references to it among a band of French explorers in 1754. John Swift wrote of burying $40,000 in silver on the site prior to being driven away by Indians.

Kopf said gray, silty-like earth gave the clue.

"I recognized it as similar to 'pay-dirt' I had seen in Alaska and in the west," he said.

GIRL'S DEATH PROBE

Man, 37, Questioned in Slaying of Child, 11.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 7.—(P)—State Motor Police questioned a 37-year-old father of two tonight about the slaying of his 11-year-old cousin, Vallie Bates, whose body was taken from an abandoned mine air shaft near Latrobe.

Harry Bates, who lived alone in a far-parked house on the outskirts of the Allegheny mountain town, told police he had attempted to attack the child, struck her over the head and slashed her throat with a paring knife, said Sergeant James Buckley.

Bates led state motor police to the mine shaft in the early morning darkness.

The girl's body was found wrapped in a burlap bag, lying at the bottom of the shaft.

Pair, Wed 68 Years, Urge True Tolerance

JOHNSONTOWN, Ga., Oct. 7.—(P)—An aged couple here observed their 68th wedding anniversary today, and recommended the overlooking of "little faults" for long, happy marriages.

Both the husband, L. R. Johnson, 89, and his wife, 90, agreed that divorce is "foolish" and has "no sense at all."

Mrs. Johnson said "we had plenty of work to do and have been happy."

Work for these hardy pioneers has been almost constant since their wedding day, October 7, 1869. In this neighborhood, where they have lived all their lives, they built their own home and their own church.

The 11 children of the Johnsons are still living. In addition, they have 50 grandchildren and 68 great-grandchildren. The present tax commissioner of Elbert county is their first grandchild, born in 1893.

A family reunion celebrating the wedding anniversary was held August 21.

TAUNTON, ACCUSED, IS ASKED TO RESIGN

Taylor County Representative to Face Trial Today
As Crash Result.

BUTLER, Ga., Oct. 7.—(P)—A grand jury recommendation that State Representative Dudley Taunton, of Taylor county, resign his legislative seat was published today on the eve of Taunton's trial tomorrow on three indictments growing out of a motor car accident. The indictments charge Taunton with driving while drunk, resisting arrest, and public drunkenness.

The grand jury which indicted Taunton also recommended in formal presentments that "the Hon. Dudley Taunton immediately tender his resignation" from the state house of representatives "in view of his conduct which we think unbecoming to the representative of Taylor county."

Taunton will be represented at the superior court trial here tomorrow by Attorney Gilbert C. Robinson. It was announced he would plead innocence to all of the charges.

The indictments followed a motor car collision Saturday between a car allegedly operated by Taunton, and another in which two young women were injured. The injured women were treated and dismissed from an Albany hospital.

NO BILL RETURNED IN STREET SLAYING

Mrs. Coy Stephenson Makes Statement to Colquitt Jury.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Oct. 7.—The Colquitt county grand jury, investigating the recent slaying of Jessie Mae Wilkes, pretty garment worker, late today returned a no bill in favor of Mrs. Coy A. Stephenson, 36, charged with murder.

Under the Georgia law, two no bills are necessary to clear a defendant charged with murder. Relatives of the slain girl have indicated they will press for an indictment when the grand jury convenes again next April.

The grand jury's action followed the interrogation of a number of witnesses and the appearance of Mrs. Stephenson, who made a statement to the jury in her own behalf—a procedure said by court attaches to be virtually without precedent.

Miss Wilkes was shot to death on a downtown street April 22, as she was en route to lunch. After the slaying, Mrs. Stephenson, wife of a former Moultrie policeman, surrendered to Sheriff T. V. Beard, and two days later was released on $2,500 bail.

Social Welfare workers and officers quoted Mrs. Stephenson, during her detention, as saying Miss Wilkes "is breaking up my home, and I won't stand to see my children suffer."

MRS. EMMA JOHNSON DIES.

KINSTON, N. C., Oct. 7.—(P)—Mrs. Emma Richardson Johnson, 80, mother of Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson, died here at 3:20 p. m. today after an illness of several days.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 8, 1937.

NATIONALISM GONE WILD

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, speaking in Tokyo on behalf of "spiritual mobilization of Japan," attempts to explain the reasons for the Japanese invasion of China and to define the platform from which Japan will seek to justify her aggression before her own people and the world.

Reading a summary of the Premier's speech the inevitable reaction is one of wonderment at the stand of the Nipponese government and a fuller understanding of the causes for the practically unanimous, world-wide sympathy with China.

Japan, said Premier Konoye, seeks the "annihilation of all anti-Japanese elements in China."

"Because of insincerity on the part of the Chinese," he asserted, "the Japanese government has been forced to dispense with its earlier policy of non-aggravation of the situation and is, consequently, entering upon a positive rather than a negative campaign. It will be comprehensive in scope."

He then sets forth, in carefully chosen words, the claim that Japan's primary intention is to aid the cause of world peace. "Nor will the reconstruction of China into a modern state be possible without genuine co-operation between that country and this empire."

He then declares the necessity for a crushing blow to the "anti-Japanese movement in China" for the sake of world peace, forsooth, and adds: "After these anti-Japanese elements have been eliminated, the healthier elements in China will find it possible to direct their future efforts toward the construction of a true modern state."

It is evident the Premier envisages a "modern state" as one constructed according to Japanese blueprints. He has apparently assumed that everything Japanese is the best and that any group which does not realize its blessedness when taken in hand for modernization is a la Tokyo, should be "eliminated."

It does not seem to have occurred to the Premier that China's opinions regarding Japan are China's business alone. That it is not Tokyo's concern if the Nanking government does not see fit to worship at the governmental, economic, industrial and artistic feet of Nippon. That China has exactly the same right to development along her own preferred lines as Japan has along hers, and that, if there is anti-Japanese sentiment in China, that is perfectly permissible, even though distressing to Japanese pride.

Premier Konoye explains all the unprovoked attacks by Japanese army, navy and air forces as necessary to "eliminate" anti-Japanese sentiment in China. The poor victims, ignorant and helpless, who are riven into scraps of quivering death as the bombs and shells fall in the streets of Shanghai are "eliminated." Thoroughly.

But it should be self-evident, even to such nationally blind men as the Japanese militarists, that peace and friendship would do far more to end "anti-Japanese" sentiment than war and death and horror.

If Premier Konoye's explanation is the best defense the Tokyo government can offer, it would be better to admit, at once, that militaristic cruelty, land-hunger and thirst for conquest are the motives for the unofficial war precipitated on China.

For such an admission would have one feature in its favor, at least. It would be honest.

THE ANCIENT LAW AT WORK

Nature, in her unpredictable way, has this year provided for America a demonstration of the ancient truth that, generally, economic problems are best solved by the law of supply and demand. The demonstration has been staged in California with the citrus-growing industry of that state as the star player.

Last January what was heralded as a "disastrous" frost hit many important orange and lemon-growing areas of California. Viewers with alarm foresaw absolute ruin for the growers and millions of dollars were expended on fuel to build fires in the cold-attacked orchards.

Now, the results for the year are reported by the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, which handles more than 80 per cent of the fruit. And it is shown that, instead of suffering, the fruit growers of the state as a whole have benefited by the frost.

The crop was smaller, true, but the very fact so raised prices that the net cash returns are greater, even after allowing for the extra millions spent in fighting the frost.

Figures for the entire crop show that, while the output averaged about 13 per cent less than the previous year, the net cash returns were 11 per cent greater, not only offsetting the crop shortage, but actually putting more money in the growers' pockets.

Thus it is shown, once again, that nature, unaided, has a habit of righting economic problems herself. There can be no repeal of the law of supply and demand and its workings are more certain than man-made, artificial aids to stricken products.

PARENT-TEACHER WEEK

This week is being observed all over Georgia as Parent-Teacher Week. Coincident with the reopening of the schools, as the children of the state re-embark upon a new school year and as the parents of those children are drawn together in renewed unity of purpose, Governor Rivers has issued a special proclamation setting aside the period of October 3 to 9 for the stressing of the value of P.-T. A. work.

The closer the home and school are drawn together the greater the benefit each may perform for the children given into their care. There is no factor so effective in achieving this closer co-operation than the P.-T. A. It accentuates the community of interest between teacher and parent and, by arousing the better understanding of each, makes the duties of both more pleasant and more efficient.

The Atlanta Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, co-ordinating link between the 75 units in Atlanta, has been responsible for many magnificent achievements. It has helped, where needed, in keeping children in school. It has helped to secure legislation for safeguarding both the schools and the children of every state. It has sent to the schools, through the summer "roundups," thousands of children freed from many remedial physical defects. It has reached hundreds through its program of parent education. It has intensively and continuously campaigned for safety and it has united important groups of the communities in a common, commendable purpose.

There is no organization more potent for good than the Parent-Teacher Association. Each year finds its influence more effectively used for the creation of better citizenship.

WHY UNNECESSARY TRAINS?

There is a bill in congress, already passed by the senate and to come before the house at the next session, which prohibits the operation of any railroad train of more than 70 cars in length. Its advocates argue that it is a safety measure, but there does not appear any logic behind this contention, to the layman, at least.

Circumstances vary so greatly, not only on different lines but between different trains, that it seems totally irrational to set any arbitrary limit on the number of cars to the train. No differential is made by the bill between trains of loaded or unloaded cars. No consideration is given to the type of freight carried, or to its weight.

Trains operating on different roadbeds confront different conditions. Some have to pull up heavy grades, some follow rights of way that wind in serpentine fashion through the hills, while others roll along a straight, even track.

The bill is unquestionably unsound. The railroads are already suffering under many handicaps, including subsidized competition, over-regulation, high taxes and from some unreasonable rules and working conditions, mostly inherited from the days of federal control.

Senate Bill 69 would add the unjustifiable and illogical arbitrary limitation of 70 cars to the train, regardless of size of the cars, to what extent loaded, character of road, etc.

If there is any added safety inherent in such a law, in so far as the operation of the trains is concerned, it is certainly more than offset by the inevitable increase in highway-railroad grade crossing fatalities which follows increase in the number of trains operated. The grade crossing peril is already a national problem. To double its toll by doubling the number of trains—or to increase it in any other ratio—would be inexcusable. To bring this about under the guise of a "safety" measure would be sardonic satire.

BOUNCING LIGHTNING

(From the New York Herald Tribune.)

Nearly two centuries ago, Benjamin Franklin invented the lightning rod. Ridicule, over-the-top acceptance, exploitation by the unscrupulous—all have been the lot of that device. And now come the pronouncements of engineers with all the latest scientific instruments to prove that almost everything that Franklin believed and said about lightning rods was right. The chief difference is that importance of the rods has changed ends. Instead of the branched, pointed and gold-tipped upper end on which lightning rod salesmen used to set such store, modern experts are more concerned about the bottom.

At the laboratories of the General Electric Company at Pittsfield, Mass., where artificial lightning has been a plaything for several years, K. B. McEachron also has inquired into the freaks of natural bolts. One recent instance is instructive. This bolt struck a tree 40 feet from a bunkhouse where a boy was standing at the window. The house was not struck, but the boy was killed. What happened, Mr. McEachron decides from fingerprints of lightning along its path, was that the bolt followed one roof of the tree, got from that into a small stream of rainwater, followed this to the foundation of the house and then struck upward through the unfortunate youngster. From his chest the bolt jumped to a nearby metal saucepan, thence to a radio antenna, next to electric light wires leading to a neighboring building and finally to the telephone system, through a wire hanging near an electric lamp. The telephone system, at last, proved equal to the strain, and led the lightning off into the ground.

From the lightning's viewpoint this freakish path was simple and direct. The bolt was seeking the smoothest way into the ground. Ground under the tree was too dry, hence the path by roof and stream into the bunkhouse. Hence, also, the importance of the lower end of a lightning rod, where its buried tip or metal end plate is close to ground water, as Franklin long ago realized it should be.

Behind Washington Headlines

SURPRISE STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. Behind the lightning-like developments in America's foreign relations which followed the President's Chicago speech, the thread of a strange story of events at home, so far unrevealed to the public.

At first glance it looks like a race between the President and the State Department; President Roosevelt driving ahead full tilt into international action and the State Department, not fully understanding his intentions, trying vainly to catch up.

The first surprise to the State Department came when it learned that the speech, planned for a later date, was about to be broadcast. It had but two hours' notice. As a matter of fact, the secretary of state saw a copy only a few minutes before the President began to speak.

The next was the speech itself with the general content of which they were familiar. It was privately admitted that the use of the word "quarantine" was a shock to some of the diplomats. They weren't sure what Mr. Roosevelt meant. They were sure that Europe would read into it more than he meant—or more than they felt he should mean.

Address long planned The next, and perhaps the most severe, shock came when it was reported, on Wednesday, that the League of Nations delegates had the text of Mr. Roosevelt's remarks before the department did—six hours before he delivered them.

League circles knew what they could expect of America's attitude almost before the State Department could definitely formulate such an attitude.

Shortly thereafter, the League of Nations advisory committee expressed its intention of invoking the nine-power treaty, of which the United States is a signatory. After the President's words, it could safely be taken for granted that America would participate.

There is no question that the State Department has been preparing for definite action in the Far Eastern situation for some time. But they weren't geared up for the pace which Mr. Roosevelt set. Each of Secretary Hull's pronouncements on the subject of policy was stronger than the last and it was planned that Assistant Secretary Sayre, in a speech in New York, would prepare for the final word from the President. But the President spoke first, and Mr. Sayre's remarks that night were hardly noticed.

LEAGUE TIE-UP FAVORED

Some of those who have been worrying lest the President take us too fast and too far find some comfort in the State Department's official statement of agreement with the action of the League assembly in condemning Japan as an invader. They seem to be catching up.

This statement carefully bracketed the department's sentiment with the League and followed an earlier "interpretation" by a "high authority" which explained the President's speech as "support of the League of Nations."

If we should be committed to action with the signatories of the nine-power pact, we might find ourselves out in front holding the bag alone, since America is pretty much the daddy of that agreement. If we act "in support of the League," we're just one of the great big family of nations.

In the former case, the brunt of the job would be on American shoulders, and those shoulders might be clothed with a navy blue jacket.

TAX DRIVE TO CONTINUE

Any ardent New Dealers who are worried lest the President's western trip may result in putting the brakes on his forward drive against his "social and economic enemies" have had their fears put to rest.

One thing may be written in the book: The Macaulays will still be fair game and "tax evaders" had better look out.

And the President isn't going to pull in his horses because of the cries of "dictator" either. He is going to stick to his "methods." He is going to call for legislation—such as the reorganization of government—whether his critics say he's after more power or not.

OVER HOUSING HEAD

With the international situation at a boil, domestic matters are neglected, and those shoulders might be clothed with a navy blue jacket.

He didn't like it when his pet project for homes for the poor to replace slums was swallowed up by the Department of the Interior. He doesn't like it because still no head has been appointed for the new housing authority and he doesn't like the one Mr. Ickes would like to appoint. The senator's candidate is Nathan Strauss.

HOW ABOUT WINDSOR?

There may be another solution. The Duke of Windsor will soon be sojourning among us. He is interested in housing.

Maple Sugar
In the Spring.

We were talking together. He was an older Georgian, born and raised on a farm and he started to paint a word picture of the grinding of the sugar cane and the boiling down of the sorghum syrup. He told of the old mill slowly walking 'round and 'round the cane mill and he mentioned, with a nostalgic tone to his words, the smell of the wood smoke from the fire beneath the great iron kettle.

And that reminded me of maple sugar time in Canada. And I told him about that ancient institution in the land of the Maple Leaf.

On every Ontario farm, worthy of the name, there is a grove of maple trees. Each spring, generally with the snow still upon the ground, though after the first thaw, the sap in the maple trees begins to rise. And they tap each tree, in similar fashion to the manner in which naval stores men tap the pine trees of south Georgia.

Into each cup on each tree there drips a steady accumulation of sap. It is thin, like faintly sweetened water.

In a cleared place in the center of the grove is a great iron kettle, with a cordonwood fire burning beneath. The maple sap is poured in and it boils and boils and boils.

When the proper night comes the boys and girls of the neighborhood hold a party in the grove. They take the sap which has boiled to a consistency about midway between syrup and sugar, and pour it, hot, in little pools in the snow. The cold congeals it, right away, into candy and there is much laughter and fun and happiness. And a lot of innocent courting and love-making, too.

Then To

The Big Kitchens.

After the menfolk have gathered all the sap from the trees and have boiled it into syrup, it is taken to the great farm kitchen where the farm wife takes charge. She it is who strains and cleans and purifies the syrup and who boils it some more upon the great kitchen range.

Some of it she puts up for the year's supply of maple syrup. The rest she boils still further until it becomes sugar, which is formed into bricks in moulds and stacked, like so many bars of brown, sweet gold, upon the pantry shelves.

They use it, in many farm homes, as practically the only sweetener. Or rather, they did, more than a quarter century ago. I haven't been up there to see, since.

I remember some two months spent, one winter, in a farm home in which there was no other kind of sweetening. Each morning one of us would "shave" a day's supply

FAIR ENOUGH He Isn't Worth a Million If His Property Wouldn't Bring Enough to Pay His Debts

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Affairs in NEW YORK, Oct. 7.

Gotham This is a funny mayoralty campaign that we are having in New York. Jerry Mahoney is running against Fiorello La Guardia, the best mayor the greater city has ever had. Maybe it would be more prudent to say that the little flower is "one of the greatest mayors" in the city's history, but that would be holding out on him as the Sultan did the time he decorated the wife of the British diplomat with the Order of Chastity, second class.

The little flower has been a swell mayor, the better, of course, by contrast with Jimmy Walker and his successor, John O'Brien, who said, when the reporters asked him whom he was going to defeat, the police commissioner, "I don't know; they haven't told me yet."

John was honest anyway. The boys up at Tammany Hall were going to name the police commissioner and he knew that everyone knew it and was too innocent to pretend otherwise.

John is now retired on a pension of about $12,000 a year, payable as Mrs. O'Brien, too, long as she lives, should she survive him, and, but for the terrible squall of indignation, recently, Jimmy Walker, too, would have been eligible for a similar pension on similar terms.

The Walker thing came along just in time to remind the citizens of the Walker administration in all its picturesque details and of the Tammany tin box mess which preceded La Guardia. The uproar revived the whole business for several weeks and as it turned out, the attempt to take care of Jimmy was all water on La Guardia's wheel.

The boys found themselves actually making a campaign for Jerry Mahoney, who wanted to lick and all for the sake of a $12,000 pension for one individual who had small claim on their gratitude at that.

Unloaded It was reported that in gratitude for his readmittance to that which, in his case, may be laughingly referred to as the public service, Jimmy would go out and do some campaigning for Jerry Mahoney. But very soon, in view of the reaction to his appointment to a job, it became apparent that any speech by him would be more a burden than a help to Jerry. Since then they have been unloading Mr. Walker.

On good authority from Washington it has been reported that Jim Farley had nothing to do with his appointment, and only a few nights ago Quent Reynolds, the sports writer, who is Jerry Mahoney's nephew, telephoned you correspondent to say, "Hey, lay off my Uncle Jerry on that Walker thing. Uncle Jerry is for good government."

"Without fear or favor?" your correspondent asked.

"One hundred per cent, absolutely," Mr. Reynolds said.

Uncle Jerry was a distinguished athlete in his day, but as a politician and statesman in American athletic affairs he erred seriously last year when he opposed American participation in the Nazi Olympics. His motives were good, but if his motion had carried Adolf Hitler would have been spared the humiliation of fleeing from his Caesar's throne every time an American negro won an event.

Tough Hitler refused to admit that any colored boy could defeat any Aryan and, in order to avoid the necessity of congratulating colored winners on the American team, he engaged in more sprints than all his Aryan athletes combined, ducking up the aisle to a hiding place. It was good for his prestige with the sportsmen of the world, not that he had any to speak of except in the crazy countries.

Up to now, Jerry has had no more to say against the little flower than that he is sympathetic with the Communists, but the little flower can point to the time when he rushed a gang of Communists out of the city hall, in person, for exploiting the sufferings of the poor whom he was trying to help. And he can point also to the support of the colored and the Royalist Herald Tribune, strange company for a Bolshevik.

If only some one could get a cop indicted for accepting a free cigar that might give Jerry a police scandal to work on, but there just isn't anything so far, and the poor guy is trying to do an act without material.

The little flower, he is doing all right. And, for dirt, with the Walker thing refreshed in the public mind, all he needs is one word, "Tammany."

Just a Minute—

WITH IRVIN S. COBB.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 7.—A society is forming in England for the defense of the former Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor and honorary citizen of all places in this country named for the Simpson family.

This society does not hope to restore the Duke to the throne. That would only annoy the Archbishop of Canterbury, he already having many things to annoy him, such as Americans, but would seriously upset Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who upsets so easily that it seems strange the British never thought of calling him Reversible Stan. Besides, the throne would be quite crowded if the Duke tried to snuggle in there along with the present occupants.

What some of us over here think—and that goes for many Canadians, too—is that England has a crying need for a society dedicated to the broad general principle of minding its own business and suffering the Duke and his wife to do as they please. We have a rough idea that both of them can better endure long-distance snubs than officious meddling in their private affairs. Just being an ex-king is a hard enough job—even if you can get it to do.

He Isn't Worth a Million If His Property Wouldn't Bring Enough to Pay His Debts

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

It is commonly believed that America is the richest nation in the world. We have heard the boast so often that we accept it without question. Yet the sad truth is that we are rich only in imagination.

We feel rich because we ignore unpleasant facts. We are like the farmer who felt rich in 1929 because he held title to a quarter section of rich land, lived in a good house and drove an expensive car. He didn't consider the mortgages. But when the bubble burst, and land values dropped with others, he discovered that his farm wasn't worth as much as he had borrowed. He didn't "lose everything he owned," for he didn't own anything.

The admitted national debt is now approximately 37 billion. With less optimistic bookkeeping, it would be 40 billion. The various alphabetical lending agencies of the federal government have outstanding loans of over 11 billion, and most of this money was borrowed. Add 10 billion to the 40.

Now consider the debts of the states and the counties and the towns. Nobody knows what the total now is, but every state and county and city and hamlet and school district is heavily indebted and many are actually insolvent.

These are the debts we know about, but, dreadful as they are, they represent but a fraction of the whole burden. The banks of the nation have loaned the people over 11 billion dollars. And these and other people, in addition to their current debts to merchants, landlords, utilities and professional men, have pledged their earnings for the next year or more to purchase cars, radios, refrigerators, heating plants, bathroom equipment, fur coats and other luxuries. About the only people who aren't in debt are those too poor to have credit.

The richest of nations! It is a tragic joke. Reveal every dollar of indebtedness, public and private, and you have a nation of insolvents. All that we possess, if sold by the sheriff, wouldn't bring enough to pay the mortgages.

You may call that exaggerated and pessimistic, but it is none the less true. And the question it poses is this: What will happen to us when the next depression and the next war come?

It was debt that made the last depression dreadful. If nobody had owed anything, nobody would have lost anything. And the only way to be safe now is to get out of the hole quickly, at any cost of ease and pleasure, and stay out till the world is sane again. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"I am not in favor of forcing Southerners to compete with the starvation incomes of the peons and coolies of other countries."

So spake Senator Bankhead at a recent cotton conference, and hit a mighty nail on the head. The indicated future for southern cotton calls for prices low enough at once to encourage a great increase of consumption and to hold our own in world markets. But unless costs of production are sufficiently lowered or the equivalent to a lowering can be had through government aid as offsets to industrial tariffs, it will profit the south nothing to have the whole world for its cotton exports or to see demand for cotton grow and grow. You can't make money selling at less than cost, no matter how much you sell. Neither, as Senator Bankhead suggests, can you call yourself civilized if your farmers and farm laborers have to adopt the living standards of coolies or peons to compete in world markets. The south needs to find some means of producing its cotton for lower prices, but not at prices less than cost or which require an uncivilized standard of living.

The answer may be greater mechanization and big-scale cotton growing, but that is something for the future and involves all manner of labor displacements and initial economic confusion and distress perhaps. The immediate answer, it seems to this column, is in tariff adjustment, either a lowering of tariffs to permit foreign trade to flow more fully and freely into and out of this country, or some sort of export bounty or equalization fee for cotton justified as an offset to the southern cotton farmer's present disadvantage of buying in a protected market and selling in an unprotected one. Beyond one or the other of these there is no answer, it seems to us, save nature's own answer. If, with the injustice of the tariff situation lifted or offset, the south continues to "overproduce" cotton and remains unable to compete in world markets at third prices, we, for one, believe nature must take its course, cruel as that course may be, and that cotton farmers must learn through economic distress to curtail their crops and look elsewhere for their means of living.

The south has no right to ask and cannot hope for permanent relief in an actual subsidy for cotton. What it has a right to ask and can hope for relief in, however, is a fair place in the country's economy, and where justice cannot or will not be given, adequate offsets. This refers not merely to tariff injustice. It refers equally to freight rate injustice, to unjust efforts to eliminate natural wage differentials, to unjust concentrations of credit, to the injustice of Pittsburgh Plus prices for steel.

But economic justice in these and other respects is not a thing the south can hope to have unless it organizes and fights for it. There is no "sectionalism" in insistence upon the rights of your own region. Other regions are organized for and insisting upon their own, and more than their own, at the south's expense. Nobody is going to give the south its due in matters of tariff, freight rates, wages, money rates, steel prices, etc., on a silver platter. If they are, we hear no sound of it and see no silver to date. That is why such an organization as the Southeastern Governors' Conference, if solidified, financed and animated, can mean so much. We are all one big country today, as the President says, but we include a lot of regions with economies of their own and interests conflicting, and the south is not to be secured with fine words into a forgetfulness of its regional interests.

KENTUCKY SEES GRUDGE BATTLE WITH JACKETS

Tech Favored to Win Third Straight Game Saturday.

By RALPH MCGILL.
EN ROUTE KENTUCKY WITH GEORGIA TECH FOOTBALL TEAM, Oct. 7.—With the crowd cheering, those Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets boarded their Pullmans tonight and rumbled out toward old Kaintuck and the game Saturday with the University of Kentucky.

And—to make the game all the more exciting—it is a grudge game. Down in Atlanta we do not go in for grudges, being good-natured people who go amiably through life. But up in old Kaintuck—they bear grudges. Or so it seems.

Mr. Gerald Griffin, writing a piece for the Courier-Journal, reports the grudge. I know Mr. Griffin holds no grudges. Why, Mr. Griffin is amiable enough to live in Atlanta. Nevertheless, he reports that Chick Meehan got enough information from the Tech people last year to beat Kentucky, 13 to 7.

KENTUCKY MAD.
And the Kentucky people are maddened. Very.

As far as the Tech people know the information they gave was of no value to Manhattan. They think this because there was no information given. Mr. Meehan wasn't even in town. There is no information to be given on a Notre Dame team. It uses the Notre Dame system.

Anyhow, it's a grudge game. They should have been building this up for weeks. I didn't know it until my copy of the esteemed Courier-Journal, a grand newspaper, arrived, just before train time. I hope this doesn't turn out to be a grudge fight such as the wrestlers put on. They are, for the most part, terrible. This ought to be a good football game. I think Tech will win by two touchdowns.

Tech expects a difficult game with a strong pass attack to stop Tech took an early workout yesterday in time for the boys to get bathed and dressed for the train.

WORK TODAY.
The headquarter will be the Phoenix hotel. The team will practice Friday afternoon.

A squad of 25 men is on the train tonight. That includes the all-around Red Collins, who is being taken along to see the game. He will not play. Buck Murphy will be at his fullback spot.

Ten members of the "B" team will leave tomorrow night after their game with Armstrong Junior College.

Coach Alexander announced he would start his regular lineup and keep it in there as long as it was effective.

THE SQUAD.

WOMEN'S MEET
COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 7.—(P)—Some 35 women golfers have entered the annual Columbus Country Club's women golf tournament. Qualifying rounds are already under way, and match play will begin October 17.

Neyland, I think, took the hint from him. Maybe not. Anyhow, he works on those kick returns and passes. And he gets away with them more than any other coach. Think back and you'll remember every year Tennessee has come sensational returns of kicks. And some passes that hit.

He pulls most of them out of the fire. His line isn't as good as usual this year, they say. But they say the same thing about Wallace Wade's Duke line. It looks as if two fine offenses will meet. I lean—very slightly indeed—toward Tennessee. This has been a bad year for Dukes—as witness the Duke of Windsor.

L. S. U. ought to take Rice, Vanderbilt should beat Southwestern, Georgia is a favorite over Clemson and Auburn should squeak through over Villanova.

RIGHT OUT OF GAS.
Meanwhile—don't those Yankees run pitchers right out of gas? And in a hurry?

Hubbell and Melton were both easy. They started well but pitching to the Yankees is constant pressure. There is no easing up.

Red Ruffing, the Yankee pitcher, even went so far as to knock two Giant pitchers out of the box yesterday. Which must be some sort of a series record.

Pretty soon that constant pressure begins to harden the arteries of the Giant pitchers. They know that most any man in the lineup may tee off.

The boys who tried to expert the Giants into a series victory are feeling rather low. The facts seems to be that National league teams are not even close to the American league winners. It should not be forgot there was some daylight between the Yankees and their trailing rivals. It was not a blanket finish.

THE GIANTS WERE CHASED RIGHT DOWN TO THE WIRE BY THE CUBS AND THE NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE GENERALLY WAS MUCH CLOSER THAN THAT IN THE AMERICAN.

All of which would seem to indicate that the last four clubs in the National league would make good, lively competitors in the Southern association.

MAY MEAN SOMETHING.
All of this may mean something. There have been threats of new franchises.

It becomes evident that Colonel Jake Ruppert not only has the money but smart men to spend it. That makes a difference. Tom Yawkey has the money at Boston but he as yet has found no one who could spend it to get such players as the Yankees own.

So, the answer isn't merely money. The fact remains, however, that clubs such as the St. Louis Browns, the Boston Bees, the Phillies in the National and perhaps two or three other major league franchises need new owners or new towns. The changes will begin soon. Detroit might get two clubs. Obviously the National league must do something.

It is not too fantastic to believe that within 10 years Atlanta and New Orleans may be a part of a new league. The Southern and the American associations have weak members who could be left out in a new alignment of members. Atlanta has for three years outdrawn at least three major league towns.

MR. RUFFING—COLONEL RUPPERT.
Remember last spring? Red Ruffing was a holdout. A real holdout.

Colonel Jake Ruppert was quoted as saying he could get along without him and that they really didn't need him.

He got most of his demands, did Ruffing. And he pitched great ball and yesterday afternoon turned in a very impressive hitting and pitching performance to put the Yankees up on the Giants.

Morris Brown Foe Will Arrive Today
The Tuskegee football aggregation, 40 strong, will arrive in Atlanta this afternoon for their game with Morris Brown College at Ponce de Leon park at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The famous band that has played in most of the large cities of the country will arrive early Saturday morning. It will parade through the business sections between 10 and 11 a. m., and will play at the game.

Advance ticket sale continues to mount among white fans. Over 2,000 attended this classic last year, but indications point to an even larger white crowd for this game.

PURPLES MEET COLUMBIA TEAM IN TEST TONIGHT

By ROY WHITE.
Boys' High and Columbia, S. C., will battle at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park in the feature prep football game of the week. Decatur High will play Fulton at 8 o'clock at Decatur in an important game in the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference race.

Other games today include Marist and R. E. Lee at Thomaston tonight; Commercial and Columbus Industrial this afternoon at Columbus; Fulton and Marietta at Marietta.

Tickets for the Boys' High game have been placed on sale at Spalding's, Reeder and McGaughey and Parks-Chambers Company. Reduced tickets will be on sale at the uptown places but full price will be charged at the gates.

ONE OF BEST.
That Boys' High—Columbia game should be one of the best as both teams are consistently improved over their first games of the year. Columbia lost a close game to Savannah High week before last and Boys' High won a one-point victory over the Blue Jackets last week at Savannah.

Columbia's coaches scouted the Purples in the Savannah game and seemed very much pleased with their reports and indicated a tough battle for the Purples tonight.

Boys' High held a long hard scrimmage Wednesday afternoon and Coach Doyal and Keith have settled on a new lineup for tonight. Conger and Clark will start at ends, McCauley and Brown, tackles; Huck and Pearce, guards, and Webb, center. Roberts, Greer, Crouch and Boykin will start in the backfield.

LINEUP UNKNOWN.
Columbia's lineup will not be known until a few minutes before game time as the team will not arrive until early afternoon.

Decatur and Fulton High will play one of the best games in the N. G. I. C., since it eliminates the loser from further consideration in the championship race.

Boys' High, in three games, has shown more defensive strength than in several years, but the offense has not clicked as expected. The Purples were past midfield only three times in the Savannah game, but made good on the last drive and kicked the extra point to win, 7 to 6.

Injuries Hurt Oglethorpe Chances

Oglethorpe's Stormy Petrels yesterday received another blow to their hopes of defeating Wofford this week end when two of their star players were added to the already long list of injured.

Buck Thomas and Bob Murphy were the two players who showed up at practice hurt. Thomas is the first-string quarterback and Murphy is the first-string fullback. The doctor says it is doubtful he will see any action Saturday.

Murphy is also a first-string back, playing right half. He will probably be out of the game.

In addition to these two, Coach John Patrick has five other regulars on the hurt list. They are Ansel Paulk and Martin Kelly, fullbacks; Ed Schwabe and Ben Falkner, halves, and Jo Jo Walters, tackle.

The Petrels leave for Spartanburg and their game with Wofford after a light workout today on Hermance field. Patrick is taking only 24 men on the trip.

WRESTLE ROYAL IS CARDED HERE

Due to a death in the neighborhood, the Avondale wrestling program scheduled for Thursday night has been postponed until Saturday night at 8:15 o'clock.

A wrestling royal will open the card, with nothing barred, winner take all. Out of this tussle comes three other bouts. The two grapplers to remain in the ring after all others have been defeated will meet in a no-time-limit bout to decide the winner.

The third and fourth grapplers to lose in the royal meet in a one-hour match while the battle will return to the ring and fight it out in a 30-minute match.

This is the first wrestling royal offered here this year.

The wrestlers to appear are Sammy Miller, tough Assyrian grappler; John Mauldin, the gentleman cauliflower bruiser; Joe Ferona, Italian Tiger; Bob Anderson, Decatur pride; Son Almond, steel worker, who says that he is out to win regardless of how he goes about it, and Buck Lawson, light-heavyweight champion of the south.

Buxbaum has been paired with M. C. Bishop and Eley will play with Cliff McGaughey.

PAGE, HEMPHILL, BERG AND LIFUR IN SEMI-FINALS

Southerners Play Each Other; Patty Meets Coast Star.

By KENNETH GREGORY.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 7.—(P)—The old "19" Jinx has its inning today with Mrs. Opal S. Hill, the veteran Kansas City golfing star who seriously thought this was going to be her lucky year in quest of the women's national championship.

As a chilly, gale-like wind swept across the Memphis Country Club course today, Mrs. Hill saw her hopes fade for the 13th time when Mrs. Gregg Lifer, former California champion from Pacific palisades, beat her out of a place in the semi-finals.

Mrs. Lifer, an elderly steady stroking player who came south with a fine record on the coast, was joined in the semi-finals set-up by Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Greensboro, N. C.; Miss Patty Berg, of Minneapolis, and Miss Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C.

To the surprise of a large gallery, Mrs. Hill faltered badly after stroking to a three-up lead through the first seven holes and lost the verdict to Mrs. Lifer, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Page, tournament medalist for the second consecutive year and now ranked as a prime choice to win the championship for the first time, advanced with a 2-and-1 decision over Mrs. Dan Chandler, of Dallas, Texas.

The North Carolina star, whose game has bordered closely on par since the tournament began, was paired against the youthful Miss Hemphill from the neighboring state of South Carolina. Miss Hemphill, a semi-finalist last year, turned back Mrs. Charles Newbold, of Wichita, the Kansas champion, 4 and 3.

It was a close call for Miss Berg, runner-up in 1935 for the crown, in triumphing over Mrs. Helen Lawson Shepherd, of Los Angeles. Miss Berg plays Mrs. Lifer in the other semi-final.

After gaining a five-up advantage over the veteran California star through nine holes, the freckle-faced Minnesota "kid" began missing shots and short putts and was only one up going to the 18th.

With dusk falling and the gallery jammed around the home green, Miss Berg fired a great approach shot 12 feet from the cup to win with a par as Mrs. Shepherd drove into the rough and took three to reach the green.

MERCER, HOWARD MEET SATURDAY

MACON, Ga., Oct. 7.—(P)—Lake Russell's Mercer Bears remain an uncertain quantity in the Dixie conference race, even with two game under their belts. The Bears play Howard, defending champions, Saturday at Birmingham.

A line with plenty of weight except at the guard posts, and with ample experience should be able to hold its own in conference competition. The backfield is doubtful and reserves are inadequate.

The Mercer squad numbers only 26, and 11 of this squad are sophomores. Most of the others were second-year players.

Alton Owen, 160-pound senior halfback, is one of the principal causes for optimism in the Bears' camp. He made four touchdowns against the Mid-Georgia Teachers, Bear victims in a 77-0 rout, and looked good in Mercer's 28-0 loss to Georgia Tech.

Wright Bazemore, 155-pounder, will be at quarterback. He is a senior. Devern Robinson, 160, junior, has the inside track for the other halfback post, and Rod Taylor, 160, sophomore, has more, will start at fullback. He weighs only 170, but is fast.

The line features Jimmy Fitzpatrick, 210-pounder, and Ewing Edge, 195, both senior tackles, and one of the best pairs in the conference, Phil Clanton, light but rangy, is a fine center.

At guards, Grady Rainey and Martin Kume, both 175-pounders, are starters. They are juniors.

Remaining Mercer games: Birmingham Southern at Columbus, Ga., October 13; Georgia at Athens, October 23; Oglethorpe at Macon, October 29; Presbyterian at Clinton, S. C., November 5; Tampa at Tampa, November 11; Chattanooga at Chattanooga, November 23.

Chicago White Sox Defeat Cubs, 3 to 1

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(P)—Lloyd Vernon Kennedy choked off the Cubs' heavy artillery with three hits today to conquer the National League's 3 to 1. And host the White Sox to even terms in the second game of Chicago's 224 city baseball championship series.

The Cubs' big guns, which yesterday raked Ted Lyons and Bill Dieterich for 15 hits and a 7-to-3 triumph in the opening skirmish, were almost futile against the husky short-batters today. In fact, none of the Cubs' three hits figured in the scoring of their lone run. While Kennedy, who fashioned a no-hit, no-run masterpiece against Cleveland two years ago, was allowing a double to Billy Herman and a pair of singles to Fred Greer, the Sox clipped Curt Davis and Charley Root for nine, five of which were used in the manufacture of runs.

Georgia Grid Reunion Planned November 12

Greatest Homecoming for Bulldogs Set on Eve of Tulane Game.

By RALPH MCGILL.
Old heroes will come back to the fields they knew on November 12 at Athens.

Old names that were written across headlines will come back to print again.

And old ghosts, too, of those who died in France and who served their country's flag and gave it the greatest gift of all, will be there, too.

The football players of the University of Georgia, of the period of 1910 to 1919, inclusive, will hold a reunion on the eve of the Georgia-Tulane game and on the day of the game as guests of the University of Georgia Athletic Association.

Already more than 60 men have agreed to be there. The committee wants the subs and the scrubs, whose names are not available from newspaper reports, to be present also.

CUNNINGHAM COACH.
That was the period when Alex Cunningham was coach.

See some of the names—Bob McWhorter, Bull Garmay, Arthur Maddox, John Henderson, Bum Day, Arthur Pew, Owen Reynolds, Charley Thompson, Dave Paddock, these are but a few of the names. Old Georgia men will remember others.

Four men died on the field of battle in France. Others were wounded.

And so, on the night of November 12, the old clans will gather. There will be a dinner at the Georgian hotel that evening.

At 10 o'clock the next morning, perhaps the greatest moment of all will be the memorial exercises in the chapel for the players of that period who gave their life for their country and those who have passed on to join them. The beloved Tom Reed will conduct these services. In the afternoon they will see the game.

FRESHMEN AGAIN.
And after the game they will be freshmen again and pull the rope to ring the chapel bell.

It's a great program and a great idea.

Alex Cunningham, the coach, was assisted by captains of bygone years. Harold Hirsch, Marion Smith, Hatton Lovejoy and Harold Kethron were included on the staff. Kid Woodruff was the lone scout and traveled all fall.

Seventy-one games were played. Fifty-three were won, 12 lost and six tied. Vanderbilt and Auburn had edges but Georgia had the edge in games with Tech, Alabama, Sewanee (strong then), Clemson and other colleges in the south.

BULLDOGS TIED.
In 1911 Auburn came from "nowhere" to tie Georgia and ruin a title claim. Again in 1913 Auburn upset the doze—in 1910 the Georgia team was the first to defeat a Tech team coached by Heisman.

For the following four years Georgia was the victor.

Those are but a few of the memories that will come back. The committee in charge of this great job is Dave Paddock, chairman; Bob McWhorter and Whitey Davis.

They ask that each man make himself a member of the committee and seek out the players of that period whom he knows—scrubs and regulars—and have them report to the committee. The committee will make the hotel reservation on request. Two dollars should accompany the letter to pay for the dinner and a gift to one of the old timers.

It's a great idea for a great group of athletes and men. Much of the glory that is Georgia's was created by the men of that period.

Jacket 'Bees,' Armstrong In Clash

Georgia Tech's B team will open its five-game schedule at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on Grant field with the Armstrong Junior College, of Savannah, as opponents.

Coach Roy McArthur has three different assortments of plays to use this afternoon and some 40-odd players to select from. He has more, will start at fullback. He weighs only 170, but is fast.

The line features Jimmy Fitzpatrick, 210-pounder, and Ewing Edge, 195, both senior tackles, and one of the best pairs in the conference, Phil Clanton, light but rangy, is a fine center.

At guards, Grady Rainey and Martin Kume, both 175-pounders, are starters. They are juniors.

Remaining Mercer games: Birmingham Southern at Columbus, Ga., October 13; Georgia at Athens, October 23; Oglethorpe at Macon, October 29; Presbyterian at Clinton, S. C., November 5; Tampa at Tampa, November 11; Chattanooga at Chattanooga, November 23.

Bulldog 'Bees' Play Monroe Friday

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 7.—The University of Georgia "B" team will open the season with Monroe Aggies at Monroe Friday afternoon.

Among the better players on the "Red Devil" lineup are George Smith, quarterback; Dick Jones, guard, and Jimmy Jones, end.

WINTER PARK, Fla., Oct. 7.—(P)—The Rollins Tar went through light passing and kicking drills today in preparation for their opening game against South Georgia State Saturday night at Orlando.

GEORGIA COACH SELECTS STAR AS OUTSTANDING

Never Has Seen a Better One; Bulldogs Primed For Clemson.

By JACK TROY.
Big Ted Twomey, Georgia's line coach, made no reservations.

"Quinton Lumpkin," he said, "is the greatest center I have ever seen, either as a player or coach."

Twomey made this assertion in response to a question as to Lumpkin's potentialities.

And to realize the full significance of this widely encompassing statement, it must be borne in mind that as a player and coach, Ted Twomey has been quite a few places and seen quite a few things, including great centers.

"Football is a serious matter with Lumpkin. You can always find him out early for practice trying to improve his passing, blocking or charging. He's forever trying to better himself."

"When you have a player as big as Lumpkin who can move around so fast, pass with such accuracy, back up a line so well and defend against passes as Lumpkin can, you have most of the essentials of football greatness."

HIS GREAT SPIRIT.
"I think, perhaps, his spirit, too, is one of his greater assets. He's always happy when he can play. He's a real wheel horse in the Georgia line, is Quinton Lumpkin. He absorbs punishment well. He is a canny diagnostician of opponent's plays. And if he isn't a leading candidate for all-Southeastern honors when the season ends, it will surprise a lot of folks."

The writer then made inquiry as to the caliber of Georgia's tackles. Wasn't stooge Davis a fair sort of tackle?

"Davis is more than a fair tackle. He's a real tackle. He is very steady and dependable. John doesn't possess that flair for color that would put him out in the public's eye. But he's a real coach's player."

Wasn't Tom Haygood just about ready to step in and add more strength to the tackle situation?

HAYGOOD IMPROVES.
"He's coming around fine. His recovery from the knee injury necessarily has been slow, but he has been looking very good in scrimmages."

So Georgia appears to have considerable more tackle strength than in recent years. Bill Badgett is a steady performer and Haygood is undoubtedly a fine tackle when unhindered by injury. The fourth Georgia tackle remains something of a question. There's Clayton White, De Charley, Charley Williams and Red Milton. If one of these boys develop, any worry that exists right now will be dissipated.

The Bulldogs are pepped up over prospects of renewing relations with Clemson. They've put in a lot of work in preparation for this game, realizing any missteps may prove costly indeed.

Georgia and Clemson first played football in 1897. And Saturday's game will be the 23rd in the series, which ended, temporarily, in 1932.

GEORGIA HOLDS EDGE.
Georgia has won 12 games and Clemson eight in the series. Two of the games ended in scoreless ties.

Coach Harry Mehre will be satisfied to win this twenty-third game of the Clemson-Georgia series by any margin the Bulldogs can get.

Smartering under successive defeats at the hands of Tulane and Army and saddened by the loss of Captain Harold Lewis, varsity center who suffered a broken leg in Wednesday's practice, Clemson Tigers are expected to bring all their artillery to bear in an effort to upset the Bulldogs.

The kick-off is scheduled for 3:30 (eastern standard time) Saturday afternoon on Sanford field. Georgia logically will enter the game as the ruling favorite.

Holland Running On Bulldog Varsity

By FELTON GORDON.
ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 7.—Physically handicapped by his lack of weight, Ward (Red) Holland, speedy 160-pound back, has come a long way since he set spectators on their ears by his brilliant running in a spring practice "game" in 1935.

Holland was cavorting as a Continued on Third Sports Page.

COTTON GRABBLE RACES SATURDAY

Cotton Grabble, southwest race champion, will defy all race as he enters the 3 o'clock race on Saturday afternoon in preparation for the 3 o'clock race program.

Grabble "went through the air with the greatest of ease," in a crash in July at Lakewood Park, but came out uninjured.

At the start of the race a youngster walked up to the driver, "Are you Mr. Gbabbler?" he inquired. "Yes," came the answer from the driver. "Well, I came out here this afternoon to see you crack up," the youngster came back. A few minutes later Grabble crashed on the back stretch. He sent to Texas for another car and it also was wrecked at Lakewood a week later.

Grabble is one of some 25 outstanding race drivers entered in Saturday's eight-event program. Emory Collins, Gus Schrader, American dirt track champion, and Buddy Callaway, popular Macon boy, and a leading money winner this year are other top-notch entries already on the scene and making final adjustments on their mounts.

Railway, Bereans Meet on Saturday

Southern Railway and Bereans will make another attempt to play off the tie for the first half of the Scott league Saturday afternoon. They waited patiently for the rain to stop last week, but finally gave up. They will attempt to meet this time at Warren field at 3 o'clock. Boll and Florrid will umpire.

The winner of this game will play Central Cafe, winners of the last half for the league championship.

BACK TO FARM

Two of this year's outstanding cripples have been shipped back to Kentucky to rest up before getting ready for the 1938 turf battles. They are Warren Wright's Bull Lea, which went wrong during training for the Belmont futurity, and E. R. Bradley's Brooklyn, which failed to run to the form expected of him early in the season.

SLATED FOR ACTION

War Admiral now is slated to return to action next week if the track at Laurel remains fast. Trainer George Conway is anxious to get a race under the three-year-old champion's belt before sending him after the $7,500 Maryland handicap of a mile and a quarter on October 23.

WAR FEAR GROWING, AIRPLANE ORDERS SWAMP U.S. PLANTS

Unfilled Demands Reported At 135 Millions With 'Boom' Indicated.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A world feverishly rearming, plus wars on two continents, have helped deposit on the books of American aircraft manufacturers unfilled orders totaling $135,000,000.

The backlog, symptomatic of a shortage of skilled craftsmen, was announced today by a group of manufacturers who have established a school on the west coast to train men for their own needs. "With orders continuing to pour in," said their statement, "the aircraft industry appears to be in danger of lagging behind on production indefinitely."

In southern California alone, it was shown in a survey published yesterday, a $50,000,000 "boom" in aviation production was in progress. Half the orders were for army and navy airplanes.

Two days ago Leighton W. Rogers, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, said that American fabricators of airplanes had delivered $71,723,589 worth of machines during the first eight months of the year.

To meet what was termed an acute shortage of skilled craftsmen in their shops, a group of the manufacturers have built a technical institute with accommodations for 500 students. It will be dedicated in about two weeks, although classes already have opened.

Rewarding Outstanding Work for Georgia Democracy

For her work for Georgia democracy, Mrs. Susie T. Moore (right), past president of the Georgia Woman's Democratic Club, last night was awarded a bronze donkey, signifying club members had voted her the most outstanding Georgia woman Democrat. The award was made by Miss Wilda Richardson, chairman of the women of achievement committee, as Mrs. William P. Dunn Sr., senior governor of the club, looked on. The club members gave a dinner last night for Mrs. Moore.

New Postoffice at College Park To Be Decorated by WPA Murals

Art To Depict Life in Thriving Suburb To Be Painted
From Sketch Furnished by Herbert Sayle Wilheit, Long-Time Invalid; Booklet Sent to New York.

College Park's $65,000 postoffice, a United States government building which will soon be adorned with handsome murals which will depict the life, mode of living and background of this thriving little city within hailing distance of Atlanta.

Plans are under way for the painting which will be in accordance with similar operations throughout the nation from the brushes of WPA workers.

The subject matter to be employed in the forthcoming murals in the College Park building, will, if present plans are carried out, be from the pen of Herbert Sayle Wilheit, well-known resident of the city.

A letter today is speeding toward New York enclosing a copy of "The Highlights of the History of College Park," and written by Mr. Wilheit.

It very accurately portrays the city as "College Park, The Beautiful, A City of Hope, a Center of Culture." The book is being sent Jack McMillan in New York as an answer to a letter received recently by the secretary of the College Park Chamber of Commerce, which requested information.

"Shut In" Author.
The author of the booklet has been a "shut-in" for more than 10 years in his home which has been his residence on West Columbia avenue for the past 40 years. Being shut-in, however, has not stopped him in his interest in all affairs of civic and cultural nature, which is manifested in his booklet, and also the continuance of his work in the insurance field.

In his booklet he has given a comprehensive outline of the history of College Park beginning when the territory now known as College Park was made as a grant by the state of Georgia on December 19, 1846, to Alexander Ratteree. Little is known of events for a number of years, but in January, 1881, W. N. McConnell moved to College Park as a landowner.

Later another future citizen moved to the settlement and erected a store, the first in what is now College Park and very near the present location of the Christian church on East South Main street. He sold his store and it was operated by the former mayor of Atlanta, I. N. Ragsdale. That was in 1883. There were five dwellings in this territory.

Blount Interested.
In the summer of 1889, Bartow M. Blount, of White Hickory fame, became interested particularly on the east side of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad. The Manchester Investment Company, headed by E. M. Blalock, came into being in January 1892. The little city had been chartered as Manchester in 1891.

When the Atlanta & West Point Railroad was built and for some time afterward the main public road was known as Newnan road and turned off then as it does now, at Red Oak, Ga., going about one mile west of College Park. Cambridge avenue, a country road, connected the Newnan road on the west to Macon road on the east, which followed the Central Railroad there.

A discarded railroad car was used as a station. It was about where the old station stood, at John Wesley and East Main streets. At this time the settlement was known as "Atlantic City." There had to be some extensive drawing on one's imagination for that. There were five dwellings and five hundred miles to the nearest big water.

Charter Amended.
The charter of the town had been amended in 1895 to read College Park instead of Manchester. Mrs. Lula Roper, a sister of General John B. Gordon, was the winner in a contest naming the city "College Park."

Today the place is one of the most thriving centers in the state of Georgia, but is lacking in manufacturing. School advantages, from kindergarten through a literary course in college, are offered the residents. There are four large public school buildings, filled to capacity. There is Cox College for Women, now in its 95th year. In 1900, the Georgia Military Academy began operations and today is recognized as one of the leading military preparatory schools in the country.

There are eight churches in College Park. The schools are part of the Fulton county system and are manned by efficient teachers and equipment up to the minute. In the old days school was taught in private homes for a while. Then a few citizens attained a lot on East Virginia avenue and built the first school house there. It was torn down only a few years ago.

Civic Enterprise.
Civic organizations in College Park include in their membership many prominent citizens. The P. T. A. has Mrs. Charles Center as the president. The Masonic Lodge was organized in 1904, with only two of the charter members left, Fred Shafer and C. A. Wickerham.

Then there is "The Thirty Club," a well-known civic organization. The World War veterans, Lyle Brewster Post No. 50, have a large membership with a monument to honor them erected by the members of the Woman's Club. The latter organization has a nice brick building at Rugby avenue facing north Main street.

There is a Music Study Club and the Boy Scouts, of which Wilheit has been a master for the past five years. The Community Service League is a charitable institution more than 23 years old and has never made a drive, never overdrawn nor been in debt.

All phases of business life is outlined in detail by Mr. Wilheit, who has enjoyed extensive travel over the United States before physical disability forced him into retirement 10 years ago.

KOSHER BUTCHERS TO REOPEN SHOPS

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The shop-closing strike of 5,000 Kosher butchers protesting against high wholesale prices of meat in the metropolitan area will end Saturday evening, David Greenwald, attorney for the Federation of Kosher Butchers, announced late tonight.

The action, which will reopen all closed Kosher shops in Greater New York and a part of New Jersey, was taken in deference to requests made by state and city officials and the rabbis, Greenwald said.

MAN FOUND DYING IN DOWNTOWN HOTEL

B. C. Jones, about 60, of 2218 Belvedere avenue, Cascade Heights, was found ill on a bed in a hotel on Ellis street last night by a bellboy and was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady hospital.

Hotel officials said Jones registered late Wednesday and complained of being ill. He was found by Willie Venson, a colored porter.

A coroner's inquest will be held today, it was announced. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon-Bond-Condor.

RESTRICTIONS EASING ON BURIALS SOUGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Plans for making it easier to bury the dead were proposed and adopted in a resolution at the American Public Health Association convention here today.

The aim is to remove the red tape which surrounds transportation of the bodies of those who have to make an interstate journey.

Life Is Much Simpler With Braces Aplenty

To Every Pair of Trousers Its Own Pair of Suspenders—Obviates Inconvenience, Disharmony—Belts Are Sturdier, Wider.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD.
EDITOR MEN'S FASHIONS.

Maybe you like to go through the business of fiddling with suspender ends to transfer them from one pair of trousers to another, and then fiddling with them some more to adjust them right for the degree of rise of the new trousers. Most men find it tedious.

Most men, too, who have any feeling for color and style dislike having to put the same green suspenders on the trousers of brown, blue, gray or green suits indiscriminately. They sense that even here, in an accessory that does not show when the jacket and vest are on, there should be proper blending and correct ensemble effect.

The obvious answer to these twin dilemmas is a pair of braces for every pair of trousers in the wardrobe—and that's the answer that well-dressed and style-conscious men are giving. You can leave your suspenders on your trousers when you hang them in the closet, even when you send them to be pressed, because they're the right ones for those trousers

Top to bottom: Solid leather brace in smooth calf; two-tone leather brace with the perforations extending all the way to the back; Tyrolean-motif brace with pine-tree design and acorn metal adjustment; imported non-elastic brace with ribbon ends.

—right in style and correctly adjusted. The variety of suspender styles continues to grow. Neckwear ideas grow more abundant, small checks, diagonal, horizontal and vertical stripes, solid colors. Ornamental woven-into-elastic motifs, such as a pine tree, red on green, or a modernistic musical-note design, form a large category.

A trick of weaving and processing a fabric that is ordinarily non-elastic so that it becomes stretchable is a feature in braces this year. Then there is the brace that is non-elastic, of the ribbon type, known as a "warp-print." This weaver's term means that the threads are dyed to pattern before woven, producing irregular designs and more effects that are novel, striking and unusual.

Belts show style trends of their own. They are generally somewhat wider, more rugged-looking, simpler. Elaborate and effeminate-looking styles are out. Simple sturdy leathers are the rule. These may be smooth or grained, but the latter it the autumn mood better. Pigskin on cowhide, baby buffalo, seal-skin, etc., are all in order.

There is a special comfort feature in one new belt. At either side of the hips there is a padding insert that causes the belt to hold the trousers more firmly without rumpling or distortion, as well as to give a more secure, easy feeling.

Garters to match the braces are a good style note. It is no longer necessary for a style reporter to admonish his readers regarding the wearing of garters. None remains outside the pale save those whose souls are lost to style anyway, those who wander through sartorial eternity in the dim half-light of sloppiness.

The way trousers are cut— Braces are Essential

The change has come so gradually you may not have noticed it, but the waist line of trousers is about 1 1/2 to 2 inches higher than used to be when a belt was the only visible means of support.

Which means that suspenders (braces) are quite necessary to balance the trousers and prevent sagging in the seat and crotch, a most ungainly sight.

Careful dressers are as particular about the style and color of suspenders as they are neckwear and hosiery.

A pair for each pair of trousers, properly adjusted at the beginning, saves a lot of bother when changing suits.

Styles, colors, patterns and widths, to blend with the tones of new fall suits. $1.00, $1.50, $2.00.

57 Days at Sea—10 of Them in Stormy Weather —Nobody Could Say HE had "Gone Back"

According to the people who study such things, Captain Schlimgback's success in his venture is just what one should expect.

Older men need not fear an excessive loss in deftness of mind, hand and eye. Barring feats of extraordinary physical strength, the BETTER a man is skilled in a task and the MORE COMPLEX the task is—the longer he will retain his ability to perform it!

Men with health and energy are more valuable AFTER 40 than BEFORE. Experience is the fruit of years—and no young man can have it. A man is just beginning to hit his pace as he approaches 40. Then he becomes really valuable in industry. Provided he keeps his health, he is ready for the higher jobs where his type is needed—to manage young men and teach them what HE KNOWS.

MR. PETER CECIL FINISHES NEW NOVEL

Dear Life Begins:

I am a writer, and had been planning a novel—a semi-mystery story. The plot and development of such a book take long hours of concentration. The background, the plot, the experience were there, but I couldn't get them down on paper. I was run-down, a nervous wreck. Even my digestion went back on me.

Then I took a friend's advice. He said Fleischmann's Yeast was a health food that would straighten me out. I thought to myself, "There's yeast in bread and they call that the staff of life—maybe pure yeast will do the trick."

I ate it regularly, and soon my digestion improved and my nerves calmed down. At last I could concentrate.

Now everything went smoothly—there was no longer any strain and the book was written and finished in less than a month!

I still eat Fleischmann's Yeast because it keeps me fit physically, and therefore mentally. PETER CECIL.

Happy in Fine New Job

MRS. ARTHUR CROSS
A SUPERVISOR NOW

Dear Life Begins:

When my husband met with business reverses I had to go back to teaching school, besides looking after my husband and little daughter.

The nervous strain we were going through, along with the additional burden of my new job, affected my health. I was nervous and run-down—lost weight and couldn't build up my strength.

Then a friend recommended Fleischmann's Yeast. I began to eat it and found my strength coming back. I wasn't nervous any more.

I had only just managed to keep on with my teaching job because it was exhausting me so, but soon I was full of energy and zest.

My health was so improved that my work showed excellent results—I was promoted to supervisor. Now, with my fine new job, due to good health, and no more worries, I'm a very happy woman. CLARA CROSS

MR. WALLY VAN DIRECTS MOVIES

Dear Life Begins:

I am a movie director, making independent pictures. Working with temperamental people there's bound to be lots of tension. It also takes creative nervous energy. Above all, I have to make quick adjustments, keeping the situation well in hand so production can go ahead without loss of time.

For years I was troubled with constipation. I had such pains from gas

I couldn't even lie down at night. Having to sleep sitting up, I didn't rest properly and my nerves went to pieces.

Then I saw a story about Fleischmann's Yeast that said it was good for constipation. I tried it and found it excellent. Besides, I got over my nervous condition and got back to work again.

Now, at 51, even with a big rush production going through, I can cope with emergencies. Yeast keeps me in the pink of condition. I'm not fat, have no bulging waistline and no nerves. WALLY VAN

Slower Digestion is One of the First Signs of Aging

The digestive system is one of the first parts of the body to show signs of wear. It generally begins to slow down soon after a person reaches 40.

This slowing-down process comes about because, as people grow older, the gastric juices tend to become SCANTIER and WEAKER. They are no longer able to do a thorough job.

But you can check this.

Fleischmann's fresh Yeast helps the digestive juices to flow MORE FREELY. It also helps to STRENGTHEN them.

With improved digestive action, your whole system feels better—you find you feel more vigorous, younger.

Besides this digestive help, Fleischmann's Yeast brings you tonic action. It contains a generous supply of 4 important vitamins. Each one of these vitamins has its own vital part in maintaining good health.

If you are 40 or over, give yourself the benefit of this extra help. Begin eating 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day—one cake 1/4 hour before meals—plain or dissolved in a little water, as you prefer. Before long you'll feel a big improvement in your health and spirits!

$25 WILL BE PAID FOR LETTERS of success after 40—so helpful to others we wish to print them. If you can truly credit to Fleischmann's Yeast some part of the health that made your success possible—write us—enclosing your picture. (Letters and pictures cannot be returned.) Former Schoolmates at Lucy Cobb Will Honor Mrs. O'Day at Reunion

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Mrs. Caroline O'Day comes south to attend the marriage of her son, Danny O'Day, to lovely Ida Sadler, which will be a brilliant and fashionable event of October 23, she will be paid signal honor. For members of the Lucy Cobb Alumnae Association have planned a special reunion as a fitting tribute to this distinguished member of their clan.

The reunion will take the form of a dinner to be held on Monday evening, October 25, at the Georgian hotel in Athens, and will assemble alumnae of the famous old institute from many points in the south. The idea of thus honoring Mrs. O'Day originated with Mrs. Lamar Rutherford Lipscomb, another prominent Lucy Cobb alumna and a relative of the late Miss "Millie" Rutherford, for many years the principal and presiding genius of the school.

As Caroline Low Gooden, of Savannah, Mrs. O'Day attended Lucy Cobb in the days when "Miss Millie" was the dominant figure and the guiding star of many a Georgia girl's life. Her sparkling personality and keen intellect were only a little less impressive in those days when she was a reigning belle among her contemporaries. Among the Atlanta girls who were also schoolgirls at Lucy Cobb at that time and who retain vivid memories of her refreshing charm are Mrs. W. D. Ellis Jr., Mrs. Wilmer Moore and Mrs. Robert L. Foreman. As a member of the exclusive Iridian Society, Mrs. O'Day was a popular leader among her schoolmates and was always in demand for positions of importance.

Today the demand on her time and talents has broadened to national scope. In addition to her high position as congresswoman from New York state, she has served as national Democratic committeewoman, and has filled most capably many important commissions imposed by her political affiliations. As an art student in Paris, she met and married the late Daniel O'Day, one of the founders of the Standard Oil Company. When not in residence in the national capital, she presides as chateau over a charming home in Rye, N. Y., which she calls Sunset Lane.

Though Mrs. O'Day does not come south often, her friends in her native state are legion. And the reunion planned in her honor provides a much-desired opportunity for those friends to express their pride and pleasure in her splendid achievements.

IT'S bridge table gossip but it bids fair to be the forerunner of the announcement of the marriage of one of the city's most attractive young widows to a widower who stands high in his chosen profession.

The young widow, who is still on the sunny side of forty, has carved for herself an undisputed place among the ranks of her contemporaries since her residence here which began after her marriage. It would be telling too much to make mention of her children, for giving their number, age and activities would be a sure give-away of the widow's identity.

As to the widower, he, too, must remain veiled in secrecy, for one inkling of his position in Atlanta professional ranks would be telling all. But this much can be said: The post he holds is one of extreme importance, as many Georgia couples can testify. Watch what Sally says and wait for further announcements!

SALLY gives the Associated Press credit for the following story emanating from the Georgia U. D. C. convention held this week in Macon. It happened at the opening dinner of the convention when Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, brilliant, historian-general of the organization, was chief speaker. Mrs. Lamar chose as her subject "Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy."

In eloquent and glowing terms the speaker eulogized the great southern statesman. Summing up her speech at the close Mrs. Lamar's tribute to the Confederacy president reached oratorical heights when she said, "Let the world know the wisdom, the kindness, the justice of the great and only president of the Confederate States of America—Abraham Lincoln."

Passing the slip off gracefully, Mrs. Lamar said she couldn't imagine how or why her tongue tricked her but said she supposed it was "just one of those psychological moments when the unexplainable occurs."

"THE Light in the Mountains" is only one of many slogans applied to the Tallulah Falls school, where Georgia's mountain children can obtain an education. The slogan "Give and Go to Tallulah," adopted by the Gainesville group working for the school, is appealing.

Sally, however, awards the palm to Mrs. S. D. Gausemel, prominent member of Tallulah's Young Matrons' Circle, for the best slogan named yet for the school's benefit.

At the Tallulah trustees' dinner given Wednesday evening Mrs. Gausemel announced that, as the school's dental chairman, she had a number of prominent Atlanta dentists "pulling for Tallulah!"

THAT time-old subject, "Advice to the Lovelorn," was replaced at the recent luncheon given by Mrs. John Duncan, "Advice to the Bride-to-Be."

when guests gathered at her home in honor of Lamar Peschau. This young belle, you know, will become the bride of James Morton next Tuesday and Mrs. Duncan's party was one of the most novel given in her honor.

The hostess, who is noted for her exquisite taste and originality planned her menu to match her china and her floral decorations.

At the guests' place were hand-painted cards with the request that each girl write a bit of best advice to the bride-elect. Lamar collected all her information and tucked it into her bag for future reference. Some of the advice given follows:

Avoid the first argument. Remember the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, so feed the brute! Never tell a husband an unpleasant bit of news of domestic nature before he eats. Rule your husband, but let him think he is ruling you. Learn to cook so fastidiously that he won't be the one to "go home to mother." Stick to him through thick and thin, greet his ideas with a grin, and if he thinks he is right in what he says, you'll be happy all your days. One of the unmarried girls present gave this as her advice to Lamar: From where I stand, you don't need advice, for I think you are doing very nice.

Anent the Peschau-Morton wedding, Sally hears that Agnes Peschau, cousin of the bride-elect, will fly down from New York Sunday for the wedding. And as she is pressed for time, from her work in New York, she will be forced to return there Wednesday and will hop a plane at Candler field at midnight on Tuesday.

Brilliance Forecast for Social Season

A spectacular achievement is this evening wrap of black costume velvet. It is studded with gold kid forget-me-nots with rhinestone centers. The sleeves are bell shape, slit to the elbow. Left is a white brocade evening gown that is breath-taking in its beauty and simplicity. The hem is lined in royal blue that shows as one walks.

The woman of charm, it appears, is slated to reach her Nirvana this season, for Parisian couturieres have decreed she shall dramatize her feminine appeal.

Fashion goes back to the turn of the century and, according to Ralph Breed, fashion interpreter, in Atlanta this week, with his sophisticated New York slant, "From the highest fashion standpoint it brings in the subtlety of the great dressmakers' greatest art in the sculptured treatments of the body."

The old classical treatment of the bustline for street, afternoon and the Victorian décolletage for evening has found a distinct place in the hearts of the foremost fashion designers. And with this Old World charm clinging (and clinging is the word there) to the modern woman—the fashion experts have really given her "something there."

The discerning woman will melt her slender silhouette this fall into nutria, Persian and silver fox, according to the distinguished fashion expert, who also adds, "I wish they would breed some new animals." It could be gathered from the statement that Mr. Breed's sharpened imagination has waned under the consistency of nutria, Persian and silver fox but the woman doesn't exist who hasn't a steadfast weakness for—at least the latter.

Into the dramatic canvas of the moment steps the woman whose chic is something which strikes you like a small typhoon. She is a tactician for she has combined flamboyancy with subtlety. She is exquisite in a Chinese red creation with a jacket of monkey fur. Can you forget her?

Milady's shoulders, like a slender pillar of marble, shall rise above the décolletage of her evening gown while skirt lengths shall just gracefully sweep the floor—with a toe revealed when she steps (to be daring). In gold lame, Egyptian lines will reveal the molded silhouette. She moves along—or is she moving?—the mystery of the ages in her eyes.

"We are in an embroidered era," informs Mr. Breed, "from the finet to the most bizarre and daring. Paris insists on embroidery." So take a tip and dash down today and search until you find the embroidery which more definitely accentuates your charm.

Have you seen the Victorian tassels, with the myriad of tiny mirrors highlighting a black dress THAT IS A BLACK DRESS? The sculptured lines that follow the body with only one distraction—the mirrors.

Honey beige for dressy wear is said by Mr. Breed to be one of the highlights in colors for fall, while the companion dresses in bright red and bright green cannot escape their destiny as being one of the "fashion loves" for the clothes-conscious woman.

"To arms, to arms, ye brave." And it will take only the very brave to resist the lure of lovely arms this season. That is, shall have arm appeal if you use your head along with your arms and see that in your fall wardrobe you have four dresses with three-quarter length sleeves to one with long.

Loads of jewelry! A pirate's booty if you can find it, would serve the purpose, for you will be wanting everything in costume jewelry. You can even afford to be a bit daft with this striking combination and that. It is a season for decoration.

If you want to recapture a romance that is definitely on the Gifted Designer Creates New Shoe Fashion.

Anticipating the tremendous vogue for zippers now sweeping two continents, a gifted designer of shoes, has cleverly employed the slide fastener to create the sleekest shoe of the season.

In a talk at a recent fashion meeting, this designer said, "Women are zipping themselves into their dresses, their coats, their suits. Now, with so much emphasis on molded, sculptured lines, it is more important than ever that shoes have that neat, uncluttered look. I decided that if a zipper could be used as an ornament and practical closing device on some of the smartest, most expensive dresses and coats coming out of the Paris ateliers, fashion-conscious women would welcome the convenience of the zipper in their shoes, if it could be used in an attractive way."

"I tried out dozens of patterns with variations on the zipper theme, and finally created what I think is the perfect shoe—a high-cut sheath of suede, sculptural in line, with a slide fastener streaking up the instep. I showed the shoe to several fashion experts, and they were unanimous in their praise, declaring that this zipper shoe was the most attractive new shoe fashion they had seen in years, and predicting a great vogue for it."

He continued, "I've always been keenly interested in creating shoes that are flattering, as well as smart. Now, with the new zipper shoe, I feel that I have made a further and important contribution toward making every woman's foot look beautiful."

This zipper shoe may be bought in an Atlanta shop. For information call the Fashion Editor of The Atlanta Constitution.

wane—how about that black velvet trimmed in white pique? Or if it's dinner for two—the first date—old lace and new velvet will turn the trick. Soft lines are smart. Achieve the sophistication of simplicity when you aim for romance.

Glenda Farrell and Mary Brian were talking together in a quiet booth in the Brown Derby when the news photographers noted them in their new fall clothes. Glenda wore a navy blue pin stripe tailored suit with white satin blouse, blue felt Breton and all sheer black crepe, widely sashed, with black and red grosgrain hat and black patent accessories.

There is the glamour of the cinema in this loose evening coat of ermine crush velvet in a flattering off white tone. There is a brief collar fastened with a jeweled pin and a huge companion muff.

The costumes presented were all sketched in Atlanta shops. For further information call the Fashion Editor of The Atlanta Constitution.

Gold mirror sequins glitter in a serpentine design on this short black crepe jacket. Remove the jacket and you wear a simple black crepe evening gown with huge rhinestone clip, the skirt slit in front, and a slight train.

The Hollywood Looking Glass

"First Lady" made screen costume history when nine ensembles were created for Kay Francis without resorting to any surface detail outside of stitching. Now the creator is doing 27 changes for her to wear in the Warner Brothers picture, "Return From Limbo" and more than half of them will carry out the same idea of extreme simplicity.

The designer is concentrating on unusual materials and distinctive drapery for the beauty of the gowns and incidentally can be credited with the original American trend of unaffection. Miss Francis is more enthusiastic about them than about any gowns she has ever had—and she is voted America's best-dressed woman.

A single date while Director Nick Grinde was in the orient, is blossoming out now with a whole new evening wardrobe since he is back. Dancing at the Trocadero she was chic in a fitted dress completely covered with iridescent blue sequins and the next night at the Brown Derby she wore a black velvet, short-jacketed suit and a tiny peaked velvet cap with veil falling to the shoulders.

Mary Maguire is wearing a shorter bob now because the shoulder-length coiffure was unbecoming with the new high-crowned hats. Lunching at Sardi's she was gay as a lark in a rose antelope tam manipulated to point upward and forward. With this she wore a bell boys' jacket of matching suede with short skirt of grey and rose plaid pleated wool.

Chanel's Bow-Knot

A madly swirling skirt, a sculptured bodice, twinkling bow-knots of paillettes make this net dress . . . the color of crushed grapes . . . truly the star of the evening.

Here and There In Summertime

By LOUISE TODD WALLACE.

LONDON.—In parts of Cardigan (Wales) the ancient way of getting married is still preserved. On the morning of the wedding several friends of the bridegroom, mounted on horseback, ride up to the bride's father to demand the bride. The father on sighting the invaders saddles his horse and with his daughter seated behind, rides off full gallop. The chase is long, but in the end the bride is captured and that's the way to be married in Cardigan.

The flower show at Southport, Lancashire, opened recently. Founded only 14 years ago, it is now regarded as the climax of English showing season. In the show are five miles of British garden and greenhouse products presenting a blaze of color that is a fairland of spectacle. Among the dahlias is one in flame-and-old-gold, that has been named after the King. Another interesting flower to make its first appearance is a yellow begonia. For years, growers have striven to produce this shade in the begonia, and the "Golden Queen" (as it is named) is a welcome arrival.

I was told that an American visitor is taking back to America with him a new orchid, the only one of its kind in the world. Enthusiasts readily pay one pound a bulb for a new gladiolus that has been christened "Highland Chief."

It didn't much matter that the performance of "The Tempest" was not perfect. With a round moon shining through the trees in Regent's park in the open-air theater there came a touch of the age in which the play was written, and I was very happy to sit in contentment there under the stars.

I went to the zoo—sorry I did. Can't quite forget the haunting eyes of a stag I tried to make friends with; in the end he proved me to be a silly sort. What cared he for my foolish prattle in praise of his beauty and bearing? Didn't everybody say the same? Yet who had come to offer him the hope of freedom? Out in the never-ever-land a purple carpet of heather stretches silently away to the cool stream that flows from the mountain side and where when daylight fades a rising moon gives a gentle radiance.

That is his birthright, I read it in his mournful eyes, and I knew what he was thinking too, that there out there he feels things more intensely, logic and reason may easily slip right into the background, but "you can't understand. Freedom means nothing to you and you have come here with your idiotic dribble." And turning he left me. I think I heard him say, "Humans aren't good company. Who knows? Maybe he is right!"

TOURING THE SETS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—"She Married an Artist" at Columbia. "I'm a little contrite boy in this picture," says Southern Gentleman John Boles. His hair is crumpled. His shirt is wet—but not wet enough—so Marion Gering orders a property man to empty a bucket of water on his back. John is supposed to have come out of the rain into the bedroom of Viennese import Lull Deste.

There have been many stories in circulation regarding Miss Deste. She is said to own three black Afghan dogs, several race horses, an all-white car, a passion for designing her own clothes—a fur-lined robe into which she slips between scenes (pew!), a perfect English accent, a hunger that causes her to nibble continuously on the set, a resolve to become an American citizen. She is also said to be the daughter of a baron and the wife of one—the latter killed on the eve of Lull's departure for the United States six months ago.

Looking at Lull, you'd never guess it. If anything, she is a little on the mousey type, except for her eyes, which flash angrily when the director says, "Darling, try to rehearse for the camera. You're looking at the script girl."

Lull tries again, in the "perfect English" "You've caught cold," she tells John Boles. Everyone laughs, except the weary director—Miss Deste, who says, "Blast," with a perfect Viennese accent.

"The Last Gangster" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. . . . Star Edward G. Robinson would like to take the title literally, "I'm tired of gangster pictures—I hope this is the last for me," he says. Eddie is in pretty bad shape. The make-up department has painted a beautiful shiner under his right eye. His clothes are torn, his face wet and grimy. And he's fallen into the clutches of Bandit Lionel Stander. The scene is a packing house cellar. Robinson has been running the ganglet for 10 hours and has another 14 to go before Mr. Stander puts him on the spot. "I remember when I was last in Sing Sing," Robinson tells me. "It was Christmas Eve and I was entertaining the boys. You think you're tough," I told them. "You should see some of the babies I have to play with," and Eddie indicates the boys in the cellar—particularly Stander. . . . "More smoke," orders the director. "Here, you," pointing to a tough-looking guy, "puff this cigarette into Eddie's eyes as he passes you." . . . A camera topples over. "That's what happens when I smoke," says the gangster and asks to be excused. "You see, I never smoked before in my life—and I don't feel so good."

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Wednesday.—My mother-in-law's steamer docked fairly late yesterday evening, but she was brought off the boat with her luggage so quickly that it seemed no time at all before we were up at her own house in 65th street. She made her mind that, in spite of the lateness of the hour, she wanted to motor straight to Hyde Park. She said she had spent most of the time on board ship in bed so as to arrive well rested. She had been told the President's train would get in this morning and she was most anxious to be here to greet him.

It began to rain last night, but that did not daunt her in the least. When I went over to the big house this morning, I found her most cheerful and apparently untired, supervising the unpacking of her various bags. She always prefers to travel with a great many little bags rather than with trunks. I imagine she is right as far as getting them off the steamer is concerned, for I never saw anything appear more rapidly.

We were all of us in Hyde Park by midnight, or a little after, last night. I expected the President's party to arrive from the west at 8:45. However, first word came the train would not be in before 10:30 and, as usually happens, it grew later and later and they didn't arrive until 11:30. James and Betsy came in with my husband and they are all going to Washington together.

After the President arrived at the house, he sat out on the front porch and the entire press came up to ask questions. I very rarely stay for press conferences because I always have the most terrific urge to ask some of their questions for them!

They want to know so many things I would like to know also. I suppose I might get a great deal of explanation and knowledge if I insisted on asking questions in private, but it always seems to me a little unfair to force anyone to talk shop when they might be thinking of something else. In addition, it is certainly better for me to know only what the general public knows via the newspapers. Then there is never the slightest danger that I will tell something which I should not tell, for I know nothing except what anyone else who chooses to read the public press may know.

My mother-in-law is very full of her experiences abroad and of the kindness which was shown her everywhere she went. I think the rest and the pleasant experiences have done her a great deal of good. She looks well and is in grand spirits. When pumpkin pie appeared for lunch, some of us who have a regard for our figures took fruit instead. With a twinkle in her eye, she looked at us and said: "You don't know how good it is. Home food always tastes better than anything else. I shouldn't eat pie, but I am enjoying it a great deal."

Pleasant Homes

WITH NOSE IN THE AIR.

With His Nose in the Air.

We saw a high and mighty interior decorator put his nose up in the air over the desires of an engaged pair seeking his advice on their new home. With "only" $3,000 to spend, said he, he just didn't see how they could expect to do anything very interesting. Well, well, we replied, but that's quite a lot for a young couple to have in cash to put into their house of hope. And if knowledge and experience do not enable the trained decorator to offer usable suggestions to people with a limited to their resources, we question the creativeness of that decorator. After all the art of it is ideas . . . it's not so clever to be able to make a room look like a million if a million has been spent on it. But it is clever to make it look like a million when it's cost a small penny.

Another interior decorator who's a friend of ours takes pride in the fact that he can think of that work can be worked out with a hammer, love, a needle and a tack hammer. Here are some of her suggestions of ways to get "decorator touches" with trimmings.

Wellings and Fringes.

In the Living Room—A sofa that isn't so much one way or the other becomes quite something by the addition of a pile welting in the seams and a deep rope fringe around the bottom. Or if you have a studio couch, finish seams with a heavy rope in contrasting color and finish the box pleated ruffle with a flat woven tape braid. Two not-very-important windows with a space between can be treated as one by hanging the glass curtains all across the two windows as well as the wall space, then sweeping draperies to the outside of each window and adding to the draperies a tasseled fringe and bigger tassels and cord tie backs. A pair of upholstered chairs with slip covers and a plain shade will finish all around and up and down with an inch-and-a-half width embroidered braid or else a flower stripe cut from a striped cretonne. Cushions finished with wool or silk fringe or trimmed with a smart flat woven braid are touches that will make a room look like a million when it's cost a small penny.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, for the bulletin, "Sew Yourself a Family History" which contains designs you can copy in needlework that will have individual significance.

BLACK HAWK AND THE SCOUT.

One afternoon in 1812, an American scout walked through the woods near the Rock River in Illinois. He was trying to spy out the camping place of some enemy Indians.

Looking at Lull, you'd never guess it. If anything, she is a little on the mousey type, except for her eyes, which flash angrily when the director says, "Darling, try to rehearse for the camera. You're looking at the script girl."

the end of three years, however, he slipped away from his warrior friends and made his way back to his own home.

Sixteen years later, the Black Hawk war broke out. Kilbourn was again a scout, and again he was captured. This time he was made prisoner during a battle. He was taken to the Indian camp and tied to a tree.

"If they remember me," he thought, "I am surely a dead man." Chief Black Hawk passed near him.

"Do you think that Black Hawk forgets?" asked the chief.

Now, indeed, the scout felt that the end was near. He waited. Black Hawk stepped to the tree, and with his own hands unbound the cords around Kilbourn's arms.

"Go!" he said. "Go back to your white chief. Tell him that Black Hawk meant no harm when he crossed the river to raise corn for his starving women and children. Tell him that my warriors held the white flag and were shot down."

Thus was the surprised scout set free. In a later battle, Black Hawk and his men were defeated, but the chief's kind deed has lived after him.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

EXERCISE AND SPORTS RAISE BUST CURVES.

Because curves are on the up and up, several hundred mannequins lost their jobs this year! The mannequins in question were window dummies, of course, for the smart young women who model can remodel their figures. All it takes is exercise.

As long ago as last spring New York models foresaw a new trend in figures, with a curved, huge bust line and slender waist. Accordingly, they spent their spare time in exercise to develop their pectoral muscles. The perfect model of today has the figure of an outdoor girl, reflecting radiant health.

Figures are constantly changing, and this time, for the better. A few years ago fashion decreed the flat-chested figure, which was achieved in many cases by wearing a binding brassiere. From the standpoint of health and the normal figure, this was the worst thing one could do, for continued binding of the breasts breaks down the tissues and results in a sagging bust line. In spite of medical warnings, however, the flat-chested vogue lasted for several years.

As a consequence of an unprecedented enthusiasm for sports and exercise, the feminine figure has again changed. The fashionable bust line has the firm, high contour of superb health, and the uplift brassiere is designed for the healthier figure.

Excellent for beautifying chest, bust and arms.

Exercise effects a remarkable improvement in bust contour. The breasts have no muscles, but position and contour are largely influenced by the supporting pectoral muscles. Weight of course is also an important factor, since deposits of fat in this area contribute to the size of the bust and may lower its position. Likewise, where there is insufficient fatty tissue, as with extreme underweight, the bust is underdeveloped. Generally speaking, the contour of the bust is improved by bringing the weight up or down to normal, and through the practice of simple exercise.

One of the simplest exercises and one which is in favor with the models is to bend the elbows and bring the fingers of the hands together, just in front of the bust. The fingers together strongly, to bring the chest and arm muscles into vigorous action. Relax and repeat several times.

Another effective normalizing exercise is to clasp the hands back of the head and, exerting force with first one arm and then the other, pull the clasped hands from one ear to the other. You should feel the pull through the shoulder girdle. Remember to keep your chin up.

Here is an exercise for which you will need an assistant, but which develops a lovely bust line: Sit on the floor, facing your partner with the soles of your feet resting against hers, each holding one end of a strong strap or rope about 18 inches in length. Pull this mild variation of the tug-of-war develops lovely contours of the chest, bust and arms.

Beauty, According To You

(Posed by Margaret Sullivan.)

A Favorite Fragrance Dramatized Into a Distinctly New Entity.

By LILLIAN MAE.

Do certain odors, or perfumes remind you of precious stones, or lovely jewels?

There is a most enchanting fragrance—not new, though in reality only a few years old—which has always brought to my mind an emerald with all its dash and fire. It is a perfume which, to me, is particularly suitable for cold weather. It just seems to particularly suit furs, and the fur season.

Only a tiny bit of the essence is necessary, and at first, even the tiny bit may seem too strong, and perhaps too heavy. But just wait a few moments and the odor will be much lighter and altogether pleasing, and will outlast any other I have yet known. Frankly, used on furs, the most alluring fragrance will linger for days, and the longer it lingers, the more delightful it becomes.

Used on the flesh, as perfumes should generally be used, the result is just as pleasing.

Not satisfied with just the perfume, the manufacturer has now a most complete line of toiletries in this same haunting odor. There is an eau de toilette; a face powder of fine texture; dusting powder; bath salts; talcum, in both a metal container and a satin-frosted glass jar; soap in two sizes; sachet in a glass jar and liquid brillianine in a fluted flacon.

All these products, perfumed with this most delightful of "cool-weather" odors, are now in an entirely new dress. Symbolic of the emerald's richness, the new decorative note is an ingeniously intricate tracery design of Persian origin, carried out in rich, bold colors. This "dressing" is so different from any of the others in the line manufactured by that house, that each article in the entire collection becomes an immediately identifiable unit.

In the various gift ensembles arranged by the manufacturer, this impressive new decorative motif is brought to a striking climax. They range from two-piece sets priced at $2.25 to a gorgeous 10-piece array priced between $10 and $15.

I can think of nothing more fitting or more striking in the way of a gift, than an ensemble from this line, in as few or as many items as desired—all in the new Persian beauty of dress and the superb scent, with an item fitted to each and every beauty rite.

Remember, Christmas is not so very far away, and this ensemble is suggested for what it is worth in that respect, as well as for what it may do to add beauty and quality to your own dressing table.

For the name of this line and the stores at which these items may be purchased, phone me at my office in The Constitution building. If you do not live in Atlanta, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

JUST NUTS

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

CORRECTION OF SPINAL CURVATURE.

The other day we told of the importance of muscular insufficiency as a cause of spinal curvature. If a boy or girl developing spinal curvature is not properly treated more or less fixed deformity is inevitable as the child grows up. To estimate in a given case whether the curvature is still mainly functional, measure the height as the child stands in the usual position. Then see how much the child can increase the height by standing as tall as possible. If there is a difference of more than one-half inch the outlook for correction without surgical treatment is good. Surgical treatment implies chiefly the application of cast or brace and special corrective exercises to be prescribed and supervised by the physician or orthopedic surgeon in each individual case.

The first step in the correction of functional curvature, which is due almost wholly to muscular insufficiency, is a thorough health examination, including, of course, careful consideration of the child's general hygiene, diet, hours of study, hours of play.

Nutritional deficiency is a common factor of muscular weakness or insufficiency and the fatigue and strain to which malnourished individuals are subject. This does not mean that the individual does not get enough to eat. Rather it means that the diet is deficient in one or more essentials of optimal nutrition. There may be a lack of iron, of iodine, of phosphorus, of calcium. Most frequently, I believe, the growing child suffers from deficiency of vitamins, particularly vitamins D, B and G.

Even if the diet provides adequate amounts of phosphorus, calcium and iron, it is still necessary that the daily intake of vitamins D, B and G be more generous than ordinary foods can provide, in order to insure normal assimilation and utilization of these elements in metabolism, growth, etc.

An effective, agreeable and economical way to supplement the diet with these vitamins is the eating of a dozen, more or less, irradiated yeast tablets daily. Not ordinary yeast, which ferments and is relatively poor in vitamins; but a selected strain of yeast which is rich in ergosterol. This does not ferment in the digestive tract, is relatively rich in vitamins, and is in ergosterol. This does not ferment in the digestive tract, is relatively rich in vitamins, and is in ergosterol. This does not ferment in the digestive tract, is relatively rich in vitamins, and is in ergosterol.

I would advise also a daily ration of at least two or three ounces of wheat germ, in one dish or another, for every young person who has muscular insufficiency, whether spinal curvature is developing or not. Health food stores generally have wheat germ at a few cents a pound. A little of it may be used in any recipe calling for wheat flour, or mixed with any cereal.

If the young person is unaccountably tired, drowsy, mooping, or has any sign of simple goitre, she should have an iodine ration.

Your advice on iodine ration is valuable. But would appreciate reply as to whether iodine in tablet form may be used instead of the liquid which is unhandy for me. (C. N.)

Answer—Yes, but what can be handled than a small strong vial of common tincture of iodine in the home medicine chest—it should be there anyway, for first aid disinfection of every wound, puncture, abrasion or bruise. Nearly every one needs an iodine ration. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for taking iodine ration.

Turn Over.

In taking sun baths there are any advantage in alternate exposure of front and back of body other than uniform tan? (L. L. B.)

Answer—Yes, some such plan prevents sunburn, exposes greater surface for manufacture of vitamin D. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

LEARN NEW STEPS AT HOME; HAVE GOOD TIMES AT DANCES

How to be popular at dances? Be ready for any step your partner may try. Be as much at ease when you dance a tricky, fascinating rumba as you are in a plain waltz. Walk the boys quickly—see how good you are.

You can easily learn to dance well. Teach yourself at home from simple diagrams.

Look at the diagram for the rumba step. Couldn't you do it? Turn your radio to a luring rumba and try.

1. Step to left side with left foot. And. Close with right foot. 2. Step forward with left foot and pause, with your feet separated. Then begin again with right foot.

To get the rhythm and swing that makes the rumba such a favorite, take the first three movements quickly, linger on the pause. And away as you change your weight from one leg to the other. Bend the knee of the leg that's getting the weight, let the heel come down, swing your hips—just enough—and m-m-m! what a rumba you'll do!

Be a whiz at the tango, too. Be smooth in the Westchester, an angel of grace in the waltz. Our 40-page booklet, Social Dancing Self-Taught, shows you how with simple instructions and diagrams. Begin now—be a big hit at your next dance.

Send 15c for our booklet, SOCIAL DANCING SELF-TAUGHT, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of your booklet.

Small Industries Are Hailed As 'Salvation of the South'

Meriwether County Citizens Pay Tribute to Two Leading Enterprises of Woodbury; Speaker Assails High Freight Rates in This Section.

By LUKE GREENE.
Small industries were hailed as "the salvation of the south" by county who assembled in Woodbury last night to pay tribute to the town's two leading enterprises, one of which is the largest plant packing plant in the world. Sharing honors at a banquet sponsored by the mayor and council of Woodbury were officials of the Hill Brothers Company of Florida, which operates the plant canner, and F. A. DuRand, manufacturer of fruit machinery. W. F. Redfield, of New York, vice president and general manager of the Hill Brothers Company, was principal speaker at the banquet. He was introduced by C. R. May, of Woodbury, southern manager of the packing concern.

High Freight Rates Hit.
Citing high freight rates as one of the principal drawbacks to southern industry, Redfield praised the work now being done by governors in the south to lower rates. "If something could be done about these rates, it would mean much to industrial progress," he said.
Pointing out that industrial growth of the south has been based on economy of production, he deplored the passage of the Connerly wage and hour bill.
"I see no reason why workers in the south should be forced to take a lower wage when it is a disadvantage to them," he declared.

Visitors Introduced.
A. D. Jones, mayor of Woodbury, presided at the banquet and introduced prominent visitors, which included mayors and civic leaders of three surrounding towns and prominent officials from all over the county.
Referring to the south's overproduction of cotton, the Rev. W. G. Harry, mayor of Warm Springs, declared that "such small industries as pepper production are going to mean the salvation of Meriwether county and the south" and urged the community to encourage enterprises of its type.
I. H. Davis, mayor of Manchester, praised the Hill Brothers Company for its aid to the county, pointing out that "six small industries are better for a community than one large company."

Other Speakers.
Included Jack Allen, Greenville attorney; Gus Huddleston, mayor of Greenville; Frank Hatchett, Greenville attorney; Dr. J. L. Dixon, of Woodbury; Alvin Keith, county commissioner; Judge R. A. McGraw, representative from Meriwether county; Jack Hill, of Greenville, and J. R. Powell, of Woodbury, county commissioners, and T. E. Carmichael, J. O. Langdon, and T. H. Carroll.
Honor guests, other than Redfield, May and DuRand, were Alton Bartlett, James Jones and F. A. DuRand Jr.
The plant canner, which has been operated in Woodbury for approximately seven years, employs 425 people and distributes approximately $175,000 per year in the community. Approximately 400 acres of land in Meriwether and surrounding counties are devoted to pepper plant production.

CITIZENS DEMAND CLEANUP OF VICE IN FORMWALT AREA

New Civic Organization To Ask Police Aid in Ridding Section of Undesirables.

A clean up of rampant vice conditions and salacious "C" houses in the Formwalt "community" of the south side was demanded last night by a group of citizens who formed a new civic organization to combat crime.

Playing vice and houses of ill fame in the community which threaten the morals of the children, leaders of the community voted to ask co-operation of the grand jury, Mayor Hartsfield and Police Chief M. A. Hornsby in wiping out the undesirable element.

Must Band Together.

"We all know the reputation this section bears and we must band together now to stop crime or else all the decent citizens will be forced to move out," J. W. Weaver, a lawyer, declared. He was elected chairman of a committee to draw resolutions asking aid of the grand jury and the police.

Promises of aid came from Lieutenant R. P. Burnett, of the detective department, who represented Chief Hornsby at the mass meeting. Burnett said many arrests had already been made in a clean-up campaign inaugurated by the police department early this year and that several houses of ill fame had been permanently closed.

Weaver urged the citizens of the community to co-operate with police and to exercise the police power of a private citizen in arresting violators of the law. He described conditions in the community which he asserted are an "insult to all women residing here."

Score of Members.

Charles Ford, former alderman and councilman, promised Formwalt community residents aid of a civic organization which was represented at the meeting at the Formwalt school by more than a score of members.

M. D. Cato was named chairman of the new organization, with Mrs. L. L. O'Shields as secretary-treasurer. Another meeting is to be held soon.

JAPANESE PAPERS WARN WASHINGTON

U. S. Is Told to Continue Neutral Position in Far East.

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—(Friday)—The Tokyo press warned the United States today to continue her neutrality in editorial comment on the State Department condemning Japan as a treaty violator in China.

Typical comment: Miyoko—"It (the United States action) is liable to disturb the peace in the Orient, giving rise to a world conflict."

Hochi—"Any attempt by various powers to bring concentrated pressure on Japan must be repulsed with vigor."

Nichi-Nichi—"The United States ought to realize that Japanese on the mere surface conditions will greatly harm international justice and the promotion of world peace."

Yomiuri—"What made the United States change policy so suddenly? Why did America, after adhering to a policy of strict neutrality in the Spanish civil war, lose her cool head and come to pull chestnuts from the Far Eastern fire?"

Chugai—"The United States' judgment of Japan's actions is unfortunate but need not surprise us."

Asahi—"The United States possesses the fairest conception of world affairs, especially regarding the Far East. All intelligent Americans know its foreign policy will continue to be directed with discretion and caution. Thus, United States support of the League is most likely to be confined to moral support and even if it accepts the League's invitation to a nine-power conference it is not imaginable that the United States will entirely disregard Japan's position and claim."

ACTION DEFENDED

Borah Gives Views on Black Confirmation.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, today told the Christian Science Monitor by telegram that in defending Justice Hugo Black in the senate last August against charges of Ku Klux Klan membership he did so in the belief that the then Alabama senator "was not at the time and for years had not been a member of the Klan."

Borah on August 17 told the senate "there has never been at any time one iota of evidence that Senator Black was a member of the Klan."

In reply to an inquiry, the Idaho senator said today his statement did not mean there was no evidence that Black never had joined the organization, but meant he "was not a member."

"The fact that he might once have been a member was not and would not be controlling with me," Borah said. "If I felt, as I did feel, he had ceased to be in good faith and in heart and mind a member of the Klan."

The only use she ever puts the rolling pin to is rolling dough occasionally. The rest of the time she has it put away with other family relics.

CHOOSE FOODS FOR VALUE AS WELL AS TASTE

IMMACULATE LINEN AN ESSENTIAL ITEM ON ALL OCCASIONS

Gaiety and Economy in Use of Colored Linens and Paper Doilies.

By MILDRED BENNETT.

If it be true that we enjoy meals with our eyes as well as with our palates... then a most important item of service is that which concerns the setting of the table. There must be no scrimping on the clean table linen; no spots or wrinkles to tell a tale of a continued use from one meal to the next. Yet there are days when everyone seems to spill things; mishaps come to little folks and sometimes father and mother, too.

Unless there is an elastic laundry budget and reserve linens, it is no small task for the busy homemaker to keep up to the immaculate high mark. One woman saves the situation by keeping damask clothes for special occasions and educating the family to appreciate the gaiety and charm of colored linens for every day.

She goes in for smart new cross-barred designs that break up the plain surface in such a way that spots and creases are not noticed. It takes a really big accident to wreck the good appearance of that cloth; and with lines of color running this way and that across the napkins, one just doesn't suspect they've ever been on the laps until it's time for them to go to the washbowl.

Peasant Linens.

Thus prompted, we can all recall many lovely things the shops have shown us during the past two or three years... Guatemala striped cloths of hand-woven cotton that would make equally good laundry savers; Italian peasant linens in high or soft colors, with stripes breaking through their fringe, interesting textures, and rough instead of hems; hand-blocked linen sets sprinkled all over with field flowers in natural colors. And most appropriate of all for homes where furnishings are early American or Colonial, those replicas of old hand-woven "kivvers" that once were used as often for tablecloths as for bedspreads. In blue and cream, rose or green or gold and cream, they make a well-covered background one may well be proud of.

In upholstery departments where colored linens for draperies and slip covers are sold, there are many interesting things for informal table sets, among them a gold basket weave linen with dropped threads; the same weave in turquoise or in a dusky rose. These novelties make practical linens for general family use. They do not must easily, and their irregular textures make light of spots.

Saves on Laundry.

Another housekeeper finds it a great saving of time, labor and

Canned Foods Have Recognized Dietetic Value

Modern home-bakers are so well informed about most cooking matters today that it would seem superfluous to speak of the merits of canned goods. But it seems that, standing and publication notwithstanding, many home cooks still question the dietetic standing of commercial canned foods.

Today's canning processes make preservatives unnecessary and give us practically unchanged, the freshest, finest fruits and vegetables, meats and fish.

Natural Flavors Retained.

The mechanical processes that have been so largely introduced in commercial canning have reduced to a minimum the possibilities of contamination and the prompt handling of raw products in the vicinity of their production, along with the cooking of the product in an airtight container, preserves to the fullest extent the natural flavor desired.

Chemical preservatives are entirely unnecessary in canned foods if they are properly sterilized, and today their addition is prohibited by law. Preservation is accomplished entirely through sterilization by heat and sealing the product in an airtight container. Even artificial colorings, formerly used in a few red fruits,

LITTLE 'SNACK' HAS IMPORTANT PLACE IN THE DAILY DIET

Five Meals a Day Are Advocated by Scientists Instead of Usual Three.

A "snack" has been defined as food taken out of the ordinary course; a bit, a morsel, or a hasty repast. Regardless of its definition, most everyone enjoys a mid-morning, mid-afternoon, or late evening snack.

While some of us may believe that eating between meals, or before retiring, is a bad habit and apt to ruin the appetite and the figure, the truth of the matter is that most people who partake of between-meal snacks eat no more food, but instead distribute their daily ration into five instead of three parts.

Recent experiments conducted at one of the large eastern universities point conclusively to the fact that "many of us would be more efficient if we would take five meals a day, instead of three." To prove this point, numerous tests were made of factory workers, school children, stenographers and teachers. Their muscular efficiency stayed higher on a five meal than on a two or three-meal schedule.

After School Snacks.

These findings should prove interesting to mothers when the children come home hungry after school. She should neither urge them to wait until dinner without eating, nor let them fill up on sweets. A cracker or piece of bread spread with peanut butter, cottage cheese, or jam, and a glass of milk will serve nicely for this light repast.

Mothers also can speed up their daily duties by pausing in the middle of their morning or afternoon work for a glass of orange or tomato juice. You may wish to check your pantry shelves now to see if you have sufficient sandwich spreads on hand to prepare a snack for the next hungry individual at your home.

Fruit juices make even better between-meal nourishment than milk for children, since milk taken too near the luncheon period tends to destroy the appetite.

Fruits of all kinds will perform practically the same service as fruit juices. Many a man or woman

Spaghetti Is Only as Good as Your Sauce, Says Atlanta Wife, Giving Favorite Recipe

Mrs. William Lohse shows how she prepares delicious spaghetti sauce as her daughter, Corrine, looks on.

GOOD FOOD VALUE IN THE VERSATILE OYSTER

Plenty of good food value resides in the oyster which we consider more as a delicacy than as regulation food. In fact, microscopic tests have revealed that oysters supply more nearly than any other food except milk the balanced diet for all of us.

Children may be encouraged to eat oysters to insure their supply of iodine, as well as other minerals, and vitamins. And those who are overweight may rejoice in the fact that this sea food contains a non-fatty starch which will not create extra poundage.

Oysters can be served in countless cooked recipes, in such dishes as oyster-potato pie, escalloped oysters and spaghetti, sea food au gratin, grilled with bacon, in oyster pie or oyster loaf. Let us not forget them as an alternate for fresh water fish and other sea food. They are different enough to provide pleasing variety.

Mrs. William Lohse Tells How To Give 'Zip' To Flavor of Italian Dish.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

One of her favorite dishes is Italian spaghetti with sauce and topped with a coating of fine snap-py cheese. Making the sauce is all like clockwork to this popular young Atlanta matron, for she has her recipe and her method down pat.

It's a lucky person who is invited to the Lohse home, on Twenty-sixth street, for supper. They are prepared for one of the best spaghetti suppers in the city. Mrs. Lohse knows just how to "pep" up the sauce, as her young daughter Corrine says.

Outdoor Dinners Have New Appeal In Fall Weather

So long as pleasant weather lasts there's nothing to compare with the joy of outdoor dining. But now we look forward to a change of menu... something different than those we've been having for outdoor summer meals.

Now we enjoy peppery, well-seasoned dishes, and something hot to begin with as well as to end the meal. It is easy to make up a big kettle of some soup like Philadelphia pepper-pot or Mulligatawny, and take it to the feast, there to be reheated over the campfire. Modern carry-all kettles make it convenient to carry such provisions in the car.

Frankfurters have been the summer standby; try grilled little pig sausages at this time. They're delicious when roasted on sticks and popped between tender finger rolls. These two special dishes—the soup and the sausage—will make a fine base on which to build the following picnic menu:

Mulligatawny Soup
Grilled Little Pig Sausages Between Finger Rolls
Bread and Butter Pickles
Harvest Apple Pie
Toasted Cheese

FOODS CAN BE MADE BEAUTY AS WELL AS HEALTH BUILDERS

Now Possible To Accurately
Trace Effect of Different Foods on Body.

By KATHLEEN MARY QUINLAN, Stylist in Beauty.

Just how far it is possible to go in tracing the effect of different foods upon the body is best left to those eminent food chemists who are discovering such remarkable things for the world to-day. For most of us it is sufficient to become acquainted in a broad way with the essential mineral salts to know their general effect upon the body and what fruits and vegetables contain them in worthwhile quantities.

When we know, for one thing, that phosphorus, the so-called brain and bone mineral—nourishes the nerve tissues and stimulates the growth of hair and bone, we are going to see that there is plenty of this material in the daily diet, so that we may do our part to help nature carry out her perfect plan.

The foods that are richest in phosphorus are coming into their own just now—the winter parsnips, whole wheat, corn, barley, nuts, beans and lentils. It is easy to think of a dozen good excuses for using them in fall menus that are different from those we've had all summer long.

This recipe for baked beans alone must seem revolutionary to those who prepare beans in the good old Boston way. But once tried, the recipe will be a favorite in the household.

In a kettle put one pound of navy beans, cover them with a quart of water, add salt, cut in strips; add two quarts of water and cook slowly until the beans are soft but not mushy. Mix together three tablespoons of flour, two tablespoons of butter and two tablespoons of prepared mustard; add a quarter pound of grated cheese, one cup of sweet milk, one cup of water (from the beans) and one tablespoon of salt. Cook for five minutes, remove from the fire, add to the beans and pour into a bean pot or baking dish. Bake for 20 minutes and serve hot.

Lima beans are delicious when baked with catsup, and have you ever heard of such a thing as a red bean pie? Cook the red beans until tender and mash them. Add one cup of sugar mixed with one tablespoon of flour and four eggs beaten until light. Flavor to taste with vanilla, add a stiff froth and spice. Pour into a crust and bake as you would pumpkin pie. Top with meringue, if you wish, or spread with whipped cream before serving. The pie is delicious, however, without either finish.

Carrots High in Health Value And Should Be Served Often

Founder—Mothers' Radio Round

Time and again I've urged mothers to include in daily meals a generous amount of milk, green vegetables, butter... and grated raw carrots, especially for growing children. We women love to say "I told you so"... and I am saying it in this connection, for now we hear the famous Dr. A. F. O. Germann, of Cleveland, emphasizing to the medical division of the American Chemical Society the health value of carotene.

Carotene is the yellow coloring matter found in carrots, butter, green vegetables and milk. The greater the amount of carotene stored in the body, the healthier the individual, and the stronger his resistance to many diseases. Carotene strengthens the tissues which line the throat and nose, and thereby combats one of the deadliest enemies of our children—the common cold.

Dr. Germann further stated that the major importance of carotene as a factor in human health has not been appreciated. The spleen, certain glands, the blood, the subcutaneous tissues and other organs all contain carotene when the food supply is rich in this factor.

Surely such important contributions to the health of our children should be of interest to all

A Chicken, A Fish, And An Egg Dish... All Three Are Easy To Make, and Economical.

By EDITH M. SHAFSCOTT,
Nutritionist—Former Home Making Center—New York.

If autumn is an introduction to the roast red meats and thick broiled steaks, it is also an invitation to the housewife to brush up upon the alternates. After the first few weeks of keen enjoyment of this return to heavy meats, the appetite craves a change again. At least once a week it welcomes poultry and fish... and is most kindly toward a tasty egg dish.

Now that ovens are going with out discomfort, let us remember how good a simple scalloped fish recipe tastes with such companions as baked potatoes and an inexpensive green vegetable—perhaps Harvard beets... a low-cost combination that is well balanced and full of satisfaction. Or perhaps you would like that ever-popular mixture which we call succotash. Made with the last of the season's fresh corn and lima, it is a dish to remember and goes especially well with fish.

Our menu:

For Fish Night.
Bouillon—Salt Wafers
Scalloped Fish
Watermelon Pickles
Baked Potatoes Succotash
Head Lettuce—Russian Dressing
Baked Peas
Coffee—Milk

This recipe for the scalloped fish is easy and more substantial than usual because of the rice which is used with it.

Scalloped Fish.

Place a layer of cold flaked fish in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add a layer of cold boiled rice and dot with butter. Repeat and cover the top with cracker crumbs and dot over with butter. Four over one cup of milk and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.

The baked potatoes and baked

Spanish Pie

Cut two cups of cold cooked chicken into finks. Place in a baking dish which has been lined with pastry rolled a quarter of an inch in thickness. Over the chicken place a layer of sweet red peppers (seeds removed and cut in slices). Next a layer of thinly sliced sausage. Repeat until dish is filled. Over all pour a glass of claret into which two tablespoons of flour have been rubbed. Cover with a thin crust of plain pastry. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until browned—about 30 minutes.

Egg Cutlets

2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup scalded milk
1 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon paprika
3-4 teaspoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Few grains nutmeg
8 hard-cooked eggs

Cream butter, add flour and stir until well blended. Gradually pour on the scalded milk. Cook in a double boiler for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Cut eggs in coarse pieces and add remaining ingredients to sauce. Cool, shape in the form of cutlets, roll in bread crumbs and saute in drippings until a golden brown. Serve with white sauce.

Informal Suppers

Spaghetti is a popular dish for informal suppers and can be made on short notice. Served with meat balls it makes a delectable dish and very popular with the masculine element.

Speeding of using cheese in the serving of spaghetti, Mrs. Lohse finds that this product has many uses which are helpful in fixing tempting meals on short notice. One of her favorites is a cheese tray luncheon.

"I like to have a tray filled with an assortment of various flavored cheeses," said Mrs. Lohse. "With these slices of cheese crackers add to the informality of the serving. Giving a salad touch I use peeled tomatoes cut in five sections and placed on lettuce cups and filled with mayonnaise."

Cucumber Ring

A cucumber ring is another favorite of Mrs. Lohse. Here is the recipe: In a fourth of a cup of cold water soften two tablespoons of gelatin; dissolve in one-half cup of boiling water; add one-fourth cup of sugar and cool. Add one-half teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon scraped onion, and one cup of grated drained cucumber. Soften three packages of cream cheese with one-fourth cup of gelatin mixture. Chill the remaining

A Different Vegetable Dish For Each Day in the Week

By JOSEPH BOGGIA,
Chef—The Plaza—New York.

That you may have a fine variety of vegetables for your menus this week, I give you seven recipes—as briefly as possible—a different one each day.

For Monday: French Beans Al-mande. String, cut in julienne (fine strips) and cook the beans quickly in boiling salted water, in which you have put a little red wine and bacon cut in dice. Or you may use a few drops of cider vinegar in place of the wine. Now cook two tablespoons of chopped onion in two tablespoons of flour; add a little flour, moisten with consommé; drain the beans and finish cooking them in this sauce.

For Tuesday: Potatoes with Chives. Peel potatoes and cut them in small dice. Fry in hot butter until done; when nearly cooked add a few bread crumbs and one or two tablespoons of minced chives, according to quantity of potatoes and flavor desired. Serve while crisp and piping hot.

For Wednesday: Sautéed Parsnips. Wash and scrape the parsnips and cook in boiling salted water. Drain and toss in hot butter until lightly browned, adding a little chopped parsley, which gives a delightful flavor to parsnips.

For Thursday: Ris a la Grecque. Cook washed rice for 17 minutes in plenty of boiling salted water; strain it and let cold water run

RATE BODY DELAYS POWER HEARINGS

Public Service Commission Grants Long Postponement. The Georgia Public Service

Commission postponed yesterday until "the first part of next year" a hearing on commercial rates of the Georgia Power and Light Co.

The company, serving a large section of south Georgia, was cited to show cause why its commercial rates should not be reduced. A reduction in residential rates already has been ordered by the commission in an agreement with the company.

The commission also postponed until October 26 a hearing on application of the Southeastern Greyhound Lines, Inc., to operate a commuters' bus line from Marietta to Atlanta.

EVANGELINE BOOTH URGES 'GOOD WILL'

Salvation Army Commander Voices Pleas as She Leaves for East.

A plea for Atlanta's "good will and support" of the Salvation Army was voiced last night by General Evangeline Booth, world commander of the army, as she en-trained for New York at the close of the southern territorial congress here.

Calling upon the city to advance in the future as it did in the past, when it climbed from smoking ruins to a great city in 70 years, General Booth advised all to "follow after God and His Righteousness."

The world commander arrived here last Saturday and after viewing a parade of the hundreds of Salvation Army members gathered here, made two addresses last Sunday. She declared the congress here a "huge success."

Before sailing for England November 17, the general will conduct similar congresses in Chicago and several cities in Canada.

1,200 BUS DRIVERS ORDERED TO STRIKE FOR ONE CONTRACT

Executive Asks if Tie-up Is Planned to Benefit Railway Employees.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A strike against the eight affiliated Greyhound Bus Lines was called today by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to enforce demands for a blanket contract.

About 1,200 drivers were ordered to strike at 5 a. m. Sunday through a broad area bounded by St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Washington, Norfolk, Va.; Cincinnati and Louisville and including the New England states.

"We want one contract to cover all of the employees," said S. R. Harvey, assistant president of the union, who announced the order. Most of the brotherhood's members are railroad employees.

"This strike threat does not involve any refusal of the company to negotiate as to wages, hours and working conditions," countered S. R. Sundstrom, president of Pennsylvania Greyhound, in a letter to employees. "The company stands ready to negotiate."

"What is the purpose, then, of the strike? Is it to tie up bus operations and drive our passengers to our competitors for the benefit of railway employees?"

SIT-DOWN STRIKER COLLAPSES IN MINE
LANSDOWN, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP)—One of the sit-down strikers in the Coaldale Collier was carried from the mine on a stretcher today, suffering from exposure of two days and nights in a dark tunnel 1,300 feet below the surface.

Four first aid men of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company brought Peter Suda to the surface and removed him to his home. The 42 other miners remained huddled in the tunnel, threatening to extend their self-imposed imprisonment for higher wages until Christmas or "longer if necessary."

6,000 GAS EMPLOYEES ORDERED TO STRIKE
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A strike of 800 Brooklyn gasoline stations, employing 6,000 men, was ordered tonight by Walter J. Burke, president of local No. 20-408, of the Gasoline Station Attendants Union, to take effect Saturday morning.

The strike was ordered after the rejection of a contract offered the union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, by the Brooklyn Dealers Association.

MAYOR IS ELECTED AGAINST HIS WILL HEPHZIBAH Leader Chosen Without Knowledge.

HEPHZIBAH, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Leon Kelley is mayor of Hephzibah—but only in name. He was elected without his knowledge, without his consent, and, much against his will.

Kelley was named to the post by fellow-members of the town commission while he was in North Carolina. Now, he said today, he doesn't want the job; is willing to resign, but will serve the unexpired term of the late R. A. Landdell—"if they insist."

RICHMOND TEACHERS GET PAY INCREASES
AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Salary raises for teachers totaling $66,500 a year were voted by the Richmond County Board of Education last night, effective with tomorrow's pay roll.

Increases were from $200 up a year. Two jobs, those of principal of Turman school and president of the junior college, were reduced.

Minimum salaries for grammar teachers went up from $1,200 to $1,400; for high schools from $1,600 to $1,800 for women and $1,900 to $2,200 for men.

The board president, T. J. Fender, said the increases were based on an expectation the state will pay all the school aid promised to Richmond county—$172,000.

lettuce cups. This recipe is one of the most popular among housewives, and Mrs. Lohse is no exception. She likes it for informal suppers.

With sons and a young daughter, Mrs. Lohse is always on the qui vive for new ideas for picnics. The children are always ready for outdoor eating and there are a variety of "snacks" which mother may fix by a number of methods. With children still in school, the old-time picnic with boxes and baskets of lunch; hard-boiled eggs, pickles and cake is always a great favorite.

Raw Food for Picnics.

But there are other schools of thought along the picnic front. Many like to assemble raw food, a skillet, a coffee pot, and a bundle of kindling, and beside a purring stream and away a glowing campfire compose food fit for starving gods and goddesses, not to mention human beings.

Another method is to remove the steaming food prepared for dinner from stove top or oven and after wrapping it securely in papers one may dash away to some place where cool breezes sigh through leafy pine boughs.

The last method is a favorite for the domesticated man whose interest in cold food has reached the zero point. It's the family dinner eaten out of doors. So far Mrs. Lohse has confined her picnics to the box lunch and basket type, but she says:

"Now that Mr. Lohse and I have moved into our home, I hope that we will soon have an outdoor kitchen, where we can

an, confined long hours in the office, attributes good physical condition to the habit of eating an orange or an apple in mid-morning or afternoon as a supplement to light breakfast or luncheon. Too much cannot be said in favor of this habit which provides adequately for the body over a sustained period and eliminates the need for eating too much at regular meal times.

A Bite in the Office.
Where occupation is sedentary, hearty luncheon always leads to mental sluggishness. On the other hand—the too light breakfast or luncheon results in depleted mental and physical energies of a different sort. The use of fruit between meals cures both conditions and adds important vitamins to daily rations at very little cost.

Oranges, tangerines, apples, pears, grapes, grapefruit peeled and eaten in sections, plums and peaches in season are the most convenient fruits. It is pleasant to stop work or study for a few minutes and go down to the soda fountain for a glass of orange juice, but more expensive than eating fruit as natural, and doesn't get the same amount of roughage for the system in the first case.

In many schools fruit juices and fresh fruit are obtainable at recess periods. Some offices, too, permit a break in mid-morning and mid-afternoon, during which a picturesque fruit vendor goes about with basket piled high with fruits and nuts. Not in the modern office, where efficiency is supreme. We are more likely to find this custom in old-time newspaper rooms where irregular hours and high pressure work prevent many a person from even thinking of food at stated lunch time.

Still, there seems to be no reason why the fruit recess should not be justified on the same grounds as French, German and English business houses excuse their custom of afternoon coffee or tea.

IMMACULATE LINEN AN ESSENTIAL ITEM

laundry to keep her dining room well supplied with large oblong paper doilies and napkins of the better sort. Those that come in linen texture with embossed designs as pretty as any embroidery; they wear well, look crisp and clean and are a credit to any table. Napkins of three-ply tissue, soft and velvety, and finished with a scalloped edge, are bought to go with the luncheon sets.

A third woman has taught her little daughter, aged 10, the art of ironing linen and the child takes great pride in it. There is an electric washer in the house, so cleaning the soiled table linens is the work of a few minutes. Then daughter cheerfully polishes them off with the electric iron; mother pays her at the rate she'd have paid for paper cloth and napkins, everyone is happy, and the home table has spotless linen not twice a week, but every day.

EMORY GATEWAY DEDICATED TODAY

Ceremony To Be Held in Glenn Auditorium.

The recently finished memorial gateway leading to Emory University campus will be formally dedicated this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Glenn Memorial auditorium with Harvey W. Cox, president of the university, officiating.

Presented by Linton B. Robeson, the arch is dedicated to two former Emory presidents, Dr. Atticus G. Haygood and Dr. Isaac Hopkins. It is composed of two 17-foot marble pillars connected by an arch of Swedish iron. "Emory" is inscribed and will be illuminated by a hexagonal lamp.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, former chancellor of the university, will make the dedicatory address. Mr. Robeson will present the arch to Charles Howard Candler, chairman of the board of trustees.

Atlanta Woman Will Celebrate 100th Birthday

The friends and family of Mrs. Fannie A. Cosby believe that her 100th birthday tomorrow is deserving of more than just one day of celebration. It begins today with a reception and Sunday there'll be a party, and three-layered cake.

Having seen a century pass, the century-old lady of 1505 Boulevard drive, who prims like any schoolgirl will powder her nose and prepare for a "big" week end. She hopes to go to the Southeastern Fair.

Avowing that people have changed, Mrs. Cosby says that she doesn't know what the world is coming to unless people have more regards for each other's right and affections.

A resident of Atlanta for 35 years, Mrs. Cosby was born in Jasper county, near Monticello, October 9, 1837. She was married in 1858 and moved to Wilkes county in 1861, living there until coming to Atlanta.

The oldest member of the Inman Park Baptist church, she cannot explain her long life by any other way than that she has lived a "good life." "It's just the grace of God who has spared me," she said.

Five of her seven children are now living and she is proud of her 35 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

In perfect health, Mrs. Cosby eats anything she desires, including raw peanuts, meat, fruits and vegetables, but she does not like chocolate. She sleeps heartily and spends much of her time reading and playing with the children.

ROYSTON, Ga., Oct. 7.—Dr. M. M. Vaughan escaped unhurt, but his wife suffered severe cuts about the face and neck late this afternoon when the car in which they were en route to the funeral of an automobile crash victim collided with a machine occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. Dr. and Mrs. Vaughan, it was reported, were on their way to attend rites for N. J. Ware, assistant postmaster at Franklin Springs, who was killed in an auto accident yesterday. The crash occurred as they drove onto the main highway from a side thoroughfare.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES

The salad is a picture—and the garnish the frame—when you follow the fall trend in salad fashions. Contrast in flavor, color and texture—the three "musts" of the salad art—are also shown in this molded banana gelatin salad. Your favorite flavored gelatin (there's a whole gamut of colors to choose from) with slices of smooth, fully ripe bananas in the gelatin for a grand flavor combination, and additional banana slices all around it to "frame" the mold, are the secrets of this pretty picture.

Tempting, attractive and delicious, this salad is also quick, easy and inexpensive to make, as the recipe given here proves. Serve in a large mold or in small individual molds, and for full, rich flavor be sure to use fully ripe bananas—those with a brown-flecked yellow peel.

Banana Gelatin Dessert.
Prepare gelatin according to directions on the package. Chill. Place slices of banana in an attractive arrangement in the gelatin mold. When gelatin mixture is slightly thickened, pour into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold gelatin. Arrange banana slices, with or without other fruit in an attractive design around the base of the mold.

Does your family ever become "finicky" about eating vegetables? And don't you tire of serving the same old carrots, or peas, or beans day after day? You needn't, you know. There are so many tempting variations—ways of preparing vegetables to make them the "highlight" of the meal. And now with fall here, and summer sal-

1-2 cup cream
1 cup milk
2 eggs
2-3 cup brown sugar

1-2 tsp. salt
Pastry shell
Wash, scrape and cut the carrots; cook until tender in boiling water to cover. Drain and force through sieve, using 1-2 cups pulp. Scald milk and cream; beat eggs, add milk gradually, then sugar, ginger, cinnamon and allspice (mixed together). Add salt and dates. Mix all and pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 minutes, reduce to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 30 minutes longer, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

CANNED FOODS HAVE RECOGNIZED VALUE

have been discontinued, since canners are now able to retain the natural color of the fruits without them.
As far as flavor is concerned, the difference between canned foods and the raw product is much the same as between cooked and raw foods. No one expects the flavor of the two to be identical, but the fact that most canned foods undergo their principal cooking process after the can is sealed helps to a great extent to preserve the natural flavor.

Serve Hot or Cold.
Canned foods are already cooked and can be served, either hot or cold without the necessity of further cooking to make them palatable or digestible. They can easily be given whatever additional seasoning is desired. They have been peeled, sorted or trimmed, as each may require, so that there is no waste and the entire contents of the can are nutritious and wholesome. When one takes this fact into consideration, it is obvious that our modern canned foods are comparatively economical as well as nutritious and healthful.

EXPERT DEBUNKS CLIMATE AS 'CURE' FOR TUBERCULOSIS

By AL HALEY.

The old idea that climate is the sovereign element in the treatment and cure of tuberculosis was debunked last night by Dr. Paul H. Ringer, noted tuberculosis specialist, of Asheville, N. C., before the semi-annual scientific meeting of the Fifth District Medical Society.

There has been a change in the evaluation of the importance of fresh air, Dr. Ringer said. He explained that from the old belief in climate as the ruling element the pendulum has swung to another extreme just as absurd—that climate has no influence on the course of tuberculosis.

Dr. Ringer said physicians now realize pure, freely circulating air, even by artificial means, can be just as helpful as the old idea which kept tubercular patients out in sub-zero weather for the sake of fresh air in the natural sense.

Evolution of Treatment. Tracing the evolution of treatment of tuberculosis from the quick treatments of the ancients whose prescriptions included "eating the middle of a snake" and wearing a "mole's right foot" to the contemporary conception of rest as a cure, Dr. Ringer said that rest is the "cornerstone" of treatment.

"With our modern idea of rest as the cornerstone upon which must be based the treatment of all tuberculosis, whether medical or surgical, it is interesting to note how often this element was mentioned by ancient, mediaeval and modern writers before receiving its accolade at the hands of contemporary authors," Dr. Ringer said.

He then outlined steps taken through the years indicating even the ancients realized the value of rest as treatment for tuberculosis. But the present-day conception of rest is different, he added, pointing out physicians now advocate an "independent" type of rest in which the patient does not remain entirely confined to his bed as the ancients would have him do.

Sanatoriums "Better." In regard to treatment of tuberculosis in the home as opposed to treatment at sanatoriums, Dr. Ringer said it is surprising that with progress made people still look upon tuberculosis sanatoriums as comparatively new. "Physicians today are convinced that treatment in a sanatorium is far better than home treatment," he said. "Not only are facilities better but there is less chance for contact with others and spreading of the disease."

Dr. Ringer, along with Dr. Al-

Just 'Imbroglia,' Nanking Decides

NANKING, Oct. 7.—(UP)—The Chinese-Japanese hostilities have been called everything but a "war" so far by government officials and official news agencies on both sides.

The terms used included "conflict," "invasion," "defense," "pacification" and "fighting."

Today the foreign office called it an "imbroglia."

Speaking on "Surgery in Diseases of the Heart," Dr. Blalock brought out that diagnosis and classifications of heart diseases have progressed rapidly in recent years.

Old conceptions of treatment have changed, and although surgical treatment of angina pectoris still is in unsatisfactory stages new steps are being taken daily, he said.

Illustrates With Slides. Dr. Blalock illustrated his talk on surgery with slides and a brief motion picture showing the results of heart surgery in which a man's heart had to be left exposed following the operation. Slow motion close-ups showed the actual beating of the heart.

Other prominent physicians on the program included Dr. H. Cliff Sauls, president of the Fulton County Medical Society; Dr. George A. Traylor, president of the Medical Association of Georgia; Dr. George W. Fuller, professor of clinical surgery at Emory University; Dr. William G. Hamm, visiting surgeon at Georgia Baptist and Emory University hospitals; and Dr. Grady Copeland, president-elect of the Medical Association of Georgia.

Officers of the Fifth District Society were unanimously re-elected to serve another term in a business meeting following the program. The officers are Dr. Olin S. Coker, president; Dr. Cyrus W. Strickler Jr., vice president; Dr. D. Henry Poer, secretary-treasurer; Dr. W. A. Selman, councilor; and Dr. Marion C. Pruitt, vice councilor.

Life of Ease Deserted for Home in Atlanta

He delivers bread in Atlanta rather than return to Greece where he has more than $100,000 in the bank in his name. Charlie Zakas admits that he "likes America and Americans" and would rather live here and drive a truck than to return to his native land where he could live like a king.

Atlanta Greek Gives Up Riches For Job as Bakery Truck Driver

Charles Zakas Leaves $100,000 in Bank in Homeland, Brings Family Back Here to Modest Life as Employee at Plant Where He Once Was Boss.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Driving a truck in America is more alluring to Charles D. Zakas than living on riches in Greece.

Zakas loves America and though he has $100,000 in his native Greece, he prefers living in Atlanta on the scant income of a bakery truck driver.

The young Greek had a hard decision to make. He could stay in Greece, live in a palace, ride a limousine, spend money freely or he could come back to America a pauper.

Greek laws prevent withdrawal of Greek money from the homeland.

$100,000 in Homeland. Zakas took his choice. He returned with his family to America on the little money the Greek government gave him for passage, leaving $100,000 in the homeland. He has never benefited from it unless he returns to Greece.

The truck driver first came to America as a lad of 13 years. As an uncle lived in Atlanta, he came here. His uncles owned a bakery where he began work. Charles learned the bakery business and was made junior partner.

Years passed and Charles sold his interests in 1923. He traveled and spent two years in New York before returning to Atlanta again. He returned, repurchased his bakery interests and went back to work.

In 1933 he tired of the bakery business again. The homeland was calling. With his wife and two children, Charles Zakas returned to Greece, taking their American-made money with them.

Exchanged Currency. Once in Greece, Charles Zakas exchanged his United States currency for Greek notes and put them in a Greek bank. Once in it could never be taken out except for expenses in Greece.

Zakas wasn't satisfied long. America called. He sailed back—a pauper with $100,000 in the bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Zakas, and three

HAMILTON FISH HITS U. S. POLICY

Congressman Scores Address of Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish, Republican, New York, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, said today that when President Roosevelt "proposes to quarantine nations like Japan, Germany and Italy, or join in sanctions, he ceases to speak for the vast majority of Americans who have definitely made up their minds not to fight other people's battles."

Accusing the President of trying "to divert the minds of the people from the supreme court and the Black appointment," Fish said the only way to keep out of war is "to enforce the neutrality act and mind our own business instead of meddling in ancient foreign blood feuds."

IDLE COUNT CLICKS

Results Pour in Before Census Even Starts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The National Unemployment Census office began getting results from its jobless count today although the census won't even begin until next month.

Several newspapers have published reproductions of the questionnaires which postmen will distribute November 16 and 17. Unemployed persons have begun filling in these reproductions, clipped from the newspapers, and sending them here. Today's first mail brought 11 of them.

One of those who filled out a form appended a note saying he was afraid the postman might overlook him in the official distribution. Census officials said there was no chance of this, that the cards will be delivered to every home in the country.

CIO-AFL WAR SPOTS N. Y. MAYOR'S RACE

Federation Unit Quits La Guardia to Support Mahoney.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—It became increasingly apparent tonight that New York's mayoralty campaign would bring about a major collision between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The signal for a break in the labor front, which had been backing Mayor F. H. La Guardia for re-election, appears to have been sounded by CIO Chairman John J. Lewis Monday night when he said he hoped the mayor would be returned to office.

Within 24 hours, Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association and vice chairman of the AFL committee for the re-election of Mayor La Guardia, announced he was switching his support to the Democratic nominee, Jeremiah T. Mahoney.

La Guardia's strategists, who regard his endorsement by the American Labor party as one of his chief assets, privately expressed a fear that other local AFL leaders might follow suit.

Ryan, whose organization claims a membership of 35,000, said he was abandoning La Guardia in favor of Mahoney because of the mayor's Communist support.

Leaders of the CIO unions and the American Labor party were quick to retort. Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers' Union, said:

"Joe Ryan has finally exposed himself as a 'stooge' for Tammany Hall and reaction."

Others said Ryan was angry because La Guardia had refused to use the police in his favor during the recent labor disturbances on the waterfront.

NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE POINTS TO DETROIT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Labor's Non-Partisan League said today the success of a labor candidate in Detroit's municipal election Tuesday was "only a curtain raiser" for its political activity in the 1938 congressional elections.

Patrick H. O'Brien, endorsed by the Committee for Industrial Organization, was second in the mayoralty primary and will oppose Richard W. Reading, city clerk, in the election November 2.

E. L. Oliver, executive vice president of the league, said in a formal statement:

"We consider the Detroit election to be an indication of what can be done in every industrial city in America when labor is properly organized for political action."

"Labor's Non-Partisan League will assist in the development of similar political activities throughout the country."

SOVIET RESCUE PLANE FLIES OVER NORTH POLE

MOSCOW, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A Russian searching party flew over the North Pole in arctic twilight today in a fruitless quest for Sigismund Levanesky and his five companions, who disappeared last August on a trans-polar flight to the United States.

Mikhail Vodopyanoff, noted Russian arctic flyer, piloted the four-engined search plane, which left Rudolf island, 560 miles from the pole, at 6:21 p. m. Wednesday (Atlanta time).

"Camay's gentle lather will Glorify your Skin"

SAYS THIS CHARMING NEW JERSEY BRIDE

MAPLEWOOD, N. J.

Foolish to have skin that's "just average"—when having really lovely skin makes such a difference in good looks! Camay's gentle lather seems to glorify my skin—keeps it smooth and clear!

Sincerely,
(Signed) DIANA LEWIS
(Mrs. Salim L. Lewis)

September 2, 1937

WHEN the music starts to play and the dancing begins—you'll always notice men gather around the girl with the loveliest skin! "It happens at club dances time after time," says charming Mrs. Lewis. "And I always wonder why every girl doesn't have a lovely skin! It's so easy if you use Camay!"

A charming young bride with an active social life needs a beauty care that's effective, but that's simple, too. "I have no worries when I use Camay!" Mrs. Lewis tells you. "There's no worry about time, no worry about results, Camay always keeps skin smooth."

If you've had any worries about your beauty care, perhaps you don't know this: No soap has the same rich lather Camay has. In every cake are millions of tiny bubbles that were made to get skin clean. Camay removes grime and dirt from deep in the pores.

No beauty soap on the market today is ges-ster than Camay. Tests have been made against all well-known toilet soaps on every type of skin. And time after time Camay has come out on top—definitely, provably milder.

And though no other beauty soap is better than Camay, you'll find Camay very low in price. Why don't you buy half a dozen cakes today? You'll find what thousands of girls are saying is true... "Camay keeps skin lovely!"

DOES WINTER BRING YOU A SERIES OF SNIFFLES?

1 Winter is a trying season. Colds and other infections abound in every crowded place. Too often, people permit common constipation to lower their energy, and get them in a "run-down" condition.

2 Make sure every member of your family keeps regular habits. For a healthy person has better resistance to colds and other germs. Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a ready-to-eat cereal—regularly for regularity.

3 This test shows how ALL-BRAN relieves constipation. Soak a glassful of ALL-BRAN in water 15 minutes. ALL-BRAN absorbs water like a sponge. Feed the water-softened mass. This mass aids elimination from the colon.

Help your family keep well this winter

Go into this winter feeling at your best. Remember, common constipation can cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy.

Relieve constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This food forms a soft mass within the colon— aids regular elimination. Unlike certain pills and drugs, it is not habit-forming or griping.

ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to help intestinal tone and iron for the blood. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In chronic cases, with each meal. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into recipes.

Buy this food at your grocer's. It will help your family keep well this winter. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

"You'll have to tell me about him," Ethel said. "I've never had much to do with kids. Oh, hello, I know who this is!"

Jimmy, flushed from his school morning, had come in to stand beside his mother and look curiously at the strange lady.

"This is Jimmy," Jimmy said simply. She put one arm about him; he rubbed his head affectionately against her cheek.

"Well, aren't you the big boy!" Ethel said admiringly.

"I'm not as big as George," Jimmy said.

"Are you an awfully good boy?" Ethel asked. "Are you going to do everything I tell you?"

Jimmy twisted about to look in bewilderment at his mother. "Am I, mum?" he asked.

"I guess you haven't told him anything," Ethel said in surprise.

"How'd you like," she said to the child, "to come down south with daddy and me and see how they make movies?"

"My father's in Philadelphia," Jimmy said, puzzled.

Gloria caught the other woman's eye and faintly shook her head. "Dad's here now, Jimmy, and quite sick," she explained.

"We can't any of us see him until he's much better."

"Dad is?" Jimmy spoke in the mysterious whisper which, at 4, indicates excitement. "Is he better?"

"Oh, yes, he's better. And you can see him soon. . . . Now run and ask Carmela to help you clean up and I'll have your lunch ready when you come down. . . . I've never told him," Gloria said to Ethel when they were alone. "As far as he's concerned I hope there won't be any change. As far as I'm with him. And if you'll tell me why I'm so cracked about him," Ethel interpolated, stopping for a little breathless laugh. "I'll be obliged to you, for I don't know! But I know that the one thing Peter Rudd loves in this world is that child! And when I was taking care of him while he was sick I'd talk as if he and I could have a little place and have Jimmy with us, and that's what he wanted! Oh, he likes me!"

Ethel finished honestly, "he thinks I'm nice, all that! But I mean I'm the one that's in love. So that's why I'm taking all this trouble to find out about Jimmy. He's healthy, isn't he?"

Whether Gloria answered in words or whether she answered at all, she did not know. Her spirit was sick within her. After a while Ethel had peeped into the sick-room and, finding Peter in a half-dozed, had departed, to be with her friend, Gladys Moulton, in San Francisco, for a few days anyway, until the worst of Peter's relapse should be over. Gloria breathed easier when she was gone.

Peter turned the corner on a languid, spring evening five days later. He had been very close to death; he looked ghastly when he had had a shave and was propped in pillows. But he was eager, anxious to be up, hungry for milk toast. When Gloria came in in the soft light of sunset he was alone and could look up and smile at her.

"You're better," she said, sitting down beside the bed. "You've finished, haven't you?" She put the tray on a near-by chair, turned back to the man in the bed. "This time you've got to take care of yourself."

She looked at him, saw that he could not speak. His lips were quivering and his eyes brimming with tears. He put out a thin, cool hand and she put her own hand into it, and for a while neither found anything to say. Gloria was afraid of stirring him too deeply. Peter was struggling with all an invalid's weakness to master himself.

"I've dreamed so often of seeing you again and holding your hand!" he presently whispered. "I've known—oh, for months—that I was going to be ill and that if I could only get here I'd be better. Just to smell the garden again, now when everything's in bloom, and to see the leaves rustling! Now—now I'm so weak that I can't talk," Peter faltered. "But it's so—so good to see you again and to hear the way you speak—not like any one else . . ."

There was a silence. Gloria laid the fingers of her free hand over his two weak cool ones. She tried to smile encouragingly; the smile would not come.

"Ethel was awfully kind to me. She is kind," Peter said.

"Kind-hearted," Gloria agreed. "Oh, kind-hearted!" He took it up with weak eagerness. "And I was so sick," he added, almost pleadingly.

What did he expect her to say? What did he expect her to say? Gloria felt the utter falseness, the absurdity of the moment; she and Peter agreeing that Ethel Miller was kind! But she could not talk seriously to him now; he was feeble as he knew; he was still hovering between the two worlds. And he must get well. The solution of her problem was not to have Peter die. That would be to have forever—more a sense of failure!

"Gloria, what's going to happen?" he asked, with a child's pathetic confidence.

"I don't know," she said slowly. . . . "And God knows," she added in her heart, "that's true!"

There was an interruption; the hall doorknob clicked. Gloria, with consternation in her heart, looked at it as it slipped and twisted in the uncertain grasp of some one outside.

The suspense lasted for but a few seconds. Then the door opened and Jimmy was peeping anxiously into the room.

"Mummy," he began, in a respectfully lowered tone. "I fought you were in here because I saw you comin' along this hall—"

He stopped. There was an electric pause. Then the child gave a shout and came running to the bed.

"Daddy!" he shouted. "Mummy, it's Daddy! Oh, Daddy, we missed you so!"

The fair, small, tawny head and the sleekly combed dark one touched; Jimmy's wet cheek was against his father's cheek.

"My old boy!" Peter's voice said hoarsely, trembling. "My little old scout!"

The suddenness with which her house of life had come, like a pack of cards, tumbling about her ears, dazed Gloria. At one moment she had felt herself all-powerful in regard to her own affairs. At the next she was merely one more burdened and frightened woman in a world of burdened and frightened women, driven to the wall, desperate, faced with danger in whatever direction she looked.

2 DEPUTIES ORDERED ON GUARD IN STRIKE AT SPRING COMPANY

Officers to Enforce Court Edict Against Strikers; 20 City Policemen on Duty.

Two special deputies from the office of the Fulton county sheriff's office will take up posts at the Southern Spring Bed Company this morning to see that a court order in effect against strikers at the plant is not violated.

Sheriff J. I. Lowry was directed to detail two or more deputies to the plant by Judge Paul S. Etheridge yesterday.

The bed company's petition for an injunction to halt alleged "lawless intimidation and coercion" of non-union workers at the plant by strikers was set for a special hearing at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Illness Brings Delay.
Scheduled to be heard yesterday, the case was set for Monday because of the illness of Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, conducting the non-jury division in which the hearing was to be held.

Harold M. Hirsch, attorney for the bed company, appeared in court yesterday requesting an emergency hearing. Members of the CIO-affiliated union on strike are violating the temporary orders restraining them from interfering with non-union workers, Hirsch charged.

After a conference with three other superior court judges Judge Etheridge announced the special hearing and indicated the contempt proceedings against Woodrow Smith, one of the strikers, would be heard at the same time.

Cited for Contempt.
Smith was cited for contempt Wednesday after reported interference with workers who sought to return to their jobs. Attorney D. F. McClatchey, of Harold M. Hirsch's office, brought the charges against Smith.

Deputies O. J. Stanley and Lee Whatley, from the sheriff's office, will be stationed at the plant during the opening and closing hours. Twenty city police have already been assigned to stand guard at the same time.

A temporary restraining order was placed in effect against members of the local lodge of the CIO-affiliated Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America September 22 upon petition brought by owners of the plant.

Several of the strikers were recently indicted by the grand jury for the reported acts of violence.

Georgia's Song Is All 'Greek' To Legislators

Georgia legislators of future generations shouldn't be caught in the same predicament as members of the present general assembly—unable to sing the state's official song.

Covers being printed for all of the approximately 7,000,000 free school texts carry the words of the song and will be before the school children of the state regularly.

The red-faced moment for the 1937 general assembly came at a joint house and senate meeting to observe Georgia Day. The program called for the singing of "Georgia," official song by act of the legislature.

"America" had to be substituted rather rapidly when it developed nobody knew the song in either house or senate.

The front of the school cover also carries reproductions of the state's official flag, bird (brown thrasher), tree (live oak), and flower (Cherokee rose).

The back of the cover carries both national and Confederate flags, a reproduction of the state capitol dome, and open Bible and the seal of Georgia.

It also has the following inscription: "Governor E. D. Rivers and the 1937 general assembly made it possible for you to use this book free—please take good care of it."
